TRIBUNE TO AID U. S. IN HUNT FOR EXPORT TRADE

Foreign Staff Will Seek Facts.

THE TRIBUNE yesterday began a job which, it believes, will be of far reaching importance to Chicagoland and all the United States.

All members of the farflung staff of THE TRIBUNE'S foreign service were instructed to begin immediately seeking the answers to these questions:

WHAT does the country where you are stationed import from other countries that the United States could supply to it?

WHAT reciprocal tariffs could America make with that country to increase trade?

To Help Regain Foreign Trade.

It has been the work of THE TRIBUNE'S foreign correspondents in the past only to gather and send news from the various countries where they are stationed. Beginning yesterday—Christmas day—they took on the added job of helping America regain its foreign trade. This trade once amounted to eight billion dollars a year.

THE TRIBUNE'S foreign correspondents are peculiarly equipped to do this job. Every chief correspondent is an American citizen and an American trained newspaper man. Most of the minor correspondents are also Americans.

For years they have been giving TRIBUNE readers news of foreign lands through American eyes. It has been news obtained by careful and impartial reporting, free from the vast amount of insidious propaganda which constantly seeks to color news from every land outside America's borders.

Free of Biased Opinion.

These men and women know, because of long years of experience, how to get facts, how to get underneath the camouflage of propaganda, deceit, and intrigue. Therefore their dispatches on the prospects of the United States in various countries to regain or develop export trade will be based on solid facts, free of biased opinion, and will present a clear picture of actual conditions.

This information is certain to be a great value to the government and American business men.

Writers Get Assignments.

JOHN STEELE, London bureau, will be in charge of investigations in Great Britain, the Irish Free State, Northern Ireland, Denmark, Norway, and Sweden.

DAVID DARRAH, Rome bureau—Italy, Austria, Hungary, and Jugo-Slavia.

EUGENE SPECK, Balkan bureau—Greece, Turkey, Bulgaria, and Rumania.

Similar instructions were sent to TRIBUNE correspondents in South America, China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Canada, and a number of other nations.

Staff correspondents will be sent to Mexico, where the correspondent's post is vacant at present, to the Antilles, and to other points which are not covered by regular correspondents.

Speaks to Chicago Audience.

The importance which economists attach to export trade in bringing about the return of prosperity to America was cited recently by Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of the Brookings Institution of Washington, D. C.

In a speech before a Chicago audience he said:

"The events of the last two or three years have conclusively demonstrated the close economic interdependency of the entire world. The repercussions of the economic and financial collapse of Germany and Austria, for example, in the spring of 1931, were quickly felt around the world. In the United States the effects were immediately manifested in an extraordinary decline in the value of securities and the gold standard itself was threatened. The effects upon agriculture and industry were equally pronounced. Our present

THE FORGOTTEN MAN

CHRISTMAS SERVICE HELD BENEATH GIANT REDWOOD, 264 FT. HIGH

General Grant National Park, Cal., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Here at the base of a giant redwood tree 5,000 years old, the "nation's Christmas tree," scores of San Joaquin valley residents celebrated today the birth of Christ.

Amid wintry surroundings, but warmed by bright sunshine, a program of carols and songs was climaxed by Christmas messages from Gov. James Rolph Jr. of California and President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Your beautiful Christmas tree celebration is most appropriate," said Mr. Roosevelt. "I am sorry I cannot participate."

The General Grant redwood, rising 264 feet, stood tall and strong when the Three Wise Men came to Bethlehem. It is near the center of the park, 6,700 feet above sea level.

The services included a hymn composed under the tree on his portable organ by Charles Wakefield Cadman. The words were written by Mrs. Grace Osborn Wharton of Fresno, Cal.

VOLCANO ERUPTS, TIDAL WAVE HITS PHILIPPINES; 9 DIE

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 26 [Tuesday].—(AP)—At least nine deaths and much property damage were reported from a volcanic eruption and a typhoon and tidal wave in the Philippine islands today.

The bureau of posts reported four bodies recovered and many persons missing in Sorsogon province of southeast Luzon after the Bulusan volcano erupted. Later Senator José Vera reported by telegraph that nine bodies had been found. Many houses along the banks of the Irosin river were reported carried away by a flood of sulphurous water pouring from the volcano.

Dispatches from Zamboanga in Mindanao province said a typhoon and tidal wave had damaged the government owned sea wall there.

12 BELOW FOILS 2 BLOODHOUNDS; NOSES FROZEN

La Crosse, Wis., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The cold wave today confounded two of Sheriff Albert Riley's bloodhounds as they bayed along a hot scent.

Alfred Gilster, a farmer, was awakened by a prowler in the house. Gilster caught the man and locked him in a room. But as the farmer hunted for his shotgun the intruder broke a window and raced away over snow-covered fields.

It was 12 below when Sheriff Riley arrived with two bloodhounds. The animals started eagerly, with noses scooping the snow. But within half a mile the chase was off, the noses of both dogs being frozen.

Chicago Gets a White Yule Even if Late

Chicago and suburbs received a belated white Christmas last night, the first in years, that brought joy to youngsters and adults alike. The snowfall began late in the afternoon, following a severe cold snap that dropped the mercury to an official 7 degrees above zero at 6 and 7 a. m. This made yesterday one of the coldest Christmases since 1903, when 2 below was recorded.

More snow and more cold are predicted for today. J. R. Lloyd, government forecaster, said last night that the snow probably would continue until noon today, piling up a possible 4 inch depth. This afternoon, he said, the temperature will decline again and by tomorrow may reach zero.

By midnight last night the snow had laid a 3 inch blanket in the suburbs and a heavy coating in city streets. The surface lines kept their tracks clear with 200 extra work crews, employing about 800 men. It was estimated the crews would use close to 100 tons of salt by morning. Railroad companies reported that their traffic was not impeded.

38 Below in Canada.

The cold and snow that struck the city yesterday and last night came out of the Canadian northwest. Temperatures fell as low as 38 degrees below zero in some Canadian towns and 20 to 24 degrees in several American communities. Snow covered Iowa, most of the Dakotas, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Illinois and parts of Indiana, Michigan and Missouri.

Early yesterday the full force of the frigid blasts out of the northwest hit here. After 7 a. m. there was a gradual rise until at 7 o'clock last night the mercury reached 22 above. The rise in temperature was accompanied by the snow, which started lazily but grew heavier during the night.

Today, Mr. Lloyd said, the temperature might go as high as 20 or 35 above, but for only a brief duration.

Another on the Way.

"There is another cold wave up in Montana and in the Dakotas that appears on its way here as a continuation of Sunday's early cold," he said last night. Tuesday afternoon it should get colder and be about 10 above Tuesday night. Wednesday morning should see zero weather in Chicago."

The cold resulted in several fires caused by overheated furnaces. One fire, for which a 5-11 alarm was sounded, destroyed the S. & S. Bag and Burlap plant at 2020 Lake street.

The temperature varied in the suburbs. In downtown Chicago the low was 7 above. Willow Springs and Morton Grove reported even zero, while River Forest, Melrose Park, Wilmette, Evanston, and Oak Park reported from 2 to 7 above.

5,000 COMMUNITIES TO HONOR ROOSEVELT BIRTHDAY ON JAN. 30

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—At least 5,000 communities are expected to honor President Roosevelt on his birthday Jan. 30, according to an announcement today by the national committee for the birthday ball for the President.

The proceeds from the many affairs are to be used to create a permanent endowment for the nation-wide work of the Warm Springs Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

More than 500 trade unions will cooperate.

THOUSANDS LINE TOKIO STREETS AS MIKADO APPEARS

TOKIO, Dec. 26 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Silent thousands of Japanese subjects lined the route taken by Emperor Hirohito today in a procession of state from the royal palace to the parliament building for the formal opening of the diet.

There were many more than usual, and their reverence gave evidence of the intensified popular homage for the reigning house following the birth of the crown prince Saturday.

The procession is one of the most colorful state pageants surviving in the modern world, brilliant with the cavalry's scarlet pennons and the gold and scarlet trappings of the horse-drawn carriages in which the emperor and his court were conveyed. United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew and other diplomats in the galleries of the peers' chamber witnessed the ceremony in which the emperor declared the session open.

96, SHE RECALLS STORY OF SUMTER FIGHT IN TRIBUNE

Among readers who scanned the 16 facsimiles of "Page Ones" of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, recording history making events of the last 72 years, was Mrs. Charlotte Prentiss Browning, 96 years old.

Mrs. Browning, who is the mother of Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, remembers all the great happenings recorded, beginning with the attack on Fort Sumter on April 13, 1861, reported in THE TRIBUNE of April 15, 1861.

Meanwhile her son-in-law, Mr. Loesch, seated beside Mrs. Browning in the Loesch apartments in the Drake hotel, turned the pages quickly to his favorite news story of all time, he says, the account of Commodore George Dewey's victory over the Spanish fleet in Manila harbor, in THE TRIBUNE of May 3, 1898.

ARTISTS HIRED BY UNCLE SAM PAINT AT ZOO

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—A benevolent government under the New Deal is reaching into long neglected places to spread the benefits of the millions being spent for relief.

In the course of this new policy, it is regarded as inevitable that many changes in the old social order must result. But those changes are even more far reaching than has been thought.

For example, artists, along with Victor Hugo, used to think that "art needs no spur beyond itself." But in New York City 80 struggling painters have found a new spur, and at a uniform wage scale of $34 for a 30 hour week are executing commissions to prepare murals, etchings and paintings for various public buildings.

To Hire 600 Artists.

Three hundred artists have applied for work in New York alone, and they, with others up to a total of 600, will be hired. They are all to be workers among four million in the nation on the pay roll of the civil works administration.

Mrs. Juliana Force, chairman of the "New York regional committee of the public works of art," gives some idea of the extent to which artists have strayed away from the Hugo philosophy.

She says, with reference to the $34 weekly wage:

"I can't recall any other time at which artists were willing to work for so little."

Art for 700 Snakes.

In Washington the public buildings are fairly well decorated already, but the Washington regional committee has assigned three jobless artists, Garratt Jax, J. Lee Funk, and R. L. McDermott under the CWA to paint backgrounds for the serpents' cages in the capital zoo. Already their sketches for a Cuban forest, a Hindu temple, a mangrove swamp, a West African forest, and an Arizona desert have been approved, and soon the snakes will curl in these more artistic surroundings. For the present they are locked up.

In Illinois the regional committee had anounced that no discrimination would be made among the various schools of art—academic, impressionist, cubist, futurist, and modernist. But now there is some question about the artistic appreciation of certain Illinoisians. Would it be wise to cover the wall of the postoffice at Mattoon with a mural of futuristic figures unrecognizable except to the initiated?

Becomes Art Arbiter.

These problems will be solved quickly, however, for Mr. Forbes Watson, technical director of the public works of art, already has formed his office and staff in the treasury building here.

Mr. Watson is passing upon controversies as they are presented.

Mr. Watson's director of public relations, Miss Ann Cratet, typed out a press release the other day, outlining the scope of the relief-for-artists work and naming the regional directors in sixteen districts of the country. The average wage scale has been fixed at between $30 and $35 for a 30 hour week, depending upon the locality served.

Musicians Also Aided.

Musicians are being well cared for also by the government. Approving the idea of putting musicians on the CWA rolls, Harvey L. Hopkins, relief administrator, said: "I would like to see more recreation. I am all for brass bands. Details for the employment of idle musicians should be worked out with the local organization.

"It will be necessary to take the matter up here in Washington. I think it is one of the most important things that could be done. I would like to see orchestras in beer gardens."

Mr. Hopkins let the thought sink in a minute, and then he added:

"And the idea of orchestras in beer gardens doesn't frighten me to death, either. The people ought to be encouraged to go to wholesome gardens to spend a pleasant afternoon."

CWA Jobs for Bandsmen.

In Baltimore, where the idea of hiring musicians at federal pay first dawned, 135 bandsmen will get CWA jobs at $30 a week for thirteen 30 hour weeks. Of the total 85 will be white and 50 will be colored.

Battle Flames in 2 Suburbs; Paintings Burn

Fires gave thrills to spectators and chills to firemen in two suburbs yesterday. In St. Charles, damage estimated at more than $80,000 was caused when flames swept through the building containing shops and offices and the J. F. Colson & Co. department store on Main street. A number of valuable paintings, three of which belonged to the John W. Gates estate, were destroyed.

In Highland Park, where there were four fires, a dozen tuxedo clad men helped firemen battle one of the blazes.

The St. Charles department store stock was ruined and the modern structure fronting nearly a block was nearly a total loss, according to Harold C. Colson, president of the company.

Paintings on Exhibition.

Four of the paintings belonged to Herbert P. Crane of St. Charles and were on display during the holiday season on the first floor of the department store. The three paintings belonging to the Gates estate were in the offices of his brother-in-law, R. F. Angell, on the second floor of the building. The heiress to the Gates millions, Mrs. Lester Norris, the former Dellora Gates Angell, lives in St. Charles.

Firemen from Geneva, Aurora, and Elgin were summoned to aid the St. Charles volunteer firemen. At midnight, eight hours after the fire began, they were still pumping water on the ruins.

Capt. Herbert Reiss and Chauffeur Albert Burkholder of the Aurora department escaped injury when their truck swerved off the snowy road and crashed into a pile of railroad ties at St. Charles. They proceeded to the fire on foot. Arthur Roehlk, a member of the St. Charles force, was rescued by other local firemen after he was overcome by smoke in the store.

Volunteers Save Furniture.

The Highland Park volunteers in dinner jackets were led by Richard J. Loewenthal of 630 Waverly avenue, Highland Park. They pulled out most of the furnishings from the burning twenty room residence of H. K. Hottenstein at 912 South Sheridan road in the suburb. Mr. Hottenstein, who is western manager for the Iron Age magazine, returned home from the theater late in the evening. He estimated the damage to the building and furnishings at $14,000.

The other Highland Park fires which kept Chief Edward C. Hosking and his men busy, and the damage caused by each, were: Home of Benedict K. Goodman, 336 Hazel avenue, $4,000; home of Mrs. E. A. Parks, 360 Walker avenue, $2,500; and the home of Shelby Brown, 337 Laurel avenue, $100.

Beaubien, Feared Kidnaped, Returns Safely to Home

I. L. Beaubien, 73 years old, member of a pioneer Chicago family, returned to his home at 4453 North Ashland avenue yesterday after an absence of 36 hours during which relatives feared he might have been kidnaped or ended his life. William Pruitt, of 1829 Montrose avenue, a former associate of Mr. Beaubien saw him sitting in the Uptown elevated station at Wilson avenue and Broadway Sunday night. On the way home Pruitt read the story of Beaubien's disappearance and notified the man's wife who found him early yesterday.

POLICE LAUNCH THE CLEANUP AT MAYOR'S ORDER

Recommend Closing of Two Saloons.

Carrying out Mayor Kelly's orders for enforcement of existing liquor regulations, the police yesterday recommended that the licenses of two liquor shops be revoked. The saloon owners in question—one on the north side and the other on the west side—are charged with harboring hoodlums or being associated with them.

This move by the police is regarded as the forerunner of more drastic steps which, under the mayor's direction, may result in wholesale closing of undesirable places. It means, also, that until permanent and more definite state and local laws are enacted the police will take into their hands—under the mayor's eyes—the job of weeding out these undesirable drinking places.

Most Taverns Reputable.

Police officials said last night that the vast majority of tavern owners are reputable and cater to decent patronage. Whatever trouble has been caused thus far, they said, has been due to a few disreputable ones, some of which are already preparing to close voluntarily.

The orders given the police on liquor regulation are definite, and they apply to the whole force from district commanders down to patrolmen. Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman intend, it is said, to hold every policeman to strict accountability in seeing that shady taverns or cafés shall not exist.

Up to the Tavern Owners.

"The mayor is determined that hoodlums shall not operate or frequent drinking places in Chicago," declared a city hall chief last night. "It's up to the tavern owners to be cautious of their trade. A hoodlum customer will mean a license revocation as quickly as a hoodlum owner will mean the same thing. The police understand this fully. Right now they're inspecting every tavern in the city, even those of iron clad respectability."

In this connection was cited Mayor Kelly's prompt action in closing Ald. Mathias Bauler's tavern at 343 West North avenue a few hours after the alderman and a policeman fought a gun battle there in which the policeman and an official of the sheriff's office were wounded.

"No one's too big to be closed" is the order given to police.

Barry's Former Saloon Hit.

One of the taverns hit yesterday in the campaign is at 1143 Madison street. It was formerly owned by John [West Side Jack] Barry, hoodlum and public enemy. Revocation of this license was recommended as the result of a shooting there Saturday morning in which Barry is said to have been involved.

The other saloon is at 4933 Broadway, owned by George Drumm. Action against this place is based on the charge that Drumm's business partner is Hilton Crouch, a member of the Dillinger gang, who was arrested last Saturday.

At midnight last night two squads of police, led by Sergt. Frank Reynolds, raided Drumm's saloon on reports that Dillinger was to meet his confederates there. They were not there. Some twenty-five patrons were searched for weapons. The police had surrounded the place for an hour before entering.

Capt. Patrick Collins of the Des Plaines street police recommended closing of the Madison street joint, and Capt. James Fleming of the Town Hall station took similar action against Drumm's place. Both recommendations will reach Commissioner Allman today.

Stege Squads Seize Barry.

At about the time Capt. Collins was signing his recommendation, Barry was seized by squads from Capt. John Stege's headquarters. The arrest was made in Barry's apartment at 316 South Seeley avenue.

During the evening an anonymous informant notified the police that Barry and John Dillinger, leader of the gang of escaped Indiana convicts, would be found in Barry's home. Squads commanded by Harry Neuman and Harry Bingham hurried to the Seeley avenue address. They found Barry, but not Dillinger. Barry disclaimed knowing the gang leader.

He was then questioned about the shooting on Saturday of Heine Bell, a porter in the tavern at 1148 Madison street. It is this shooting that was the

Bell's story of the shooting implicated Barry. According to the porter, Barry and two other men, members of the "42" gang, got into a gun fight over the refusal of the latter to pay for drinks. The time was 5 a. m. A few hours before this Barry had been freed from police custody in $10,000 bail on a vagrancy charge.

"This shooting shows the place was frequented by hoodlums," said Capt. Collins last night, explaining his revocation recommendation. "Barry was there, and so were members of the '42' gang. We don't need even that much to close a place. We'll close all such places, too."

With the police tightening up on taverns, other safeguards are already in the making. Under a temporary ordinance liquor may not be sold after 1 a. m. on week days and 2 a. m. on Sundays. Last week Mayor Kelly had a supplemental ordinance passed, effective on Dec. 31, which will compel all taverns to close at those hours.

Meanwhile the question of state liquor laws and Chicago home rule is being held in abeyance because of the adjournment of the legislature to Jan. 2. Several difficulties remain to be settled relative to Chicago's claim for self-regulation.

DILLINGER SECRETS TOLD

Warning was given the Chicago police yesterday that six desperate men daily rehearse their parts for an expected battle to the death. The six are members of the Dillinger gang of escaped Indiana convicts.

The man who told of their plans was one of them until five weeks ago. He is Edward Shouse, who was captured after a battle last week at Paris, Ill., in which an Indiana state policeman was killed. After his capture Shouse was returned to the Indiana penitentiary at Michigan City.

There he told Sergt. Dan Healy of the Chicago police yesterday that the members of the Dillinger gang talk of little else than killing policemen. Sergt. Healy and his squad went to the prison to interview Shouse for information concerning his former confederates.

All Kill Crazy, He Says.

"I think they are still together," Shouse said. "John Dillinger, Harry Pierpont, Charles Mackley, John Hamilton, Russell Clerk, and John Burns were living together when I left them in Chicago on Nov. 18. They are all kill crazy and that's why I left them."

Shouse was one of ten convicts who escaped from the Michigan City prison last Sept. 26. Some of them went to Lima, O., and took Dillinger from the county jail there after killing Sheriff Jesse Sarber. Shouse said the gang freed Dillinger because Dillinger had sent guns into the prison with which they were able to escape.

"If you policemen are married men with families I warn you to be careful about trying to take the other members of the gang," Shouse said to Sergt. Healy and his squad. "Every night they have a drill and each takes the position assigned to him in the event police surprise them."

The gang lived together for awhile at 115 North Parkside avenue in Chicago, Shouse said. Later they moved to 4310 Clarendon avenue, he said, adding that they moved at least once a week. Pierpont had a girl named Margaret Kinder, Dillinger had a sweetheart named Billy and a girl named Pearl Elliott was the companion of one of the others, Shouse said.

Flats Rented by Girls.

The girls would make arrangements to rent new apartments whenever the gang decided it was time to move, he explained. When Hamilton was surprised by Sergt. William Shanley Dec. 14 in a garage on Broadway a young women, Mrs. Elaine Dent, was with him. Sergt. Shanley was killed and Hamilton escaped, but Mrs. Dent was caught by a policeman and is held awaiting trial.

Shouse told of the incident on Nov. 15 when Dillinger was almost captured by police squads as he left the office of Dr. Charles H. Eye at Irving Park boulevard and Keeler avenue. The woman who fired at the police as she and Dillinger drove away from the trap was Pearl Elliott, Shouse said. That night, he said, the gang held a conference and decided that an informer had told the police about Dillinger's visit to the doctor.

Dillinger said he would give $500 to the one who killed the informer and each of the others in the gang said he would give $500, too, Shouse related.

They all have bullet proof vests and they sleep with the vests on, according to Shouse. He said they are all nervous and each jumps to his gun post whenever the doorbell rings or there is a knock.

They commit robberies both in and out of Chicago and they have plenty of money, Shouse said, but they want at least $100,000 and then they intend to go to South America. They regard Chicago as the safest place to live until they leave the country, their former comrade said.

SLAIN IN DETROIT

TED PATTERSON.

Ted Patterson, the bandit who was fatally wounded in Detroit Saturday night in an attempt to hold up a gasoline filling station was a convicted bank robber and ex-convict, reference to police records disclosed yesterday.

Patterson was once a suspect in the kidnapping of Jerome Factor, son of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, whom federal authorities have ordered extradicted to England on a bond fraud charge. Later Patterson was released.

In April, 1930, the gunman was suspected of killing three Capone henchmen and he was arrested by Pat Roche, then chief investigator for the state's attorney's office. Patterson also beat that charge.

Patterson was sentenced to the Jefferson City, Mo., prison in 1925 for 4 to 9 years on a robbery conviction. He served 2 years of that sentence. In 1931 he was sentenced to one year to life for bank robbery but he was released soon afterward.

HOTELS EXPECT RECORD CROWDS NEW YEAR'S EVE

Legal Liquor Ready for Celebration.

With New Year's eve legally wet for the first time in 15 years, downtown hotels and clubs are looking forward to special celebrations in welcoming 1934.

Some of the hotels expect all-time records to be set by the number of celebrants. Reservations are not usually received in great numbers until after Christmas, but there has been a marked increase in the pre-holiday reservations this year.

Typical of this New Year's eve spirit is the Palmer house, which will hold a special New Year's celebration for the first time since the new hotel was opened eight years ago. Approximately 2,500 revelers are expected to throng the Empire and Grand ballrooms. There also will be at least three large private affairs in the hotel.

Congress Expects 1,000.

The Congress hotel expects the largest night of merrymaking in its history, with the Urban and Pompeian room parties numbering between 1,000 and 1,500.

Nearly 1,000 men and women are expected in the Walnut room and new Bierstube at the Bismarck. Cocktails and a bottle of wine will be given to every couple in the former, while each person at the other party will have two steins of imported Munich beer.

The Drake is limiting its festivities to the Gold Coast room, where 800 fun seekers are expected to form the largest single party in the hotel's career.

Four orchestras will entertain revelers at the Stevens hotel, where a cocktail and a pint of sparkling Moselle wine is to be given each guest in the Boulevard room and Grand ballroom.

Sherman to Feature Champagne.

The Bal Tabarin and College Inn of Hotel Sherman will feature champagne suppers, one quart of the beverage being guaranteed each couple. A cocktail supper will be served at the party in the grand ballroom. Four orchestras will entertain.

Reservations for the Terrace Garden of the Morrison hotel are double the number at this time last year, and a record crowd of 1,000 is anticipated.

One bottle of Burgundy wine for each couple is an inducement offered at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Private clubs also are looking for larger celebrations than they have had in recent years.

KILLED IN FALL FROM WINDOW.

POLICE AND MARSHALS HUNTING FOR DONOVAN, PAROLED MAIL ROBBER

William Donovan, paroled mail robber, was hunted yesterday by police and deputy marshals. Chief of Detectives Schoemaker said he would call on United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer to produce Donovan, who is wanted for at least two robberies. Marshal Laubenheimer also holds a federal warrant for Donovan's arrest on the indictment for perjury.

At Leavenworth penitentiary it was said Donovan was paroled Nov. 11 after serving five years of an eight year sentence. The federal penal board held its regular meeting at the Leavenworth prison and gave Donovan liberty despite the federal perjury indictment pending against him in Chicago. Some one known as a "first friend" signed an agreement to give Donovan employment. The name of the signer was withheld, as was other information concerning the reason for clemency to the prisoner who was one of a gang which held up a train at Evergreen Park in 1928 and dynamited a mail car, obtaining $138,000.

SLAIN GUNMEN IDENTIFIED IN 3 MORE CRIMES

Louis Katzewitz and Charles Tattlebaum, who with Sam Ginsburg were shot to death by the police last Thursday, were identified last night in connection with three more crimes Katzewitz, Tattlebaum, and Ginsburg were slain in a gun battle at 1428 Farwell avenue by a detail of picked detectives seeking the Dillinger gang.

Miss Alice Halgreen, an assistant cashier in the University State bank at 1354 East 55th street, identified Tattlebaum's body as that of a member of the bandit gang of four who shot and fatally wounded Carlton J. White, the bank's paying teller, in a holdup last April 8. White died on July 30.

Three employés of the Farmers' State bank of Osseo, Minn., which was robbed of $50,000 on Dec. 12, identified both Tattlebaum and Katzewitz as having participated in that holdup.

Policeman John Cunningham, finally recovered from a wound received last July, pointed to the bodies of Katzewitz and Tattlebaum as those of two of the gang of seven who shot him when he sought to question them.

SHOT IN STREET FIGHT.

Charles Hylicki, 39 years old, 2179 North Menard avenue, was shot in the leg early yesterday by one of three strangers who picked a fight with him at Mango and Grand avenues.

LIQUOR CONTROL IN NEW YORK HAS ITS DIFFICULTIES

Every County Has Its Own Regulations.

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—The so-called "New York system" of liquor control, now in its third week of experimentation, appears to be running into some rough weather.

It isn't working out so well. Too much regulation is the trouble, they say. There are 58 separate varieties of control in operation all told, one for the state as a whole, one for New York City and one for each of the 57 counties outside the greater city, and the conglomerate result is about as weird a product as the craze for new fangled legislation ushered in by the new era of prohibition repeal has so far produced.

Citizens Are Confused.

The average citizen with occasion to wander from the jurisdiction of one variety to another knows not where—or how—to turn. The possibility of running afoul of some local rule that will prove his undoing is discomfiting, to say the least.

Popular opinion as expressed in the public prints or the judgments of outraged victims assembled in the name of the common woe rates the experiment as a shining example of the absurdities possible under a system of "man-made" control as opposed to hard-and-fast regulatory measures written into a statute book and applicable to all comers and all sections of a given jurisdiction alike.

In theory the "New York system" is a sort of new experiment in local option—an attempt to adjust the new order of things under repeal to local conditions.

Summary of Idea.

Briefly, the idea may be summarized under the head of—

First—State alcoholic beverage control board, appointed by the governor and imbued with the power to grant licenses both wholesale and retail and to promulgate rules and regulations of a general scope and applicable to the state at large, and

Second—Fifty-eight subsidiary local boards vested with autority to pass on and recommend license applications; and to frame rules designed to meet local conditions, such as closing hours, the number of places at which liquor may be sold within a given area, the distances separating such cases or intervening between them and a church or school.

The local boards are supposed to feel the public pulse of their respective communities and comply with popular sentiment insofar as may be possible without infracting a general rule or a state or federal law.

Criticism Is General.

The results of some of their findings has been the subject of no little criticism. Some of the boards, for instance, decided right off the reel that majority sentiment in their respective bailiwicks was against Sunday sales and solemnly decreed it accordingly. Others adjudged that Vox Populi called for a cessation of all libations in public at certain specified hours of the evening.

Under a provision of the state board liquor for consumption on premises cannot be sold before 2 p. m. on Sunday and on other days not before 8 a. m. nor after 3 a. m. Here in New York City and in most of the other larger cities of the state the boards had no difficulty in finding that the public wanted its drinks on Sunday the same as on any of the other six days of the week and proceeded to write this rule close up to the top of the lists.

Perpendicular Drinking Barred.

The state board made it a rule for all and sundry that any liquor sold for consumption on the premises on week days as well as Sundays must be served at tables—a regulation which in theory at least limited all public drinking to bona fide hotels, restaurants, clubs, vessels or railroad cars. The big board decreed expressly that there must be no drinking at bars, a decree which possibly has laid the board open to more criticism than any of the other "new era" regulations promulgated by it.

Edward P. Mulrooney, chairman of the board and popularly known as the "czar" of the liquor industry in this state, let it be known presently, however, that he and his colleagues were "sot" in their ways so far as this supposed barrier against the return of the old saloon evil was concerned and that the malcontents would have to lump it or like it until next April when the regulations are to be reenacted, revised, set aside or subjected to whatever fate may be in store for them.

Mulrooney Rules.

Among the numerous rules drafted for statewide observance by the Mulrooney board are these:

No distiller, wholesaler or retailer is permitted to sell liquor or wine in any container except sealed glass bottles containing quantities not to exceed one quart each.

No restaurant licensee may sell liquors or wines on credit and no restaurant may have any obstruction which prevents full view of interior or premises.

No one selling for consumption off the premises may sell to any person more than three quarts at one time or wines in quantities of more than three gallons. Case lots may be bought from wholesalers.

No sales for consumption off the premises to be made Sunday or on any day between 8 p. m. and 9 a. m. except on Sunday, when the closing hour shall be 10 p. m.

No advertising in stores of particular brands of liquor or wine allowed. At least four price lists must be displayed in each store.

No retail store may have on its premises any liquors or wines in unsealed bottles.

CHRISTMAS ARRIVES AND KELLY'S ESCAPE BOASTS ARE FUTILE

Leavenworth, Kas., Dec. 25.—(AP)—While federal prison restrictions lifted slightly for other convicts, boastful George Kelly and two of his associates in the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping found Christmas to be just another day behind the walls.

They remained "in solitary." They ate Christmas dinner—ham for Kelly and baked chicken for Harvey Bailey and George Bates—alone. Only their guards saw them to exchange holiday greetings. Skies without were gray.

Kelly's boasts upon his admittance to the prison Oct. 13 to serve a life term—"I'll be out of here before Christmas"—was answered by Warden Fred G. Zerbst.

"We can keep him from now on," the warden said.

"Y" OFFICIAL FATALLY HURT.

Dayton, O., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Charles A. Warner, 45, program and religious work secretary for the Dayton Y. M. C. A., was injured fatally in an automobile collision in Phillipsburg, O., today.

THOUSANDS MEET IN THE MERRIEST YULE SINCE 1929

A week-end crammed with Christmas festivities for the destitute and unemployed of Chicago reached a climax yesterday as thousands gathered in churches and homes to celebrate the arrival of what is everywhere evidenced as the most cheerful holiday since 1929. Dinners and Christmas baskets continued to be distributed by church and relief organizations to long lines of waiting dependents yesterday.

Patients and orphans in city institutions and hospitals were treated to Christmas trees, gifts, and music. Churches of both Protestant and Catholic denominations celebrated with services throughout the day.

Old St. Mary's, at 9th street and Wabash avenue, was thronged with early morning worshipers. One mass was planned, at 3 a. m., but crowds required five services, the last one ending after 6 o'clock. It was the 30th anniversary of the Paulist order's taking charge of the church. The famous Paulist choristers will repeat their Christmas music in a program at 8 p. m. Thursday.

Waiters Waited On.

Four hundred unemployed waiters, their wives and children were waited upon by 15 employed waiters at the annual Christmas dinner sponsored by Local 25 in the headquarters at 180 West Randolph street yesterday. Repeal has put to work more than 1,300 of the former 1,500 jobless members of the union Max Caldwell, business agent, pointed out. Now, out of the 2,200 members of the union, approximately 400 men, or only 4½ per cent, are out of work.

More than 1,000 unemployed men were guests at a Christmas dinner yesterday in the Cathedral Shelter on Washington boulevard. Six hundred destitute men were fed their Christmas dinners at the Bernstein restaurant, 676 West Madison street, from 11 to 2 o'clock.

Toys for Orphans.

Laughter and infant howls greeted the Catholic Youth organization, which played Santa Claus to the 280 children in St. Vincent's orphanage Christmas morning. Each child, ranging in age from one week to 6 years, found a tiny stocking filled with toys and candy hanging from the crib.

Cook county hospital echoed to the Christmas carols sung by their glee club which went from ward to ward through the day. Decorated trees stood in every ward and room. From glass-inclosed wards the patients at the Municipal Contagious Disease hospital enjoyed seeing friends and relatives Christmas day. Many decorated trees stood in the corridors. Entertainment also was provided during the day for the 340 young people living in the Juvenile Detention home. The 100 residents of the Illinois Industrial Home for the Blind enjoyed a goose dinner yesterday and afterward were guests at a party given by the institution.

1,000 Vets Remembered.

The American Legion auxiliaries made possible the distribution of personal gifts to the 1,000 patients of the Edward Hines Jr. hospital and the presentation of an all-star show by Chicago actors and actresses Christmas day.

Christmas morning found the little patients at the La Rabida Jackson Park sanitarium for children with weak hearts exploring well filled stockings. Christmas celebrations and dinners also were given in the Marine hospital and the Oral School for Deaf Children, 414 Normal parkway.

ESKIMOS FEAST ON RARE FOODS FOR CHRISTMAS

Reindeer Bone Marrow for Dessert.

POINT BARROW, Alaska, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Far up north under the aurora borealis Christmas today found the Eskimos overcoming their depression with a Yuletide spirit that expressed itself in way strange to the people of warmer climates.

There was a great Christmas banquet today, a feast of frozen reindeer and fish, followed by Eskimo ice cream, a rare delicacy made of whale oil and reindeer tallow, whipped to a froth. For dessert there was the frozen marrow of reindeer bones. Each Eskimo brought his share, and the white men furnished the sugar and tea.

Exchange Reindeer Sinews.

The children held their school program, directed by teachers sent by Uncle Sam to this, the farthest point north under the American flag.

Joy Reigns on St. Paul Island.

Meanwhile 850 miles to the southwest in the Bering sea, Christmas happiness was found also on St. Paul Island, in the Pribiloffs.

A prosperous season for the sale of seal and blue fox furs had enabled residents to stock up plentifully with supplies of plum puddings, fruit cakes, nuts, canned goods and turkeys.

Reindeer and sea lion meat also were taken from well filled larders for the day's celebration. A Christmas play was presented and carols were sung by the 30 children attending the school of the United States bureau of fisheries.

2 OLD WOMEN STARVE TO DEATH AS OTHERS OBSERVE CHRISTMAS

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 25.—(AP)—While their neighbors prepared for a joyous Christmas, two spinster sisters starved to death in their quaint little home just off exclusive East avenue here, authorities concluded tonight as they sought relatives of the two women who were found dead Christmas eve.

Police uncovered the tragedy when they broke into the house at the request of neighbors, who recalled they had not seen the sisters, both over 80, for several days. In the cold, dark building, officers came upon Miss Jenny, crumpled beside a stove, where she apparently had tried to light a fire. Upstairs in bed was Miss Anne. Both women were emaciated from lack of food. Authorities estimated they had been dead several days and that Miss Anne had died twenty-four to forty-eight hours before Miss Jenny.

Relief workers said they frequently had been offered food, but persistently declined it.

Gov. Horner a Yule Guest of Bishop Griffin

ORDER ARREST OF CULT LEADER TO SERVE SENTENCE

Police were asked yesterday to arrest Joseph Maria Abbate, 46 year old cult leader convicted of raping little girls, who was released Saturday from the Elgin insane asylum. Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg said if Abbate has now recovered his sanity he must serve a 10 year sentence imposed for his offense against a 12 year old girl.

Abbate formerly headed a religious institution at 3021 De Kalb street. He called himself the "celestial messenger" and designated members of his cult bishops, priests, nuns, and monks. He was given a life imprisonment term by one jury, but on a new trial the sentence was reduced to ten years. Then insanity proceedings were brought and he was committed to Elgin.

"The jury found he was sane at the time of the commission of the crime," Judge Feinberg said. "His later commutation to an asylum and his subsequent release do not affect the sentence. The sheriff will be asked to locate Abbate and enforce the order of the court."

Christmas Unusually Quiet for John D. Rockefeller

Tarrytown, N. Y., Dec. 25.—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller spent his quietest Christmas at his home in Pocantico Hills today. Complying with doctors' orders, there was no celebration, but during the day he was visited by his son and grandchildren.

FIREPLACE IS CHRISTMAS TREE FOR ROOSEVELTS

Four Generations Enjoy Old Time Function.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Roosevelt celebrated today their "happiest Christmas" surrounded by a family house party representing four generations and including also an uncle and several nephews as well as sisters and cousins and aunts.

Accompanied by Mrs. James Roosevelt, the President's mother, and their children, Mrs. Curtis B. Dall, Franklin Jr., and John, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt attended the morning service at St. Thomas' Episcopal church, where Mrs. Roosevelt went at midnight last night to the Christmas eve service.

Children Take the Lead.

But long before they left the White House the Christmas festivities were at their height. "Sistie" and "Buzzie" Dall, the two grandchildren who helped to "make Christmas" at the White House this year, were up shortly after daylight, and the rest of the household, wakening one by one as the joyous cries of the children rang through the house, hastened to join in the fun.

Meeting in the President's bedroom, the stockings, including those of the President, hung in a row over the fireplace, where they were emptied with celerity, the children bringing them to the bed to be assisted in the opening of packages and to watch "grandfather" open the gift packages Santa had left in his stockings.

Gifts from Afar.

There were other gifts also for the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, by which they were deeply touched. From far and near, and from people in all ranks of life, came presents, inexpensive, many hand made, but each accompanied by good wishes, and in many instances by grateful thanks.

The White House family party included Mr. and Mrs. Frederic A. Delano, uncle and aunt of the President; Col. and Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson, cousins of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and their children, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hinckley, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. De Sibour, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Walker, and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Robinson.

Luncheon was a family party, and so was the Christmas dinner tonight, after a joyous afternoon in the sunny upstairs corridor, where the children played around their gayly decorated tree.

KING GEORGE HAILS RECOVERY PROGRESS IN YULE MESSAGE

LONDON, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Remarking upon the "sober progress toward recovery" during the last year, King George V. of England sent a personal Christmas message today to his subjects in the British dominions and possessions scattered around the world. To far away India, to North America, and to British soil in remote parts of both hemispheres the king's message was broadcast.

His majesty found remarkable the progress made in the one year "in spite of many upheavals and uncertainties" and found gratifying "the setting in order of our respective communities."

"This is not a spectacular work," he said, "but what has already been accomplished gives us hope for the present and confidence in the future."

The king said that in his opinion the most significant development of the year had been in everyday application of good will "in our outlook and our policy." He eulogized the "sanity, patience, and good will" of the British people.

GOOD FELLOWS ALREADY MAKE PLANS FOR 1934

Dozens of organization representatives and individuals called THE TRIBUNE yesterday to report that they are already starting plans for their 1934 Good Fellow baskets. Many said they hoped to double the number of baskets taken this Christmas. Among those who will renew their efforts are workers in the aviation industry who Sunday took more than 100 baskets to needy families.

Speaking for these Good Fellows, their chairman, Capt. Benjamin B. Lipsner, said the last five baskets donated by the industry went out with pilots Christmas morning. The last baskets to come by air were brought to the Municipal airport near midnight Sunday by Airmail Pilot C. L. Smith, who flew in from Minneapolis. Another group that will redouble its efforts in 1934 includes the 500 employes of the Olson Rug company. Walter E. Olson, president, said delivery of 100 baskets Sunday was the happiest work ever done by his company.

Although the number of Good Fellows was not a record this season, the cash contributions were 67 per cent more than last year.

The number of requests for baskets was 15 per cent larger than in 1932. Money that came in too late to be used has been placed in the 1934 Good Fellow fund. Because of the larger contributions this season, THE TRIBUNE itself was able to deliver 240 more baskets than last year.

TRIES SUICIDE; FACES CHARGE.

Vernon Brodke, 27 years old, 2719 North Halsted street, who attempted suicide in the Sheffield avenue police station Christmas eve after his arrest for reporting a false robbery, was charged with disorderly conduct yesterday and will be arraigned in the Town Hall court today.

TWO SHOT IN BAULER BRAWL ARE IMPROVING

Improvement was reported yesterday in the condition of Deputy Sheriff Frank Wright and Policeman John J. Ahearn, shot last Tuesday in front of Ald. Mathias [Paddy] Bauler's tavern at 343 West North avenue. The alderman has been charged with assault with intent to kill the policeman. Wright was wounded in the cross-fire.

The holiday was enlivened for Wright by visits from Sheriff William D. Meyering and Miss Agnes Egan, 2317 East 68th street, his cousin, at St. Joseph's hospital. It will be a week before he is permitted to have visitors regularly, however.

STATE ENGINEERS OPPOSE W. SIDE ELEVATED ROAD

Contend Present Streets Are Ample.

BY HAL FOUST.

State highway engineers, after 30 days' study of Chicago's elevated highway proposals, issued a report yesterday disapproving construction of such a modern traffic facility for the city's west side. The findings of these Springfield men were contrary to recommendations of Dr. Miller McClintock of Harvard university after a two year survey of Chicago's street transportation.

The state report, signed by Charles E. De Leuw, assistant chief highway engineer; H. E. Surman, engineer of design, and Hendrick Harger, district engineer, contends the present grade streets west from the loop have a "latent capacity ample to accommodate all present day traffic as well as all additional traffic for years to come.

Favor Streets at Grade.

"We are of the opinion," the engineers wrote, "that greater value can be secured by expenditures for modern pavements and traffic control on streets at grade than by the construction of special structures off grade."

Dr. McClintock's recommendations for an elevated highway system were indorsed from a technical standpoint by the Western Society of Engineers and from an economical standpoint by the Chicago Motor club and other civic agencies.

De Leuw's report is contrary to the friendly attitude toward west side automobile owners expressed by Gov. Horner and other administration executives in discussing the elevated highway proposal during the early months they were in office.

Randolph Street Plan.

With the report came an announcement that the highway department has completed plans for a unit of the elevated highway system in Randolph street from Jefferson street to Paulina stret. This was to have been financed by the state with the aid of a federal grant for 30 per cent of the cost of labor and materials.

The cost of the structure is estimated at $1,114,000. An additional $451,000 is estimated as necessary to pave surface streets connecting with the terminals of the elevated structure.

De Leuw's committee recommends that the city, county, and state negotiate on an apportionment of this cost and that the state refrain from committing itself to the project before public hearings.

NEW TYPE OF AUTO SHOWN

A radical departure from conventional automobile designs was revealed yesterday in this picture of its 1934 model released by the De Soto branch of the Chrysler Motors corporation. It is the closest approach to tear drop contours ever produced in a stock car. Note the unity of the front end assembly, reducing wind resistance, and the narrow running boards, giving maximum interior dimensions.

150 ARTISTS OF CHICAGO TO GET U. S. JOBS TODAY

Between 150 and 175 Chicago artists will start work today re-beautifying government buildings with murals, etchings, and other artistic embellishments under the public arts program of the federal CWA.

They will receive $34 a week for a 30 hour week. Just where they will execute their talents is not announced, but their territory will be broad, including Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota.

Altogether 300 artists will be selected from the Chicago area. More than 1,000 men and women have applied for jobs. Selections are being made by a committee headed by Walter S. Brewster. The commitee has emphasized that only bona fide artists of talent who are needy may apply, and that this precludes sign painters, house painters, and others of those trades.

TWO KILLED IN ACCIDENT.

Red Wing, Minn., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—When their automobile left the road and pitched into a ditch Clifford Powell, 24, Zumbrota, and Esther Olson, 19, Wanamingo, were killed and two companions escaped with minor injury. The quartet had attended a holiday festival.

and actresses. He recognizes the difficulty of circumventing the wage scales of stage hand unions, but he is not afraid of dealing with temperamental stars.

"They couldn't be any more temperamental than some of the business men I have had to deal with," he remarked with confidence, as he enlarged on a plan he is working out to form theatrical companies in pivotal places such as New York, San Francisco and New Orleans, and to move them about the country.

Mr. Hopkins doesn't go in for burlesque, however. He said "burlesque used to be good, but I am told it is rotten today." Mr. Hopkins is middle-aged, and while his hair is thinning he probably will never be bald.

Urges State Theater.

With all the other devotees of the graces in such favored positions, no one seemed to have thought of the poets, and for a time it was thought their muse would continue to "live on fancy and feed on air."

But harking more practically with Ben Jonson, "that a good poet's made as well as born" Mrs. Edward J. Croker, a Maryland poetess, vice president of the American Literary association, former vice president of the Maryland Pen Women's league, and former president of the Baltimore branch of the American Poetry circle, has championed the right of poets to CWA wages.

"It would be such an excellent thing," she declared. "The finest poets in the country get almost nothing for their work, and many of them are not able to sell one poem. It is a bad thing when people can't express noble ideas and receive something for them.

"Poetry is of the soul, it is uplifting, it is an escape from the hard, humdrum life of every day. We need a spiritual revival, an uplifting force. It is materialism that we must fight in these times of depression; we must rise to something higher."

Poets wouldn't ask much of the government, Mrs. Croker thought, as she remarked that most of the finest poets receive no more than $5 for a good poem. They would be only too glad, she added, to write on subjects suggested by the federal administrators.

Most of the several hundred jobless newspapermen in Washington and the cities around have been taken care of in the propaganda departments of the NRA, AAA, PWA and other emergency agencies.

Ickes Helps Librarians.

Some remained idle, however, and Secretary Ickes arranged so that 20 of these, along with 23 skilled librarians, also from the ranks of the jobless, could be employed in the geological survey library on CWA wages.

In Wisconsin home owners were paid CWA wages for repairing their own houses, but in Rhode Island 300 unskilled and 65 skilled workers are dredging Narragansett bay and Greenwich bay, daily scooping up between 3,000 and 4,000 bushels of dead starfish. The starfish have been eating oysters and scallops, resulting in a shortage of those undersea delicacies. Unskilled laborers got 50 cents an hour for a 30 hour week, but if a starfisherman had his own boat, he became a skilled laborer and was paid $36 a week.

In the last week Mr. Hopkins approved a proposal to provide 1,693 statistical jobs for unemployed workers who will conduct a survey on other unemployed workers.

Needy architects will be employed through a survey of historic American buildings to be undertaken by Secretary Ickes' department. A committee has been appointed to direct the work. It will employ the services of 1,200 architects.

The department of commerce is to give CWA jobs to 11,000 men and women in 60 cities in the projection of what is called a "real property survey."

Jobs have been provided for unemployed school teachers, but thus far no plea has come from or on behalf of college professors. A number of them have been at work in Washington for some time, however.

SEEK TRACTION AGREEMENT IN 2 PARLEYS TODAY

Hope to Forestall Judge on Sale Threat.

Conflicting traction interests will endeavor to reach an agreement on fundamental principles in merging the elevated and street car companies at two conferences today. Bondholders hope to reach an agreement which will forestall Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson's threat to throw the entire reorganization proceedings into open court for a forced settlement the last of this week.

Surface line first mortgage bondholders are expected to recede from at least one of their two demands which have been held largely responsible for the deadlock in negotiations. Most likely to be modified, it was learned yesterday, is the demand for a lien, subject only to the "L" first mortgage bonds, on the properties of both systems. A sinking fund of $1,000,000 per year also has been asked to guarantee preference for surface line bonds.

Spokesmen for the various interests will confer this morning. They will meet again this afternoon with Attorney Walter L. Fisher, appointed by Judge Wilkerson to unite the opposed groups. Judge Wilkerson has jurisdiction because both the elevated and surface lines are in receivership.

If no settlement is forthcoming tomorrow, it was reported that Judge Wilkerson may either force acceptance of a compromise reorganization plan drawn by Attorney Fisher or order sale of the properties on Thursday or Friday.

Transit representatives taking part in the conference include Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank and chairman of the south side surface lines bondholders' group; A. W. Harris, chairman of the board of the Harris Trust and Savings bank and head of the north and west side bondholders' committee, and D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair store, and chairman of the bondholders' committee of the elevated lines.

Ald. Massen to Discuss Safety of Superhighways

Ald. John A. Massen [48th], chairman of the city council committee on traffic and public safety, will speak on "Safety Factors of the Proposed Elevated Highway" before the fleet superintendents division of the Chicago Safety council at a luncheon tomorrow in the Great Northern hotel. The fleet superintendents division is composed of operators of commercial vehicles on Chicago streets.

12,254 JURORS USED IN COUNTY COURTS IN YEAR

The annual report of the Cook county jury commissioners released yesterday revealed that 12,254 jurors served in the courts of the county, including the municipal, civil and police branches, in 1933. The report, prepared by Clerk Lewis Hill, showed that 12,988 jurors served in 1932.

Of the 23,507 persons called for jury service during the year, 7,800 were excused, 1,403 failed to respond to the summonses, 1,485 could not be found and 36 were exempted. In 1932, there were 24,631 persons summoned, 7,034 were excused, 959 failed to answer, 1,523 could not be found and 267 were exempted.

AUTO LICENSE DISTRIBUTION BEGINS TODAY

State Tardy in Mailing 1934 Plates.

BY HAL FOUST.

The distribution of 1934 Illinois license plates will begin today. Approximately 100,000 plates are being mailed from Springfield this morning, consisting mainly of numbers reassigned to their 1933 holders, including the socalled "drag" low numbers and trick combinations.

The new Chicago office of Secretary of State Hughes, in the Wieboldt building at 120 South Ashland boulevard will begin selling the 1934 plates this morning on a cash and carry basis for the convenience of the 800,000 auto owners in Cook county. Nearby is a free parking lot with a capacity of 6,000 cars.

As in other years, the payment of the 1934 state registration fee can also be mailed to the secretary of state at Springfield. Application blanks may be obtained at the secretary's office, at motor clubs, or at THE TRIBUNE public service office at Dearborn and Madison streets.

Certificate of Title.

New this year is the requirement for a certificate of title with each 1934 state license. The application for a certificate is part of the form used in applying for the license. This registration of title—an anti-theft measure enacted by the 1933 legislature—costs 50 cents and does not have to be renewed during the life of the car with its present owner.

Owners who registered their automobiles in Illinois in 1933 may use their 1933 license cards as evidence of ownership in obtaining the certificate of title. For cars registered in 1933 in other states having the certificate of title law, such certificates will be accepted as evidence for the 1934 Illinois title papers. Otherwise, a bill of sale is required to establish ownership.

The title law in other states has been effective in curbing the traffic in stolen automobiles. Its sponsors hope that it will reduce Chicago's losses in thefts and thereby relieve the community from the present exorbitant insurance rates. A companion measure in the anti-theft legislation provides a license for dealers in used cars, parts, and accessories, requiring them to keep records of purchases and sales open for police inspection.

Illinois a Tardy State.

As in other years, Illinois is tardy as compared with its neighbors in putting the new plates in circulation. Michigan and Wisconsin 1934 licenses have been seen on the streets for several weeks.

The Illinois law requires that a vehicle shall not be driven after Jan. 1 without the license for the new year. Secretaries of state for many administrations have not enforced the statute and have requested police not to make arrests for months after the first of the year.

On Nov. 26, the office of Secretary Hughes announced that all applications for licenses would be filled promptly so that there would be no necessity for continuing this probation practice in 1934. However, with this late start, it is unlikely that more than half the automobiles in Illinois will be bearing 1934 plates weeks after the Jan. 1 legal deadline.

With the exception of the "drag" numbers, Cook county owners for 1934 are being assigned the odd numbered hundred thousands starting with the 300,000 and continuing with 500,000, 700,000, 900,000, and 1,100,000.

ROOSEVELT TO ASK BUDGET OF 6 BILLIONS, RAINEY TELLS PUBLIC

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's first annual message to congress will be delivered on Jan. 3—the first day of the session—for reading by a house clerk.

Speaker Rainey said today that, contrary to reports, the President did not plan to deliver the message in person, but some of Mr. Roosevelt's advisers are still urging him to do that.

Speaker Rainey said he expected the ordinary and extraordinary budgets to call for appropriations in excess of $6,000,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1934. This includes the budget estimates of $2,600,000,000 for ordinary expenses of the government.

Of the balance, about $1,700,000,000 is to be asked for continuation of the public works-employment program; about $500,000,000 for federal relief, additional capital for the reconstruction corporation for business stimulation, and varying sums for other government enterprises.

First on the legislative calendar, Rainey said, would be a bill for the repeal of the Volstead act as it applies to the District of Columbia, territories and possessions. This is to be followed by the liquor revenue act. It will call for a $2 a gallon levy on spirits, $5 a barrel on beer, retain present import duties on wines, spirits and brew all the revenue from these sources, estimated at more than $500,000,000, to go into the federal treasury.

DIVORCES SHOW 5 PCT. INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

Women's Decrees Lead by 2 to 1.

The number of divorces granted in the Cook county courts increased 5 per cent in 1933 compared with those granted last year. These statistics were made public yesterday by Clerk Frank V. Zintak of the Superior court and Clerk John E. Conroy of the Circuit court.

During 1932 there were 6,972 divorces granted in both courts. Up to Jan. 1, 1934, using comparative figures for the last week in December, 7,322 divorce decrees will have been signed, an increase of 350.

More Murders, Fewer Suicides Here in 1933

An increase in homicides and a decrease in suicide in 1933 compared to last year was disclosed yesterday in statistics made public by Coroner Frank J. Walsh. Although the December figures have not yet been prepared, the coroner stated there were 303 homicides during the first eleven months of this year against 505 for the whole of 1932. In 1932 there were 706 suicides. Up to Dec. 1 this year 605 suicides were reported.

4 PERSONS DIE AS AVALANCHE WRECKS HOUSE

Flood Menace Continues in Pacific Northwest.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Four names today were added to the list of dead in the storm-ridden Pacific northwest as flood waters, pent up by a natural dam, were unloosed in sudden fury in a small creek bed near Clatskanie, Ore. A man and his three children were crushed to death, their residence buried in a mass of mud, rocks and logs.

The Christmas day tragedy was the most serious reported during the holiday in the flooded and storm-swept area. Milo Allen, 45; his son, George, 20, and two small children were the victims. Mrs. Allen and another child were visiting a neighbor.

The great slide crushed the house and blocked the lower Columbia river highway and the railroad tracks, but it was believed the roads could be opened by tonight.

Columbia on Rampage.

Transportation lines were limping back to normal schedules in western Washington today as receding waters from swollen streams bared tracks and highways, but in eastern Washington, and along the Columbia river in Oregon floods reached new heights.

Snow flurries and cooler weather were welcomed in western Washington and flood water dropped rapidly. Thousands were homeless, however, and Red Cross workers were providing emergency relief.

In Spokane, concern was felt for bridges in the eastern part of the city, menaced by the highest water ever measured in Spokane river, outlet for Lake Coeur d'Alene in northern Idaho.

Peaceful Valley, a Spokane suburb of several hundred homes, was almost entirely covered by the high water and in downtown sections firemen were busy pumping water out of basements of stores and hotels.

Idaho Cities' Food Short.

The situation in Wallace and Kellogg, Idaho, still was desperate, with zero temperatures and a shortage of fresh food adding to flood discomforts.

Highways, railroad tracks and communication lines were still out, although large crews of repairmen, including some CWA forces, were attempting to restore order.

Arrangements were made to fly essential mail and other urgently needed supplies to Wallace and Kellogg.

Railroads were operating over the Cascade mountains, bringing delayed mail to Puget Sound cities from the east, and a special mail handling and sorting center was established in the civic auditorium in Seattle.

50,000 NEW YORK WAITERS THREATEN NEW YEAR EVE STRIKE

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—A New Year's eve strike by 50,000 waiters and culinary workers was threatened by union leaders today in renewing demands for revamping the proposed Blue Eagle code for restaurants.

Such a strike would put a damper on the first legal celebration since 1920. Hotel and restaurant owners had fondly looked forward to it as a banner night.

The warning that a city-wide walkout may leave would-be celebrants foodless and drinkless was voiced by Paul N. Coulcher, secretary of Broadway Waiters' local 16, following the strike vote of waiters at Central Opera house Friday night.

"If the changes in the code proposed by the union are not adopted our entire membership in eating places from the Battery to the Bronx will be pulled out New Year's eve," Coulcher asserted.

The waiters asked abolition of the split watch, a $15-a-week minimum wage scale, and a forty-eight hour week instead of fifty-four hours as suggested by the restaurant owners. They oppose inclusion of tips as wages.

MACIA, WARRIOR WHO LIBERATED CATALONIA, DIES

Huge Crowd Pays Tribute to Aged President.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 25. — Col. Francisco Macia, lifelong champion of liberty for Catalonia, died today. He was 74 years old. Col. Macia was Catalonia's first national hero in centuries but he was bitterly disappointed in her. His last words were:

"Catalonia is lost when she has neither faith nor unity."

Doctors, nurses and men who followed his leadership to the end were present to hear the old warrior's brokenhearted adieu. He had just gone through his second operation with a local anaesthetic for a blood transfusion in his valiant struggle against disease.

Flags at Half Staff.

The nine-barred red and yellow flag of Catalonia which former King Alfonso loathed, hangs at half staff throughout the little corner of Spain and genuine grief was shown by the crowd massed before the ancient palace of the generalidad at the death of the first president of Catalonia.

Plans are being made to bury Col. Macia impressively Wednesday. That the old man's last Cassandralike utterance had added to the bitterness of his passing already is obvious enough. Col. Macia leaves autonomous Catalonia at a delicate moment. A new cortes and a new government rules in Madrid dominated by men hostile to the whole Catalan idea.

Col. Macia's grief at seeing the powerful Esquerra party split as the younger men revolted against his soldierly authority was apparent.

Rival chiefs of the Esquerra met to night to decide on a candidate to succeed him but on the horizon looms not a single figure to unite them in the face of the dangers menacing their statute.

Has Crucifix in His Hand.

Macia is lying in the Gothic chamber of the palace with the Catalan flag and a crucifix in his hand. The latter emblem upset his free thinking Masonic lieutenants who are trying to prevail on his devout family to have a lay funeral.

The church paid tribute to the son who, it had appeared, had abandoned it last night when the bells of the cathedral which had begun to ring out the midnight mass were suddenly stilled when the canon learned that the doctors were attempting a second operation.

AWARDS STANLEY M'CORMICK'S WIFE QUARTER MILLION

Probate Judge John F. O'Connell announced yesterday that he had made an award of $250,000 to Mrs. Katherine Dexter McCormick, wife of Stanley McCormick, for her maintenance during the coming year. Mr. McCormick has resided on his Riven Rock estate at Santa Barbara, Cal., since 1906, when he was declared an incompetent and a ward of the Probate court.

Mrs. McCormick's allowance represents an increase of $50,000 over 1933. The increase was agreed to by Mr. McCormick's brother, Harold F. McCormick, and his sister, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, who with Mrs. McCormick are conservators of his estate. The wife and Harold F. McCormick also are personal conservators for Mr. McCormick. Mrs. McCormick, in asking for the larger allowance, told Judge O'Connell that she had given $69,750 to charity in 1933.

Judge O'Connell took under advisement until today the request for an allowance of $500 a day for six months to pay the salary of Dr. Charles McFie Campbell, psychiatrist at the Harvard Medical school, for proposed treatment of Mr. McCormick. Physicians appointed by the Los Angeles courts have been asked for their opinion on the request.

Judge O'Connell was informed that Mr. McCormick's estate, once valued at 60 million dolars, increased from a low of 25 million dollars in 1932 to 31 million in 1933. The increase was due to the rise in the market value of International Harvester stock which makes up the bulk of the personal property in the estate.

TRIBUNE OPENS DRIVE TO BOOST U. S. EXPORT TRADE

The Tribune yesterday instructed its foreign correspondents to make a world-wide survey on the prospects of the United States regaining or developing its export trade. Map shows where this newspaper's chief correspondents are stationed in Europe and countries to which they have been assigned to carry out this important task. Tribune writers in other lands also received instructions to ferret out facts which will aid American commerce.

difficulties represent the culmination of the series of consequences which began with the financial disorganization in Germany and Austria.

How Prosperity Is Linked.

"The prosperity of the United States is vitally linked with the prosperity of other countries, particularly those on the European continent. In normal times we export over 50 per cent of our cotton crop, 40 per cent of our tobacco production, 33 per cent of lard, and 18 per cent of the wheat output. The decline in the export of these commodities is primarily responsible for the decline in their price and for the economic prostration which exists throughout the agricultural area.

"Within the last three years the nations of the world have been engaging in mutually destructive trade wars. Not only have nearly all nations been erecting new tariff barriers, but many countries have introduced licensing systems for restricting imports, and quota systems under which such imports as are indispensable are arbitrarily allocated among the various exporting countries. The effect of these progressive and accumulating restrictions, intended to preserve stability, has been to demoralize international trade in general and with it the production of wealth.

"Instead of enabling men and women in all countries to produce and trade with the people of other countries these policies everywhere resulted in unemployment and impoverishment."

Trade Chief Sounds Warning.

James A. Farrell, chairman of the National Foreign Trade council said recently:

"Our home market never can become the sole prop of our economic welfare. Any lessening of our efforts in the foreign field would react with serious results to our manufacturing industries and our standard of living, and seriously impair the advantages we now derive from the profitable exchange of our goods and services, and the advantages which other countries derive from their trade with the United States."

HERE IS THE MESSAGE SENT BY THE TRIBUNE TO ITS FOREIGN STAFF

Instructions similar to the following were sent last night to all members of THE TRIBUNE'S foreign staff:

John Steele, CHICAGO TRIBUNE London Bureau, London, England:

Merry Christmas! THE TRIBUNE gives you a special 1934 assignment to study our export possibilities in Great Britain, Ireland, Denmark, Norway, and Sweden. What do they import from other countries that we could supply to them? What reciprocal tariffs could we make with them to increase trade? What increased shipping and banking facilities will help?

All TRIBUNE correspondents in these countries will report to you for this assignment. This is the finest Christmas present you have ever received, a great opportunity to serve your country. THE TRIBUNE.

ITALY TO EXPLOIT AFRICA WITH AID OF OTHER LANDS

ROME, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Exploitation on a vast scale of the natural resources of Africa will be attempted once the economic crisis has ended, the budget committee of the chamber of deputies predicted today.

"Several generations and huge investments of capital will be needed to complete this task," the committee says in a report to the chamber. "It cannot start until the world has developed a new atmosphere of faith and work."

All of the great civilized nations will join in the project, it adds, without revealing the basis for its prediction

FIFTEEN TROOPS CALLED TO END A PRIVATE WAR

Marshall, Ark., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Fifteen National Guardsmen patrolled this mountain town of 800 persons today. Officials sought to make peace between two families in a feud which broke out afresh on Christmas eve.

The gun battle during which City Marshal J. H. Barnett, 60, was wounded slightly followed the reported return on a ten-day prison camp furlough of Leland Henley, 29, sentenced to prison for life about a year ago for the slaying of W. W. Findley, a local merchant, shot down as he was walking along the street with Barnett.

For several minutes on Christmas eve Barnett and two sons, Rupert, 25, and Oscar, 30, bombarded a restaurant operated by Henley's cousin, Ralph. Leland Henley's two brothers, Nobe and Jack, and his sister, Mrs. Bennie Matthews, were reported to have been in the restaurant from which numerous shots were fired back at the Barnetts. Barnett, shot in the face, was taken to a hospital at Little Rock.

Whether Leland took part in the fight was not known. The restaurant was the scene of a killing less than two weeks ago, when Isaac Ragland, a farmer, was killed by mistake.

Capt. Fay S. Brown, brought fifteen guardsmen here from Clarkville, on authority of Gov. Futrell. Prosecuting Attorney Jack Holt has arrived and they were trying tonight to end

NANKING PLANES BOMB "CAPITAL" OF REBEL FORCES

55 Civilians Are Killed in Air Raids.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 25.—Chinese newspapers issued extra editions this Christmas afternoon giving details of yesterday's air bombardment of Foochow by army planes of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, commander of the Nanking [national] government's military forces. Reports are that 25 civilians were killed.

The China Evening News said that five planes participated in the bombing. Two bombs were dropped on police headquarters, three on the building occupied by the Fukien rebel "peoples' " government headquarters, two on the 19th Route army offices, two on the arsenal and three others on buildings in the vicinity.

Previously warned, most of the foreign residents in the city, including more than 100 American missionaries, had departed for Amoy, about 150 miles down the coast. All Japanese and a large number of Formosans, who are Japanese subjects, remained. It is not known whether they suffered any casualties.

All foreign missionaries at Kienyang and Kienou were withdrawn to Puchêng and Hsienhsia on the Chekiang border.

The bombing of Foochow created a panic in the city. The rebel assembly hall was wrecked as well as the headquarters of Gen. Tsai Ting-kai, commander of the 19th Route army. The aviation field on the outskirts of the city was damaged and a primary school was destroyed.

It was also reported that on Friday Changchow was bombed and three soldiers and 30 civilians were killed.

According to reports from Foochow many highways and bridges in northern Fukien were also bombed. Military communication were destroyed.

Fighting between Fukien rebel forces and Gen. Chiang's forces is continuing near Taishun and Chingyuan, on the southern Chekiang border which apparently has been penetrated a considerable distance by the rebels.

but also try to avoid low resistance!

You can't go out in bad weather unprotected. People who take foolish chances usually pay for it in illness.

But outward precautions, you'll find, are not always enough to keep you well. It's necessary also to have good resistance!

The time to build up your natural forces is before you take sick. The body should be encouraged to use its own defenses as protection against illness.

One way of helping to do this is to obtain certain factors needed every day for good resistance—Vitamins A and D.

These factors, so essential for building-up, are abundantly provided by halibut and cod-liver oils with Viosterol.

But people who do not care to take the oils may obtain them in concentrate form — Squibb Adex Tablets-10D.

Moreover, they are protected by a patented process against deterioration. You can always depend on them for results!

Why not start before your usual ills begin? Take them regularly every day. Be sure to insist on Adex. At any good drug store.

COMPTON FINDS DEITY IS BASIS OF ALL SCIENCE

But Man Must Work Out His Own Destiny.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[An authorized interview with Prof. Arthur H. Compton.]

Dr. Compton is professor of physics at the University of Chicago. He studied at Wooster, O., Princeton, and Cambridge, England, and holds degrees from several universities. He was a research physicist for the Westinghouse Lamp company and research fellow at the Cavendish laboratory at Cambridge before coming to Chicago in 1923. Since that time he has become recognized as an authority on radiation. In 1927 he was awarded the Nobel prize for physics in connection with his discovery of the change in wave length of X-rays when scattered. He also discovered the reflection of X-rays from polished mirrors. He is a member of scientific societies here and abroad, a contributor to scientific publications and is now engaged in cosmic ray research of world-wide importance.

As a prelude to Dr. Compton's presentation of his advancing thought on the centuries old problem of religion and science, it is possible this morning to make a simple statement such as that of Jesus of Nazareth:

"My Father worketh hitherto and I work."

The long road away from the silent hills of Galilee, past the mysteries of modern science, the super galaxies, the exploding universe, atomic disintegration, relativity and quantum mechanics, leads again to the Child and the star, the eternal Father and his manifold expression.

Science Lights the Way.

Science today lights this way instead of darkening it. Religious thinking, of course, is not science, but the point of this interview is that it is not only encouraged but demanded by scientifically trained men, familiar with all the implications and necessities of laboratory study, men who demand scrupulous correctness in facts and internal logical coherence. It has become intellectually respectable again to believe in God.

This God, however, is a new and changing concept. It grows with all knowledge. Its emphasis is on personality, the necessity of human cooperation with the divine power. There is nothing in modern science that denies the existence of this transcendent power. The world picture of the greatest scientists points to it. Individual responsibility for finding and expressing this relationship may be stated as the key to the most searching thinking along this line today.

Dr. Compton has advanced his thought about God and man since he was last quoted on that subject in these columns two years ago. He presents today an even more inspiring picture.

Based on Long Study.

It is based on his long study of indeterminism as a principle of nature, first announced by Heisenberg in Göttingen several years ago and now adopted by many physicists, including Bohr, the great Danish expert in this field. It should be noted here that Einstein and Planck, the two greatest European physicists, have refused to accept this principle. There is a major division of thought, but both groups seem to come out on the same peak of vision. Einstein talks of a world of pre-established harmony and feels that a higher intelligence impenetrable to us really exists. Planck finds an almighty law governing the world, with the individual ego inviolable by any causal law and responsible for its own destiny.

Few scientific men today defend an atheistic attitude, says Dr. Compton, who gave this writer a glimpse into a book he is writing on the subject. His God is a working hypothesis, rather than a closed system of thought. It is a God immanent in the world of nature. He is not afraid to test any new fact against it.

Faith Is Scientific.

His concept grows through physics, astronomy, and biology to this statement:

"Faith in God may be a thoroughly scientific attitude, even though we may be unable to establish the correctness of our belief."

Or again:

"Science can have no quarrel with a religion which postulates a God to whom men are as his children. Not that science in any way shows such a relationship—if a religion which makes such an assumption does not have its own evidence it should not look to science; but the evidence for an intelligent power working in the world which science offers does make such a postulate plausible.

"It is thus possible to see the whole great drama of evolution as moving toward the goal of personality, the making of persons, with free, intelligent wills, capable of learning nature's laws, of glimpsing God's purpose in nature and of sharing that purpose.

"It is an inspiring setting in which we thus find ourselves. As we recognize the greatness of the program of nature which is unfolding before us, we feel that we are part of a great enterprise, in which some mighty intelligence is working out a hidden plan. Indeed, God has placed us in a position to help in furthering his program; for do we not hold in our hands the control of the conditions of vegetable and animal life on this planet and to some extent human life?"

Natural Laws Not Exact.

In developing his thought on this subject Dr. Compton begins with the statement that "natural phenomena do not obey exact laws." This he regards as perhaps the most significant revolution in the history of scientific thought. He says further:

"As one whose experiments have been partly responsible for this dramatic reversal of the physicist's point of view, I have been especially interested in tracing what the significance of this may be to human life and thought. An adequate solution of the dilemma of freedom or law is as essential to the welfare of science as it is to the growth of religion.

"In recent years physicists have resolved the world of nature into three fundamental units, protons and electrons, which go to make up matter, and photons of lights. At first we supposed that these excessively minute particles would obey the same laws as those discovered by Newton and his followers governing planets and projectiles. These laws had never been tested on so minute a scale, and they now failed in the test. Photons and electrons and protons were found to move like waves, though there is nothing wavelike about the course of ordinary projectiles.

"We had supposed that the electrons revolved in orbits within the atoms; now we find that these orbits were a gratuitous assumption—there was really no evidence of their existence. But more startling was the fact that when an attempt was made to predict where any electron would be at any future moment, it was learned that however much we might know about its position and motion now, its position at a time in the future could not be accurately foretold. That is, the laws of the new physics cannot predict an event; they tell only the chance of its occurrence.

Cites Lamp Through Umbrella.

"Did you ever notice the starlike pattern of a street lamp as you look at it through an umbrella?" he asks.

"This is due to the diffraction of the light as it passes through the small holes between the threads of the cloth. An ocean wave is similarly diffracted when it spreads out after passing through the entrance to a harbor. Now imagine a faint ray of light passing through a tiny hole, which then spreads by diffraction into a broad beam. In the path of this beam we may place two photo electric cells, each connected with an amplifier. These will be made so sensitive that the entrance of a single photon into either cell is recorded. A shutter in the path of the light ray remains open long enough to transmit a single photon.

"Into which cell will the photon fall? There is no way by which we can be sure. The photon follows the light wave, and if we try to make its path more definite by using a smaller hole to transmit the ray, we merely make the transmitted beam more diffuse by diffraction. Though the first photon may enter one cell, with the initial conditions identical as far as any test can show, the next photon may enter the other cell. This is what we mean by saying that the law of causality does not hold in our present experiments; for by reproducing the initial causes we cannot reproduce the same effect. The result, as far as scientists can now see, is truly a matter of chance." [The same result is found by Prof. Harkins in thousands of photographic experiments in disintegration of the atom.]

Dr. Compton goes on to show that nature's erratic character in small scale events may have results on a larger scale and concludes that "any event which depends at some stage upon the outcome of a small scale event is essentially unpredictable on the basis of previous history."

He follows this principle into the biological field as follows:

"Prof. Ralph Lillie has pointed out that the deliberate actions of living organisms are events of just this kind. Such events are determined directly by certain nerve pulses, which are presumably electro-chemical reactions on a minute scale. Our deliberative processes are probably associated with similar reactions, each involving a rather small number of molecules, and hence having an appreciable uncertainty. The sensation which starts the nerve pulse may itself be initiated by a small number of elementary events, such as a dozen photons of light entering the eye.

Organism Becomes Amplifier.

"The living organism, in turn, acts as an amplifier of very great power, which may be set in operation by events on a scale comparable with the elementary events which we know to be indeterminate. Considering the complexity of the small scale events associated with any of our deliberative acts, one may say with assurance that on a purely physical basis the end result must have a relatively great uncertainty."

Passing to a discussion of consciousness, and showing that no physical laws would be violated if desirable brain currents were consciously chosen, Dr. Compton concludes that:

"The determination of a man's actions by his will is, I believe, wholly consistent with the principles of present day physics. * * * A man's pleasure, in other words consciousness, is an additional determining factor which supplements the physical laws in defining his actions. Psychological laws, like physical laws, probably will be found to be statistical, and the definite decision would remain with the individual. * * * Man is thus left by science in control of his own actions. * * * Our physical laws have acquired a new generality, tiny, but took from man the tools of science by which the mastery might be attained. Newton found the tools again but made us lose the vision. It would seem that now at last the way is clear for us, using the tools that science gives, to work with courage and faith for the goal of mastery which Plato saw."

In discussing science's need for an intelligence in nature, Dr. Compton takes up again the world of elemental units, protons, electrons and photons.

"From the protons and electrons," he says, "the atoms and molecules are built, and from the molecules, the ordinary things with which we are acquainted. Streams of photons make up rays of light and heat, carrying signals from one atom to another. The problem presents itself of understanding what characteristics these three kinds of particles must have in order that they may be capable of massing themselves together to form the complex and interesting world such as ours." He takes the illustration of carbon and shows how it enters into a hundred thousand compounds, that it is essential to organic life. The carbon atom has six electrons surrounding its nucleus.

Finds Men Most Important.

"Thus, as Eddington has expressed it," he said, "if nature had forgotten the number six, life as we know it could not exist." There are innumerable other examples of this kind, leading to the conclusion that this could not have just "happened."

Taking up the astronomer's universe, considering the possibilities of life on other planets and the course of the evolution of man on this, Dr. Compton finds it "not unlikely that if intelligent life is one of the goals toward which nature moves, the achievements of men are among the most important things occurring in the universe."

FAIR OFFICIALS TO SPEED PLANS AS 1934 OPENS

200 Exhibitor Contracts Already Signed.

BY EARL MULLIN.

With the opening of the new year, activity will be resumed at the World's Fair grounds, looking toward the opening of the second year of A Century of Progress on June 1. With most of the officials on vacations, activity has been practically at a standstill for the last several weeks.

While in general the 1934 Fair will follow the broad outline laid down for the 1933 Exposition, the exhibits will be new. Science and industry do not stand still, and, as the Fair is the direct reflection of developments in these fields, the 1934 Fair of necessity will differ from that of 1933. More than 200 exhibitors, with leases totaling $600,000, have already signed contracts.

Exhibitors Ask Extra Space.

Of significance is the fact that many of the major exhibitors of 1933 have made requests for additional space in 1934. A majority of the major concerns which have signed up for exhibition space sent letters to the Fair in which they told of additional business that resulted from their participation in the 1933 Exposition.

Among the companies which have already signed for space are the International Harvester, Firestone, Sears Roebuck, Otis Elevator, Southern Cypress, and Crane company. All of these have contracted for individual buildings.

The following companies have signed for special exhibits: Kohler company, American Rolling Mills, the Baltimore and Ohio, Burlington, M. K. & T., Rock Island, Northwestern, Great Northern, and Pennsylvania railroads, American Railway Express, American Steel, Alemite, American La France, and the Crown Agent for the Colonies, the organization presenting European and British trains.

25 Concessions Already Signed.

A hundred exhibitors have already signed for space in the various buildings, and new contracts are being made at the rate of seven a day. Approximately 25 per cent of these exhibitors are requesting additional space. So far 25 concessions have signed with the Fair, paying in $175,000. Although there will be as many concessions in 1934 as there were in 1933 fewer companies will hold the contracts, many groups being consolidated into single contract classifications.

Among the major concessionaires who have signed contracts, Old Heidelberg, Greyhound Lines, and Crown Foods. A majority of the Midway attractions have signed for the coming season.

Six Features Are Retained.

The six features operated by the Fair which proved to be among the most popular attractions of the last season have been retained. They are the Sky Ride, Wings of a Century, Fort Dearborn, Lama temple, Enchanted Island, and the World a Million Years Ago.

The only important change in the general contour of the Fair will be at the south end of the grounds. This year the Exposition extended to 39th street. Next year the Fair proper will be cut off at 35th street with the space from there to the south gate being used for store rooms and utility purposes. The army detachment will be stationed on Northerly island instead of the mainland.

Indications are that participation of states will not be as great officially in 1934 as in 1933, but that states without official exhibits will be represented by cities and counties. The participation of foreign governments is expected to be greater.

VARYING STARS HAILED BETTER DISTANCE TEST

They have established with accuracy that light, traveling 186,284 miles a second, requires eight minutes to reach the earth from the sun.

Dr. Walter Baade of the Carnegie institution's Mount Wilson observatory said today stars which brighten and grow dim for no sure reason may provide the needed yardstick.

"As soon as we have determined the brightness of these variables," he said, "and the length of the periods of fluctuation we can find the distances of the nebulæ of which they are a part.

"If we can get the distances of a dozen such star systems and determine their respective actual luminosities, then we will have a yardstick by which we can measure the distances of nebulæ as far out as the telescope will reach."

The nearest nebulæ, he said, are the Magellanic clouds, two star systems only about 100,000 light years away, visible only in the southern hemisphere.

YOUTH, CRIPPLE FOR SEVEN YEARS, SOON TO WALK

Rochester, Minn., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Joyous Christmas news greeted 18 year old Carl Seals of Madison, Wis., in a Rochester hospital. A cripple for seven years with two broken legs suffered in childhood games, he has undergone two operations in which bones from his mother's limbs were transplanted to his own and Mayo clinic specialists announced he should be able to walk again in six months. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Seals of Madison.

Doctors Give Creosote For Chest Colds
For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on.
Creomulsion with creosote and six other highly important medicinal elements, quickly and effectively stops coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.
Creomulsion is powerful in the treatment of colds and coughs, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take.
Your own druggist guarantees Creomulsion by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creomulsion as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creomulsion on hand for instant use.

SILVER.

President Roosevelt has ordered all the mints in the United States to accept newly mined American silver at 64½ cents an ounce. This figure was about 21 cents an ounce above the market on the day the order was issued.

The coinage of silver under the terms of the decree does not carry the full menace which lay in the Bryan scheme because today it is no longer possible to obtain gold from the treasury and the reserve banks on demand. If it were possible to take an ounce of silver to the mint and obtain 64 cents for it and then redeem the 64 cents in gold, there would soon be no gold left in the government's hands. The President's scheme avoids this danger partly by limiting the 64 cent silver to the newly mined product of American mines and also by the suspension of gold redemptions.

There are four classes who stand to benefit from the decree.

There are, in the first place, those engaged in one form or another in silver mining, including some 50,000 wage earners in the mines. Probably the number of miners employed will increase, and perhaps their wages will also increase somewhat. In addition, all those who own stock in mines which produce silver and persons who have things to sell to miners and mine owners should benefit in greater or less degree. In view of the small numbers concerned, however, it is scarcely conceivable that the benefits to miners and mine owners, even if they far exceed the estimates, will make much difference in the national economy viewed as a whole. An increase of half a cent in the price of corn would be vastly more beneficial.

In a second class who have long demanded some kind of silver monetization are those who can be designated as debtors. They calculate that the free coinage of silver will make money cheaper, give them more of it, and therefore enable them to discharge their obligations at less sacrifice to themselves. It is not easy to see how an increase in the profits of mine owners will increase the bank account of an Iowa hog raiser. He has of recent months seen the price of hogs decline at the same time that the price of silver has risen, and may be pardoned for a certain skepticism about the remedy, at least as it applies to him.

The third class of supposed beneficiaries consists of those engaged in exporting to silver standard countries, particularly China and India. The assumption is that the Shanghai merchant can now buy more of our goods with his silver coin than he could before. Few students of money and international trade will accept this assumption or the conclusion to which it leads. The Shanghai merchant has none of the new 64 cent silver. His is still worth only forty-odd cents an ounce in America. The assumed benefits to our foreign trade will not come until his silver coins are worth 64 cents an ounce in the United States, while the prices of the things he wants to buy have not risen in proportion. If this should happen the Chinese people would have every reason to include Santa Claus among their gods, for the Chinese could then obtain half as much again in American goods as they now do in exchange for their present exports.

Of course, if the debtors in this country reap the expected benefits, there will be no improvement in oriental trade, and vice versa. Either the debtors or the exporters will benefit, but not both.

The fourth class of beneficiaries are political manipulators. Four-fifths of the silver mined in this country comes from six states, Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and Utah. Six states equal twelve senators and a few representatives thrown in. Twelve senators equal one-eighth of all the senators there are. It is a substantial bloc when added to the others encouraged by similar bounties. Perhaps it might be worth noting that the regular session of congress will convene in a fortnight.

MONACO VERSUS MISSISSIPPI.

Monaco, the principality which lives off Monte Carlo, has obtained possession of bonds of two repudiated Mississippi issues of 1833 and 1838. The private holders gave them to the government, which now asks leave to file a suit against Mississippi in the Supreme court of the United States. Individuals have no such legal remedy. They may petition the sovereignty of the state for the remedy of wrong and for compensation, but may not impute by a lawsuit that the king has done a wrong.

Mississippi sold its bonds abroad and got gold for them. The money was used to set up two banks which got into difficulties, and the state which had backed the issues with its full faith and credit found itself holding the bag. Although at first the obligation was acknowledged, it was later repudiated, and the bag, empty, was given to the creditors to hold. Their descendants and heirs have been holding it ever since, as have the holders of other repudiated southern bonds.

The case cannot be given a good face, and, inasmuch as the holders decline to forget the episode, the bad faith of several states has been converted into a reproach against the American nation as a whole. It must be noted, however, that the general course of debtors in Europe within recent years has taken something off the curse. France, for instance, has given considerable countenance to the repudiating American states. It has been supported in this by a number of other debtor countries, and even Great Britain, although avoiding technical default, has proved that there are other ways of meeting obligations than paying them in full on the day due.

Mississippi and the other repudiating states are not lonesome in a highly moral world. They have much company in the doctrine that the way to meet a note is to damn the creditor.

THOUGHTS IN THE WAKE OF THE SEA SERPENT.

There is more than has as yet met the eye in the Loch Ness sea serpent. The monster is not to be disposed of lightly by the thought that it is the holiday season and that possibly the Scotch have ripened more than is the wont of this admirably restrained and heroic people owing to the greater flowing of the bowl. Such holiday hilarities have their habit, even in Scotland, but you can't account for this serpent in that fashion.

Sea serpents always appear in those moments of human experience which are the despair of historians because they are dull and the joy of peoples because they are happy and carefree. When all the world is so quiet that the cable editor has nothing to do and both domestic and foreign news finds only contented people going to the movies and living off the full dinner pail, then the sea serpent arises in his horrendous majesty. He may have the news sense of a wise statesman who releases his utterances on Sunday because he knows it is a proverbially dull news day and space is available Monday morning. Crediting this sea serpent with the news sense of his species, we must then inquire why he appeared at this time.

The only explanation creditable to his intelligence is a startlingly optimistic one. Why did this sage monster appear when Mr. Hitler is conspicuously hitling, when Mr. Mussolini shows no abatement, when France has just again defaulted on the debt, and when the New Deal offers fresh manifestations every day? Would a wise sea serpent think that these were quiet times on the news desk? No, that is not credible. Therefore it may be assumed that the serpent is prophetic. He realizes that a great peace impends which despairing humans do not yet perceive. The vexed world is about to lay down its troubles and turn its smiling face again into the sun. The happy event must be imminent and the serpent may have anticipated it by the briefest moment of time.

It may be that this monster is more an omen than an evidence, but the joyous thought is permitted that the peaceful times of which he is so sure a manifestation are just around the corner and will soon appear. Then Dollfuss and Hitler will shake hands, France will demilitarize its side of the German frontier, the Gloomy Dean of London will be espied tripping a May dance down the Strand, and we shall all give over viewing with alarm. Such is one view to be taken of the Loch Ness phenomenon. There is, however, we regret to say, another. Scientists, adventurers, and men familiar with sea serpents who have given the Loch Ness specimen some attention think that it may be a surviving plesiosaurus. It is described as being fifty feet in length with a diameter of five feet at the thickest, with long and tapering neck and tail. The thought that it may be a survival of the old saurians leaves open the way to another conjecture. It may be that it is not a survival but a return.

We pause before the possibility that evolution, having taken a detached and unemotional survey of results to date, having contemplated man, nature, and all nature's works, has concluded that the affair is largely a failure, that the initial direction was wrong and the results not worthy of further continued effort along that line. If this were the case, if so momentous a decision had been reached, there would then be observed in the Loch Ness exhibit an evidence of nature backtracking, reversing the process by which evolution has reached its present results, and going back to protoplasm for a fresh start, if that then would seem advisable, all things considered.

Many times the affairs of this planet seem to justify the belief that probably the wisest course would be to concede that nothing is getting anywhere this way and that the wisest decision would be to call it a day and get back to the primal sludge for a reconsideration of the whole matter and without any predetermination that it was worth while doing anything about it.

It would not be wise to be dogmatic about the serpent or to close the door to further evidence and speculation. There is something to be said of the phenomenon as an omen of brighter times, fully justifying the evolutionary program to date, and something to be said for the theory that we are beholding a confession of error and a determination to make the only amends possible. The philosophical thing to do is abide the future turn of events with tranquillity, although with a keen interest for the discovery of the truth.

Editorial of the Day

IMPROVE THE WATERWAY.

[Peoria Transcript.]

Looking ahead to increased use of the lakes to the gulf waterway, army engineers declare that within a few years traffic on the rivers will require a channel 300 feet wide and nine feet deep.

At present the channel is 200 feet wide and nine feet deep in most parts. Reduction of the water intake from Lake Michigan under a Supreme court order after Jan. 1, 1939, however, will threaten the channel unless further improvements are made.

To provide a suitable channel for future traffic needs, despite the curtailment of diversion of water from Lake Michigan, will cost approximately 15 million dollars. More than half of this money would be spent on the construction of locks and dams to slow up the passage of water in the Illinois river.

One of the proposed locks would be built south of this city, while the other would be constructed near Beardstown. Building of the locks and dams would naturally stimulate industrial activity in the city and would also provide permanent employment in maintenance of equipment.

The waterway system is just beginning to prove its value to the great inland river valleys. After spending billions of dollars for many less important projects congress cannot balk at appropriating money necessary to bring the inland waterway to a high degree of efficiency.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE JAPANESE are rejoicing mightily because a son has been born to the empress of Japan. He will some day be the emperor, although the little prince has three sisters. Japan does not permit a woman ruler, but, shucks! the young prince by the time he is old enough to come to the throne may not care to do very much but smoke cigarets and shake dice for the drinks, while his sisters may all develop into women well equipped with brains, character, personality, and energy. But you can't tell; maybe they'll just laze around in pajamas and read novels, put on lipstick in the elevator, and be so dumb they'd make an oyster look like Socrates. It's a toss-up any way you look at it.

AND ONE GOOD THING is that now that Christmas is over the headline writers will have to let go their death grip on that "Yule" thing and we can put it back in the cannery in Jar 455, where it properly belongs in the good old song, "Yule be sorry when you see me sliding down our cellar door."

NAY! DON'T JUMP to the conclusion that the boss has been engaged in a barroom brawl if he comes to the office with a black eye or a bump on his forehead. FOX AND GRAPES.

I wonder at the people
Who do important things:
Who go to proper concerts
When the proper tenor sings;
Who listen to a symphony
Of Beethoven or Brahms,
Complacent in their sureness
That their hats enhance their charms;
Who go to picture galleries
With lorgnettes adjusted—so—
And speak with certain knowledge
Of incomprehensible Van Gogh;
Who sneer at Leonardo
As a painter quaint—naïve—
While they gaze at purple diagrams
Labeled "Beach at Eve."
They always read the proper books,
They comprehend Miss Stein.
And worse than nature hates a vacuum
They abhor a rhyme.
They take Einstein out to dinner
And discuss arithmetic.
They lap up all the latest bilge
And it doesn't make them sick;
It only fortifies them
As they go from here to there,
Nibbling bits of Intellect
And tasting Cultural Fare.
I wonder at important people
And at the things they do—
And the proper things that they admire,
And at the proper moment, too.

And I think that I will spend my life
Watching tadpoles in a creek
And tending lazy hollyhocks
And planting seeds, and learning Greek.

THE "LIQUOR CONTROL" bill brings forth the very gravest discussion among our solons (newspaper English for members of the legislature) at Springfield. As we are to have bars with the customers sitting on stools in front and not standing in the rowdyish manner of the old time saloons, "liquor control" probably refers to how to keep the customer sitting firmly on his stool after he has imbibed a trifle too much. It might be a good idea to have the stools furnished with straps so that the customer could be firmly strapped in after the fashion of airplane pilots. Or perhaps the stools in front of the bar could have a thingamajig, such as a baby's high chair has, that puts a wooden bar across in front of the baby after he has been seated in the high chair and then locks automatically so he won't fall out. Or if these suggestions aren't adopted then, by golly, we ought to glue the customers in their stools in front of the bar. We've got to have liquor control some way or other.

OF COURSE, it may bring a little dismay to any one who discovers from the front page of the newspapers that his name has been omitted from the new social register of this or that town. But he should take comfort from the fact that otherwise nobody would know that he had ever been in the social register. Or care a damn.

That means people will stop telling us whenever we sniffle or cough to go right home, soak our feet in hot water, take a good shot of whisky and go right to bed; drink a hot lemonade with whisky in it, wrap up in four blankets and go to bed. Whatever this new way is I hope there's no footbath in it or hot lemonade or blankets. The rest of the old cure I don't mind.

DERMOID CYSTS.

A CORRESPONDENT writes for information about a tumor recently removed from the abdomen of a woman. It was reported as containing hair, teeth, and sebaceous matter. She wants to know what kind of a tumor it is, whence came the teeth and hair, and whether such a tumor is cancerous. The name by which this by no means rare form of tumor is commonly known is dermoid cyst. Such tumors are not cancerous and have but little tendency to become so.

The one referred to follows its type very closely. The typical dermoid consists of a good, firm cyst wall within which there are found hair, skin, and sometimes teeth and nails embedded in a greasy mass. The abdominal and pelvic cavities are the most frequent locations of this tumor, but it can be found in practically any part of the body. Another favorite location is the back toward the lower end of the backbone, and ranking next in frequency of location is probably the neck region.

Dermoids are congenital. They are present at birth, but if small or in some inconspicuous location they may escape notice until late in life. The writer has in mind an intelligent business man beyond the meridian of life, who plays golf, and has always considered himself a good specimen and in perfect health. During the world war he passed physical examinations several times and was recorded as being without a blemish.

A few months ago he developed a soreness at the end of his spine. This caused him to explore, whereupon he noticed a swelling. His surgeon pronounced the swelling a dermoid cyst, told him the beginnings of it were there at birth. It was successfully removed.

The phase of a dermoid that attracts attention and intrigues is the presence in it of hair, skin, and other well developed structures. The explanation is easy. Dermoids develop out of a piece of skin or of membrane, out of which skin forms. In the process of development a piece of this membrane becomes displaced somehow, and, in its new location, is set apart from normal skin. Being live tissue and properly nourished it proceeds to make the various kinds of tissue that develop normally out of skin cells. These are hair, teeth, and sometimes nails and pieces of skin. The sebaceous glands of the skin, made from skin cells, secrete grease. This is the origin of the mass of greasy material that makes up the bulk of the contents of the cyst. If the cyst contains liquid the probability is that it is sweat that has been secreted by sweat glands.

In some cases, along with the generating skin tissue, there is some suppurating connective tissue. It follows that some dermoids contain structures developed out of connective tissue, along with the hair, teeth, nails, and grease.

BUTTERMILK.

R. R. writes:

1. Is buttermilk fattening? I have been drinking two glasses daily, in addition to plenty of fruits and vegetables.
2. Will it help overcome constipation?

REPLY.

1. Two glasses daily should not cause you to put on weight, unless you eat as much as you should, and then, Rip Van Winkielike, do not count the buttermilk.
2. It may help.

WARTS ON FEET.

Miss B. J. writes: I would like to know the cause and cure of warts on the bottom of my feet.

REPLY.

Plantar warts are not cured by the simple procedures that suffice for warts elsewhere. They can be cut off or burned off by a physician or a foot specialist.

From Across the Sea

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI—A Chinese military commander, Gen. Chow Si-keng, who ruled the inland province of Kweichow for several years, attempted to popularize road construction in his district by minting a silver dollar which contained a picture of a motor car on one side. But the motor car dollar brought Gen. Chow bad luck. He was shot recently while riding in his car at the head of his troops during a civil war with a rival militarist.

Gen. Chow was ambitious to control not only his native province but the neighboring provinces as well. The lack of modern roads handicapped his military movements, so he set about the construction of motor roads leading from his capital, Kweiyang, to the provincial borders in three directions. Then he imported several cars for the use of staff officers.

In order to popularize his road construction program and also himself he hit on the scheme of minting a provincial dollar with a replica of an automobile on one side. Some 300,000 of them were turned out and placed in circulation.

All went well until a native priest or soothsayer made the discovery that the weeds at the side of the road under the car were so arranged as to roughly spell the general's Christian or baptismal name, "Si-keng." The soothsayer said the placing of the commander's name under the car meant that the governor would be killed by a motor car. And so the forecast was carried out, for Gen. Chow actually was killed while riding in his car.

Some of the general's political enemies alleged that he had originally intended to put his own picture on the provincial dollar in imitation of Yuan Shih-kai and the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, early republican presidents, but lacked courage for that and then hit on the subterfuge of using a motor car with his initials underneath.

The automobile dollars are standard as to silver content and circulate in southwestern China along with the national dollars, all of which now contain the profile of Dr. Sun Yat-sen on one side and on the other a picture of a Chinese ship or junk.

The inscription on the side of the coin containing the likeness of a motor car reads, "Minted by Kweichow Provincial Government," while the reverse contains the inscription, "Kweichow Silver Dollar, 17th Year of the Republic." The Nanking government recently prohibited the coining of dollars in the provinces in an attempt to centralize all minting facilities in the large government mint at Shanghai, said to be the largest in the world.

FOR FREE TRADE IN MILK.

Oconto Falls, Wis., Dec. 19.—The federal government has placed a tight line around Chicago designating a certain area as the Chicago milk shed, and according to the milk code no bottled milk or cream can enter Chicago from outside this area. Milk for fluid purposes has been declared a public utility, in that way the price has been fixed, both for producer and for consumer. We have a government created monopoly, with an embargo on milk outside a certain area.

Inside this area the producer gets $2.10 per hundred for 3.5 milk, or 60 cents per pound butterfat. The consumer pays 11 cents a quart, or more than $1.50 per pound butterfat, for his milk in bottles. Outside this area butterfat is 16 cents, paid by creameries just now to producers, and a little more paid by cheese factories. There are many inspected dairy farms outside city milk sheds. Others which are not inspected would have no trouble fulfilling inspection requirements. Any dairy farm could well afford to qualify for passing board of health inspection by state or city if this inspection would increase the price for butterfat only 6 cents per pound. To a farm producing 7,000 pounds of butterfat annually this would mean $420 increase in annual income.

The writer has never been able to understand why it is all right to feed young children butter made from pasteurized cream, factory inspected, but not farm inspected, and not all right to feed the same children cream in bottles from pasteurized cream from these same farms. Three pints of heavy whipping cream contain about one pound of butterfat, for which the farmer outside the milk sheds gets less than 20 cents now, or less than 7 cents a pint. Why should inspection make the price multiply to the consumer? Why should putting it in bottles cost so much more than putting it in packages?

If a consumers' league from a city got together with a producers' league from the country they could not make a bargain mutually satisfactory to both groups, even if the milk was inspected milk. The Democratic party believes in free trade, but not for and between its own citizens. Foreigners can chisel in on our cheese markets and also ship in butter, and that is all right, but let farmers outside the milk sheds chisel in on city markets—that is not all right. For us outside the milk sheds a voluntary cutting down of production is proposed. We get a high processing tax which it is agreed will lower factory prices if we cooperate. If we do not cooperate and cut down production we get much less for our milk. And that is "voluntary" production control. Milk shed producers get price fixing and an embargo. Outsiders get neither. For outsiders the new deal looks like a raw deal.

Amendment IX. in the bill of rights of the federal constitution reads: "The enumeration in the constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people." How about the milk codes, for consumers and for outsiders? If all farms are shortly inspected, then what justification is there for such price differences for the various uses of milk?

SCENT.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Today's TRIBUNE notes that European women use only one kind of perfume, while American women use several different kinds, sometimes all of them at once.

Americans are more sensible. By using different aromas the different scent brings back the sense of smell so that she can tell just how much perfume she has used.

But the Europeans, what do they do? The woman will choose one perfume and use it all the rest of her days. She becomes so accustomed to its odor that each time she puts it on she has to use a little bit more to be able to smell it. The time comes when they can be scented a block away.

ALDERMEN AS SALOONKEEPERS.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—You have done your utmost to give us liquor and the saloon, which is a step backward. Now you owe it to your readers to save us from the city hall controlling the sale of liquor. You must know what it will mean. Local option has always been a failure anywhere. The aldermen owning the saloons—and more than one do now—would be disastrous to the city.

CHANGING THE STREET SIGNS.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—The groups fostering the changes in street names should collect from their members a sum sufficient to pay the cost for new street marking signs. Maybe this will result in the selection of streets a block or so long to perpetuate the name of their national hero.

DEEDING PROPERTY.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man wishes to deed his property to a friend, having only a distant relative whom he wishes to disinherit. 1. Would it be legal to record the deed after his death so the property may remain his during his life? 2. Do the papers have to be drawn up by an attorney? 3. If this is not legal what is the right thing to do?

L. F.

1. This would involve the risk of attack on the theory that the deed was not validly delivered during the grantor's lifetime.
2. We advise the employment of an attorney where the facts are such as to invite attack.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

LAYS DELAY IN VOTE CONTEST TO TAX STRIKE

No Time for McKinley Suit, Says Jarecki.

The enormous volume of work thrown upon the county court by the tax strike and the number of delinquent taxpayers in Cook county was cited yesterday by County Judge Jarecki in denying that he had been dilatory in hearing the election contest brought by Charles F. McKinley, former municipal judge.

McKinley is contesting the election of Judge George V. McIntyre, who, on the official canvass of votes in the Nov. 4, 1930, election, was returned winner over him by 2,368 votes. He has asked the state Supreme court to issue a writ of mandamus ordering Judge Jarecki to finish the contest hearing "within a reasonable time," charging that it has been unduly delayed. Judge Jarecki's statement is in the form of an answer to McKinley's petition, to be filed tomorrow at Springfield.

680,000 in Litigation.

"Partly due to the depression and partly due to an organized tax strike, an unprecedented amount of tax litigation has arisen in the last four years which has all but overwhelmed the County court of Cook county, presided over by this respondent," the answer states. "Over 680,000 out of the 1,100,000 parcels of real estate in Cook county were covered by objections filed in the County court against one or more of the 1928, 1929, and 1930 taxes, all of which objections came for disposition before this respondent.

"With such an enormous number of objections filed, tax collections in Cook county dwindled to a point which endangered the very existence of the county, the city of Chicago, and the various other municipal corporations in Cook county. The unpaid school teachers paraded the streets demanding their pay, and the pay roll for county employés fell as far as eight months behind schedule.

Had to Hear Objections.

"Before any substantail progress could be made in collecting the millions of dollars of delinquent taxes, the mass of objections pending in the County court had to be disposed of. Under such circumstances this respondent considered it his absolute duty to assist in collecting the unpaid taxes in every way possible, and considered that such tax litigation should receive the bulk of his time."

Judge Jarecki pointed out that to dispose of the mountain of tax litigation, he had taken no regular vacation since 1929, and that his only absences from the bench were occasioned by illness or similar unavoidable circumstances. In the year from Dec. 1, 1932, to Nov. 30 of this year he disposed of 38,152 tax objection cases, many covering hundreds of parcels of real estate, and one, filed by a tax strike organization, covering nearly 57,000 parcels."

7,293 Tax Receiverships.

Since the passage of the Kerner-Skarda act, Judge Jarecki informed the Supreme court, he has appointed County Treasurer McDonough receiver to collect delinquent taxes on 7,293 properties, and has heard thousands of other petitions in which receiverships were averted by payment of the delinquent bills. These receivership actions, Judge Jarecki avers, have resulted directly and indirectly in the payment of approximately $95,000,000 in taxes.

"This respondent," the answer continues, "states that the petitioner for a writ of mandamus herein shows that the election contest was continued 25 times when both parties were present. He avers that all or substantially all such continuances were either requested or consented to by the attorney who represented the relator in the proceeding before the respondent."

The answer will be filed in the name of State's Attorney Courtney by Edward F. Dunne, former governor and attorney for the board of election commissioners, Hayden N. Bell, head of the civil law department of the state's attorney's office, and Assistant State's Attorney Robert S. Cushman.

CORONER TO SIFT DEATH OF WOMAN AFTER EXPOSURE

An inquest will be held in Waukegan at 9 o'clock this morning by Coroner John L. Taylor of Lake county into the death of Mrs. Marie Nottke, 76 years old, of 1042 Pine street, Waukegan. She was found semi-conscious outside her home in the bitter cold Christmas eve. She was apparently suffering from exposure. She died yesterday in the Lake county hospital.

At the time she was lying outside in the cold her sons, Frank, 44 years old, and William, 46, were inside the house. They were arrested on charges of intoxication on complaint of Miss Ida Himmelreich, county humane officer. They were discharged yesterday by Magistrate Clarence Brown. Because of stories told to Miss Himmelreich that Mrs. Nottke had been locked out of her house Christmas eve after a fight, the sons have been asked to attend today's inquest.

COUNCIL EXPECTED TO MERGE TWO CITY BUREAUS TOMORROW

At its last meeting in 1933—tomorrow—the city council is expected to vote for the consolidation of the bureau of streets and the department of gas and electricity, if approval be given the plan today by the finance committee. Mayor Kelly proposed the consolidation last Wednesday and no vigorous opposition has been noted.

The mayor believes the two divisions of the city government should be joined because they do similar work. The bureau of streets uses the vehicle tax for pavement repairs, cleans streets and collects garbage. The department of gas and electricity has charge of street lighting. If combined, the new division should be known as the department of streets and electricity, the mayor suggested.

It will be explained to the finance committee today that the council, in order to carry through the consolidation, would have to abolish both of the present departments. Then the new department and its quota of employés would be stipulated in the 1934 corporate budget.

The council will hold its first 1934 meeting next week on a day to be closen tomorrow. The chief business at that meeting will be passage of the continuation ordinance which gives department heads the right to spend money in the conduct of their duties until the 1934 corporate budget is passed.

SCHOOL LEADERS TO DISCUSS LAW UNDER NEW DEAL

Convention Will Open Here Thursday.

Changes in legal theories under the New Deal and recent innovations in the teaching and practice of law will be discussed at the 31st annual convention of the Association of American Law Schools, which opens at the Stevens hotel Thursday. Representatives of 76 member schools of the association and sever l nationally known judges and attorneys will attend the three day session.

A round table discussion of legal problems arising under the New Deal will be held Friday morning under the chairmanship of Eugene A. Gilmore of Iowa State university. Constitutionality of the NRA and AAA is to be considered.

Lawyer's Social Services.

Thursday afternoon the convention will stress the social service of the lawyer, with particular emphasis on the opportunity of law schools to develop appreciation of the lawyer's duties as a public servant. Speakers will include Kenneth Dayton of the New York bar, Will Shafroth of the American Bar association, Leon Green of Northwestern university, and Karl N. Llewellyn of Columbia university.

On Saturday afternoon the convention will devote itself to modern trends in jurisprudence. Papers will be delivered by Dean Roscoe Pound of Harvard university, Federal Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson Jr., and Jerome Frank, general counsel of the AAA.

Yale Man to Speak.

The convention will open Thursday with an address by Charles E. Clark of Yale university on "Law Professor, What Now?" It will end with an election of officers for 1934. The present officers are Dean Clark, president, and Dean Rufus C. Harris of Tulane university, secretary-treasury. Members of the executive committee are Dean Merton L. Fenson of the University of Cincinnati, Dean Albert J. Harno of the University of Illinois, Prof. Henry Rottschaefer of the University of Minnesota, and Deans Clark and Harris.

Membership in the association is held by schools rather than by individuals. Only those schools which meet specified standards as to personnel, library, curriculum, and the like may become members.

Forced to Have Tickets, Yule Worshipers Storm Church

PARIS, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Worshipers, angry because they were required to have tickets, rushed the main door of the famous Montparnasse church, Our Lady of the Fields, to attend Christmas midnight mass. They were dispersed from about the entrance to the already packed church by scores of hastily summoned police. The priest and choir continued mass without interruption.

YOUTH FOUND SLAIN.

Columbia, S. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Discovery of the body of Herbert H. Harris Jr., Columbia boy missing since his 15th birthday Saturday, on a roadside near here was reported late today by police headquarters. It was said the youth had been slain by a blow on the head.

5 MEN ARE HELD ON CHARGES OF KILLING PRELATE

Admit Being in Church During Murder.

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Four men, all of whom admitted they were members of Tashnag, a revolutionary organization whose aim is restoration of the old republic of Armenia, were under arrest last night in connection with the assassination of Archbishop Leon Tourian in the Holy

Two new arrests were made during the day. The prisoners were described as Martin Mazian, 41 years old, and Asjan Yerjinen, 42, both of 321 East 28th street. As in the cases of the two men arrested on Sunday, they admitted they were members of the revolutionary organization that has been working to withdraw Armenia from the dominance of soviet Russia.

A fifth man, Juan Gonzales Tchalikian, later was arrested. A blood stained shirt found hidden in a store was traced to him. He admitted being in the church, but denied participating in the murder. He said he was knocked down by an enraged parishioner while trying to get out of the church.

The blow drew blood, he said, and that is why he changed shirts. His explanation of the stains was accepted by the police. Tchalikian denied being a member of Tashnag.

Forty Witnesses Questioned.

Detectives declared the men had admitted being in the church when Archbishop Tourian, head of the Armenian church in the new world, was attacked by a gang of men as he was proceeding to the altar. They denied, however, that they had taken part in the stabbing.

More than forty witnesses, some of them brought from adjoining states, were questioned by detectives. Several of the witnesses were sent to headquarters to view the prisoners, but no announcement regarding identifications was made.

Among the witnesses questioned was a man described by police as an official of an Armenian society. Inspector Francis J. Kear refused to discuss details, but said the police were seeking other suspects, on the theory that as many as six men had been in the group that surrounded the archbishop when he was stabbed.

Some from Out of Town.

The desire of the police to learn more of the activities of the anti-soviet group was based on statements by worshipers who had been in the Holy Cross church that at least 25 of the archbishop's political adversaries might have been present during the assassination, and by charges of the archbishop's friends that they believed his opposition to the anti-soviet group had led to his murder.

It was learned that some witnesses had come from New Jersey and some from Pennsylvania. In addition, it was reported, police inquiries were made in Boston.

Plans for the funeral of the archbishop had not been completed. A movement was under way to hold the burial services in some place larger than any of the Armenian churches in the city.

Members of the executive council of the Armenian church, called from various parts of the country, are to meet in New York tomorrow to elect a temporary successor to th archbishop.

BLIND MOTHER BURNED; INFANT DIES IN FLAMES

Battle Creek, Mich., Dec. 25.—(AP)—A blind mother was critically burned and her infant daughter burned to death tonight by fire in their home which apparently started in straw spread over the floor as a part of the family's Christmas celebration.

The mother, Mrs. Mary Britvec, 42, is in a serious condition at a hospital. Her ten months old daughter, Catharine, died as the father, Ivan, 47, returning from a neighborhood celebration, carried her o t of the house. He also rescued his wife, who had left her bed when she heard the flames in an adjoining room.

YOU CAN MAKE advertising plans IN CHICAGO ON THE SAME BASIS . . . .

The development of household appliances is one of the amazing chapters in present day civilization. Manufacturers of these products have left nothing to chance in their conquest of greater efficiency. And, in presenting your product to Chicago you can follow the same rule of efficiency. Ask yourself the questions presented here. They will help you in reaching an answer to the Chicago newspaper advertising situation.

1. Which single issue of a Chicago newspaper carries 25% of the entire advertising appropriation of State Street's large department stores which advertise every day of the week?
2. Does our advertising appear in the newspaper which has special, large sections devoted to women's interests—and which has other sections for all members of the family?
3. Do we buy our Chicago advertising at the lowest rate per thousand circulation?
4. Are we giving adequate advertising support to our dealers in Chicago, its suburbs and surrounding area?
5. Which Chicago newspaper reaches half of all the families in Chicago and suburbs, and also has 20% or better coverage in 205 towns of 1,000 or more population in the Chicago sales territory?
6. Which Chicago newspaper will give practically as much circulation as any two Chicago afternoon papers combined at a lower advertising line rate?

Chicago is a big market—and an unusual market. An individual study will convince you that it merits special consideration. It will reveal to you that blanket methods of choosing newspapers do not work here. It will suggest forcibly that one newspaper stands out above all others. Get the answers to the above questions—the full facts—then you will understand why Chicago is different!

During the first eleven months of this year these nationally famed and locally celebrated products have used the Sunday Tribune to sell the Chicago market:

New Sub-Deb Frocks Gayest Things in Town

Swirling Flounces and High Necklines Abound.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

QUITE the gayest things in town, these new sub-deb formals, demure to almost the nth degree of sophistication, made with silhouettes and high necklines that will more than satisfy carping critics of ancient age, and made of rustling feminine silks to appease the hunger of small graceful girls who have dreamed about such elegance for years.

You'll find flesh tints that are a long way from the innocuous pale pinks that lack a certain something demanded by these future fashionables . . . lovely soft light blue and flowered patterns that are exact replicas of what the very grownup sophisticated sister will wear . . . a knockout scarlet affair with yards of ruffles "a la rhumba" and even a faint suspicion of a train. All of them are long; most of them have swirling flounces and the necklines are as interesting and as different as anything that has been unpacked this season.

One model of blue has loops of darker blue velvet laced in and out of the neckline in front, looped for shoulder decorations and a deep V backline that will convince any doubting sub-deb that modern dress designers understand what a young party-goer should have. Ragged big mums made of small patterned flowered silk form the shoulder straps and back of a matching flowered silk party frock with a clear white background.

Dr. Solomon Freehof Resigns to Accept a Place in Pittsburgh

Dr. Solomon B. Freehof, rabbi of K. A. M. temple, Drexel boulevard and 50th street, yesterday informed the trustees of the temple that he had accepted an invitation to serve the Congregation Rodes Shalom in Pittsburgh. His resignation becomes effective Sept. 1.

Dr. Freehof was born in London in 1892 and was taken to Baltimore by his parents in 1904. He was graduated from City college of Baltimore, the University of Cincinnati, and the Hebrew Union college in Cincinnati.

Except during the world war, when he served as a chaplain in the A. E. F., Dr. Freehof was a member of the faculty of the Cincinnati Rabbinical seminary as a professor of liturgy from his graduation in 1915 until 1923. He was given the degree of doctor of divinity in 1920.

He was called to Chicago in 1924 as rabbi of K. A. M. temple.

In Winnetka

Miss Barbara Bastien made her debut yesterday afternoon at a tea at the Indian Hill club at Winnetka. She wore a simple gown of white brocaded with gold that had long sleeves and a train, and she carried white flowers. Mrs. Alvin E. Bastien, who received with her daughter, wore a gown of black material through which ran a silver thread. She wore orchids.

Assisting the debutante were the Misses Allene Withers, Patty Calkins, Peggy Hixon, Nancy Morse, Patsy Keith, Jean Wilhelm, Jean Hyman, Myrtle and Lillian Lampert, Dorothy Ott, Harriet Fentress, Jean Lamson, Marie Louise Gardner, Barbara Hobart, Eleanor Janney, and Barbara Shaffer.

New Yuletide Display of Art Is Opened Here

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Chicago Galleries association, 220 North Michigan avenue, has followed up its promise of a double-header Yuletide exhibit by opening a second Christmas exhibition fully as lovely in every way as the one which preceded it.

In fact a number of the earlier paintings have been retained for the good of the show and the score or so new pictures bring out their value while maintaining an excellence of their own.

Chief among the latest canvases are several gorgeous still life arrangements. Anna Lee Stacey has never painted a finer or more decorative canvas than the one she shows here, flowers in a jar, beautifully handled. Marie Blanke offers a delicate "White Petunias," exquisite in coloring and composition. Carol Aus, across the gallery, repeats the exquisite note in her fascinating little vase of sweet peas against a yellow background. Farther along that wall Marvin Cone of the Stone City, Ia., group, submits a brilliant little study, field flowers in a deep blue tiny vase with behind them the wash drawing of a nude.

Frank J. Gavencky and Pauline Palmer have gone realist with a vengeance and contribute two striking paintings. Mrs. Palmer shows a stove, one of those old-fashioned, country station waiting-room affairs that glow red hot on winter days and in the summer are comfortless eyesores.

Mr. Gavencky gives us three ducks hung out to freeze on the side of a barn, the barn so meticulously painted that you think it a real piece of wood.

Engagement of Miss Eleanor M'Cormick Told

Will Become Bride of Boston Resident.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ADDING romance to the cheery Christmas season is the announcement that Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick are making this morning of the engagement of their elder daughter, Eleanor Morris, to Sargent Collier, son of the late E. Pomeroy Collier and Mrs. Collier of Boston.

The relatives and friends who dropped in at the McCormick apartment on Astor street yesterday to extend Christmas greeting were told the interesting news and met the fortunate young man, for he and his mother were here to spend the holiday with Miss McCormick. The Colliers are leaving for the east today, however, for their visit is short—but sweet, undoubtedly. No date for the wedding has been set.

Those who were at Miss McCormick's regular Sunday afternoon at home heard the news then. It has been the custom of Miss McCormick and her sister to keep open house every Sunday.

Miss McCormick, who has a younger sister, Helen, and a brother, Robert Hall III., was educated at Foxcroft and her fiancé was graduated from Harvard in 1926. She made her debut in 1928 and since then has taken an active part in the social life of the city's smartest younger set.

Her sister, better known as Patty than as Helen, made her debut two or three years ago, and she, too, is a popular member of society.

Both girls spend much time away from Chicago, however, for they and their mother go to their summer place at Bar Harbor, Me., early in the summer and stay late in the fall, so it really is only during the winter that they are here.

Edward C. Crossetts Will Give Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Crossett are giving a buffet supper tonight for their daughter and son-in-law, the junior John L. Mothersheads, who are here to spend three days with the former Elizabeth Crossett's parents before returning east to their home near Boston. Mrs. Edward S. French, the former Ruth Crossett, arrives today from Crossett, Ark., where she and her husband are living, to spend a few days with her family.

Later on, around the middle of January, Mr. Crossett and Miss Carolyn Crossett, who is here for the holidays, are planning to go out to the Crossett ranch in California. Mrs. Crossett will not go west with her husband and daughter, but will join them later on.

Miss Carolyn Veeder, daughter of Mrs. Albert H. Veeder of Winnetka, has invited eight friends to dine and dance at the Drake hotel tonight at a small party she is giving for Miss Helen Fulton, a debutante of this season. Miss Veeder is at home this win-

MAYBE nobody has really noticed it, but missing in the Christmas mail this year were the Yuletide greetings from speakeasy proprietors.

Cards—Ball—Signs. The cards most typical of Christmas were sent by speakeasy proprietors. They never went in for novelties, but sent conservative pictures of the Old English type, with coaches and sleds, bright Christmas interiors, with log fires blazing, Christmas carolers out in the beautiful snow. . . . We missed Texas Guinan's card a little this year, too. The late queen of the night clubs always sent an old fashioned, though rich, card. Last year it was the Three Wise Men and the Star of Bethlehem, if we remember aright.

GUESTS at the Millcreek Hunt club dinner dance at Deerpath inn the other evening are still talking about what a gay and beautiful party it was. So if you'll give ear a minute, we'll give tongue about some of the highlights. Beautiful women, pink coats—the orchestra wore the pink coats of the hunt club members and some of the members wore the most beautiful pink full dress coats you ever saw, with the blue and gold insignia of the club on the lapel; sophisticated and beautiful evening gowns (we liked particularly the beige kasha one that was a triumph of cut and fit), excellent music, champagne. The ballroom was adorned with murals that caricatured hunting scenes, done in colored chalk. The musicians, sitting in a little enclosure off the room, shadow-box effect, were a picture themselves—and we keep wondering if the hunt club members got their pink coats back in time for the hunt the following day. There was dancing between courses, and after dinner the M. F. H., as toastmaster, called for speeches that turned out to be more badinage than speechmaking. And after the speeches were over everybody went back into the informal little ballroom, which had something of the character of an English taproom, with its deal tables and benches, to dance the rest of the night. . . . We repeat, it was a gay and charmingly handled party.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Eva Le Gallienne, returning to Chicago after an absence of nearly eight years, began an engagement in the Grand Opera house last night with her dramatization and elaborate staging of the classic fantasy of the childish imagination called "Alice in Wonderland." This title is generally taken to include the sequel to that work called "Alice Through the Looking Glass." Miss Le Gallienne's version covers both books in a comprehensive way, omitting none of the episodes in the immortal text that are cherished by countless admirers of the clergyman, mathematician and child-loving dreamer who used the pen-name of Lewis Carroll.

With this production Miss Le Gallienne makes her first appearance in Chicago as the actress-manager whose achievement in establishing and maintaining a civic repertory theater in New York has given her a leading position on the American stage. After seven years of admirable accomplishment as an idealist of the drama, she is now making her first tour over the country, and she brings her full company with a fine illustration of her talent as a director. This "Alice in Wonderland" is a copious and adroit realization of the original material, and forms a striking example of Miss Le Gallienne's executive prowess.

She is not, however, the central figure in the proceedings on the stage, which carry a bewildered but happy little girl through twenty scenes of fantasy among the strange creatures of fairy-tale and topsy-turvy land. A winsome and clever young actress named Josephine Hutchison is the Alice, a character that is always in the foreground of the action, while Miss Le Gallienne herself appears, about midway in the second act, as the friendly, fussy White Chess Queen, appointed by destiny as the guide to lead the heroine out of the looking-glass country where everything goes by contraries.

Miss Hutchison [aged 25, if any one wants vital statistics in the matter] is a charming Alice in appearance and a skillful interpreter of the Lewis Carroll mood. The humor in these stories, I believe, appeals to adults more than to children, who are fascinated chiefly by the bizarre and grotesque elements in the fantasy, and Miss Hutchinson's stubborn, whimsical, joke-loving Alice reflects this quality of the Carrollian point of view.

Miss Le Gallienne's contribution to the performance, although auxiliary, is mellow with authority. For an actress who is regarded as nothing if not serious-minded, she displays a surprisingly happy comic touch. Her White Queen, with the Le Gallienne face disguised almost beyond recognition, is a highly amusing figure of extravaganza.

All of the characters, costumed strictly according to the famous drawings by Tenniel in the early editions of the text, are in excellent hands. An ingenious arrangement for changing the backgrounds without dropping the curtain gives the performance a fast tempo, and its mood of fantastic merriment, to a rapid-fire of highbrow punning, is aided by a clever score of incidental music, composed by Richard Addinsell.

Tomorrow night Miss Le Gallienne will give her first performance of Isben's "Hedda Gabler."

Chicago Opera Opens Tonight; Jeritza Star

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Beginning tonight, Chicago will have its own opera company again. The time is 8 o'clock; the place, the Civic Opera house.

When you look at the opera advertisements you see announcements plentifully ornamented with stars. The large type is an indication of the nature of the performances to be presented by the new Chicago Grand Opera company.

The starred name for tonight is Jeritza, the famous soprano—beautiful—whose biographies ought to state, if they do not, that her voice is so dramatic and her acting so tempestuous that she is peculiarly fitted to portray the more adventurous of the operatic heroines.

That is probably why tonight's opera, the beginning of a new chapter in Chicago's music, is "Tosca" and she is appearing in that work's title rôle. With her will be a newcoming tenor, Dino Borgioli, who bears high recommendations because of his performances in other famous opera houses of the world, as Mario Cavaradossi; a veteran baritone, Pasquale Amato, long famous for his characterization and singing of the part of Scarpia; that fine old singing actor, Vittorio Trevisan, as the sacristan, and many others. Gennaro Papi, musical director of the company, will conduct tonight as well as all the other performances of the week.

Revival of opera in Chicago after a lapse of two years is the result of the work of two Chicagoans, George Woodruff, president of the new company, and the late George Lytton. With Paul Longone, general director of the company, they started the work of organization about four months ago. The task was full of difficulties, and only five weeks ago could it be announced definitely that opera was assured.

The operatic budget, which in the past ran to enormous sums, was cut to a trifle less than $150,000. A guarantee fund of $75,000 was raised, to compare with funds of a like nature of $500,000 in the past. The season was shortened from thirteen weeks to five, and five performances a week. Also the price of tickets was cut exactly in half, fifty cents to $3 instead of $1 to $6. For boxes, the price was cut from $100 to $25 a performance.

Those who attend tonight will find several changes in the Civic Opera house. Across the center of the main floor five rows of seats have been removed and ten boxes installed. The old mezzanine box tier has been retained, wherefore there is opportunity for box holders who wish to be close to the rest of the audience as well as for those who prefer to be remote.

Another change comes because of the requests of those who wished to see as well as hear the orchestra. The pit floor has been raised about four feet, and the first two rows of seats on the main floor have been removed to give the players necessary space. As a result of these alterations, the seating capacity of the house is now 3,407.

The artistic personnel of between fifty and sixty artists, includes some of the most famous names in opera. Several are about to make their Chicago debuts. Exceptional talent revealed in auditions held a month ago has won places for a dozen young singers who will make their first operatic appearances during the season. About ninety per cent of the artistic personnel is native American.

Young Israel Conference Backs Boycott of Germany

Resolutions condemning persecution by the Hitler régime and lauding the boycott against German goods were adopted at the third annual midwestern Young Israel conference which was closed last night with a banquet at the Hotel La Salle. The organization seeks to perpetuate the traditions of Judaism among the Jewish youth of this country.

Opera Opening Will Attract Throng of Fashionables Tonight

Princeton Triangle Club Show Another Event on Busy Program; Young People Start Gay Week.

THERE should have been a day between Christmas and today, for every one needs some time to rest and relax after the pre-Christmas rush and the week that is starting today, for it is going to be the very busiest one of the season without a doubt. But unfortunately it wasn't possible to insert that much needed day, so the next best thing is to sleep as late as possible today, and we're willing to wager our very nicest Christmas gift that that is what every socialite is doing this morning.

An important event on today's calendar is the opening of the grand opera season at the Civic Opera house tonight. Then there will be the Princeton Triangle club's performance at the Auditorium that will have special appeal to those of college and preparatory school ages.

But the opera opening is a gala occasion, just as it always has been whenever Chicago has had a season of grand opera, and we predict there will be a brilliant audience there tonight to hear Jeritza as La Tosca.

Some of those who will entertain box parties tonight are the Charles H. Swifts, the Charles B. Goodspeeds, Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, Mrs. Jacob Baur, the Arthur Meekers, Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, the Ernest R. Grahams, Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever, the Herbert E. Bradleys, Dr. and Mrs. Vernon Herbst, the Walter Ayers, Robert Hall McCormick, Mrs. Freeman Hinckley and the Hubert Burnhams.

Others who will have box parties are the George Woodruffs, the junior Henry H. Windsors, Andrew Reborl, Arthur Barnhart, Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Davis, Mrs. William C. Kobin, Frank B. Black, William C. Jackson, the Clifford D. Caldwells, the Donald S. Boyntons, Ray Prescott Johnson, and Vincent Bendix.

There will be many on the main floor who used to be seen in the golden horseshoe of boxes at the old Auditorium and later in the boxes at the Civic Opera house. We are told that boxes and seats with easy access to corridors or stairways leading to the Opera club and the bar have been in great demand and that masculine interest in opera seems to have revived since the 18th amendment was repealed.

Princeton Show Opens Gay Week.

The Princeton show, "Fiesta," at the Auditorium will attract young people who are starting on what promises to be one of the gayest holiday seasons they have had in many a year. There are to be dinners galore before the performance, the largest a party to be given by the Harold C. Smiths and the Alfred T. Cartons for Miss Marie Louise Gardner. The party is to be at the Casino and so are numerous others that will precede the opera and Triangle club performances.

Many of those who are at the opera and also many who are at the Auditorium will go later to the Crystal ballroom of the Blackstone to Miss Jean Wilhelm's debut ball, for the invitation list of this large holiday party includes friends of the debutante and of her parents and grandparents, Mr and Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm and Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy, who will receive with her.

About 600 have sent acceptances so there will be a good old fashioned crush, that is certain. One of the popular beaux at the party will be Miss Wilhelm's brother, Frank E. Jr., always called Edward, however, who is at home from his first job in Omaha to spend the holidays with his family.

The Princetonians, who will swell the stag line at the Wilhelm ball, are to be present also at a tea dance this afternoon at the Saddle and Cycle that Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Otis Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft III. are giving for their debutante sister, Miss Virginia Ashcraft. "Squirrel" Ashcraft is a Princeton graduate and was a star of the Triangle club during his college days so the date for today's party was set after he knew when the Trianglers would be here.

Other Parties Before Show.

Hostess at a dinner before the Triangle show will be Miss Honoré White, who is entertaining in the home of her parents, the Howard W. Fentons, on Lake Shore drive.

Miss Miriam Fetcher, who has returned from Smith to spend the holidays with her parents, the Edwin S. Fetchers in Winnetka, is entertaining for ten young people at a dinner in her home and then taking her guests to the Princeton show. Later the group will return to Winnetka to dance at the Fetcher home.

In the two center boxes at the Princeton Triangle show will be Miss Pauline Seipp and the debutantes and beaux who dined with Miss Seipp and her parents, the Edwin A. Seipps, before the musical comedy. The young people will go on to the Wilhelm ball after the show.

Among the sub-debutante crowd at the show will be Miss Margot Reid and the others of her age [she is in her first year away at school] who will dine before the show at the home of her parents, the Byran S. Reids.

Catholic League.

The Catholic Woman's league will have a card party and dance tomorrow evening in the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone hotel. Mrs. F. X. J. Foley is the general chairman.

Page Mr. Pomeroy

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

SYNOPSIS.

Bruce Pomeroy, brought up in poverty, befriended a Russian, Boris Orleneff. In return Orleneff, before his death, left Pomeroy an invention, which is about to make Pomeroy a millionaire. Orleneff stipulated that his brother's family, whom he considered parasites, were not to get a cent from the invention. While walking through New York's Central park one winter's morning Pomeroy is kidnaped and taken to a small island off the coast of Maine, where he is made a prisoner in a luxurious home, but kept on a starvation diet. His captor is Boris Orleneff, nephew of the inventor. Boris' cousins, Cyril and Olga Norrikoff, assisted in the abduction. They want Pomeroy to make a settlement. He refuses. Boris invites Pomeroy to join the family circle downstairs. The older members are unaware that Pomeroy is an involuntary guest. Pomeroy manages to elude his guard, Grateful, and get out of his room, but a raging storm makes escape impossible. Olga Norrikoff tells Pomeroy they are all starving. That the house was lent to them for the winter. Boris and Cyril hadn't been able to get work. Pomeroy arranges through Grateful to get food supplies from Andy Mason the caretaker. He has fallen in love with Irma Orleneff, Boris' sister. Cyril's mother dies and his father commits suicide. Cyril had left, before the tragedy, in a leaky boat to get help from the mainland.

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

SURROUNDED BY TRAGEDY.

Now, with the water up around his knees, Cyril looked at the life preserver lying ready on the seat beside him. He had hoped, that, at the worst, he could get ashore with its help. In this moment he knew better. He was far from any shore save the unknown one of this strange sea on which he found himself. Looking at the life preserver he shook his head. He could do better without it. He was a good swimmer and there was still life in him, thanks to the tremendous exertion of those night hours. He had at least kept his blood circulating. There wasn't much hospitality in those icy black waves, not much hope in the voice of the furious wind, no mercy in those icy arrows that drove into his eyes. But he might be much nearer shore than he realized.

He thought of his mother's unconscious face, as it had looked just before he left her sickroom. He would make the shore even yet. By God, he had to make it! He couldn't let her die without a final desperate effort. With a deep breath, he plunged over the side of the sinking boat.

He rallied from the first shock of the freezing water and started unfeelingly but without self pity on the last short lap of his brief journey through life. A gull, swooping low over the sea, caught through the snow a glimpse of something small and black that appeared for a moment on top of a wave and then vanished. The bird swooped lower. The black object appeared once more, and once more vanished. For a few moments the bird flew low above the place where it had been. Nothing worth investigation in that quarter. With a sweep of wings, and possibly with a philosophic flutter of feathers, the gull soared high again.

"By God, he had to make it."

Unconscious of all this Pomeroy and Grateful continued to make their plans.

"I'll get busy with the wood," Pomeroy offered, "then I want you to ask Miss Irma if she will see me in the library this morning for a few minutes."

He left the room as he spoke, ran down to the cellar, and sent the laden dumb waiter on its half dozen excursions to the upper floor. When he returned he carried the wood to the doors of the various bedrooms and watched Grateful stagger with his loads into the rooms themselves. Through the momentarily open door of Madame Orleneff's room he had a flashing glimpse of the occupant, seated before the fire, with her son on a footstool at her feet. He did not see Irma, but no doubt she was somewhere near her mother. Grateful came out. Pomeroy spoke to him.

"Will you find Miss Irma now and ask her to come down to the library for a minute?"

Grateful jerked his head in the direction of the room he had just left.

"Yep. She's in there," he said laconically.

Pomeroy went slowly downstairs. The fire in the library was singing up the chimney. He was glad of that. A fire was such a heartening thing. He drew an easy chair close to this one and sat down to wait. He wondered if Irma would see him. Possibly she couldn't—would have too many things to do. More probably she wouldn't care to see him. What place had he in that house of mourning? Yet he was obsessed by the tragedy around him. It sailed toward him like a big ship in a narrow stream, shutting out all other craft. He had completely forgotten himself and his own trouble.

Irma came to him ten or fifteen minutes later, so quietly that she was standing beside his chair before he realized her presence. She had a way, he thought, of entering a room like a soft light. He had suddenly discovered that the whole room had taken on light and color with her coming. It was disconcerting but wonderful knowledge.

He sprang up and took both her hands in his. He was conscious of an impulse he had never experienced before—an impulse as powerful as it was new. More than anything else he had ever desired he longed to take this girl in his arms and comfort her. He released her hands, stood back a little, and spoke rather huskily.

"I'm so terribly sorry about this. Please let me do anything I can—all I can."

She tried to smile, but not very successfully, and took the chair he pushed forward. He drew his own chair around to face her and waited for her to speak. She did not do so at once. To Pomeroy, with all his self-consciousness gone under this new urge to help and comfort, there was no constraint in the silence. Her vivid blue eyes were red rimmed, her lovely face was whiter than ever, and her pale gold hair seems a soft halo above her bending head. No doubt she had been up most of the night. His heart seemed to turn to water as he watched her.

"It's very tragic," she said at last, looking past him into the fire. "But what mother has just told us makes me feel that perhaps it merely anticipates what would have happened in six months or so, when Uncle Nicholas died. It seems that he and Aunt Zinaida had made up their minds to go together, when the time came, and they had their little pellet of oblivion all ready. They've had it ready for a year. Of course neither of them had dreamed that Aunt Zinaida would go first. She had warned my mother, though, that she had no intention of going on without uncle, so poor mother has been facing that prospect all this year, in addition to everything else."

"How is your mother taking it?" Pomeroy asked.

"Very hard. She and Aunt Zinaida had never been separated. They were absolutely devoted to each other. As I think it over I'm almost sure Aunt Zinaida would never have killed herself and left my mother to face blindness without her. Perhaps she thought she would, but she couldn't have done it when the crisis came. I think it was only on a frantic impulse that she spoke of it. However, she's gone now," she continued in a low voice, "and I don't know how we can get on without her. Boris and I loved her next to mother."

"Miss Orleneff," Pomeroy said quietly, "will you do a wonderful thing for me? Will you give me the privilege of having your mother's eyes operated on—of saving her sight? You know it can be done. Wouldn't it be a black crime to let any personal pride interfere?"

She shook her head.

"I would let you do it," she admitted. "And I would be grateful to you as long as I lived. But Boris is different. The idea of being under obligations to you would drive him crazy."

"So he would rather let his mother go blind, and be blind the rest of her life?" Pomeroy asked incisively.

"He wouldn't reason that way. He'd think it was a question of personal dignity, of hers as well as of his."

"God save us!" Pomeroy ejaculated the words with a rush and added hastily, in an effort to cover them, "How would your mother feel about it?"

"She would think that anything Boris decided was right. All her life, from the time he was a child, mother has been convinced that anything and everything Boris decided, was right."

"Yet she called him down good and hard for joshing me about what he could do with my body, after he had made 'way with me.'

"Did he do that?" Irma frowned. "Mother would consider it was abominable taste in jokes, and it was just that. She never hesitates to call down Boris, or any of us, for that sort of thing."

"You think it was merely a joke, then?"

She started and turned to him quickly.

"Of course it was! You couldn't possibly have imagined it was anything else, could you?"

"I don't know," Pomeroy confessed. You must remember that I don't know your brother very well. I infer that you don't share your mother's delusion that he's perfect," he added with a grin.

Have Glamour If You Can't Have Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Had luncheon the other day with Tamara, the season's stage sensation as a charmer. She is playing in one of the current Broadway hits. Her voice on the radio may be familiar to you.

It intrigues me no end to stand by and watch the parade of these modern box hits, as illustrated by Tamara and Hepburn and many other outstanding personalities of the professional world at the moment. They lend such cheer to girls who might otherwise be discouraged with their looks.

They're not great beauties—but they manage to create glamour, which today is a better selling product than just straight physical gifts. They're the first to admit they're not beauties, which, too, is pleasant. As Tamara, who is more than a little surprised and quite wholesomely pleased when she clicks with the public. She gives the impression of being much taller than she is, so reedlike is her body.

She wears her hair parted in the center and it is long, straight, and dark brown. It never has been cut, because Tamara explains people identifying her as Russian expect long hair of her. Her skin is olive, her eyes brown, her hands of especially lovely shape. There is no "side" to the popular young woman. She had definitely got her mind on getting somewhere—and there she's going.

Which raises the question as to how much of this thing called glamour is "accomplishment." Doing things. Interesting things that create an interesting personality. It strikes me as being a full 80 per cent of modern charm. In fact, as I look on at the passing parade, the outstanding charmers of the moment are all girls and women who tend their personal grooming habits as a matter of course and proceed from there on to be something, a somebody.

Certainly they're not resting on beauty laurels. It's too topply a throne and as proved by the Tamaras, Hepburns, and so on, not the most popular demand of the moment. Nor can you discount the current pleasure subscribed in being just a little different. Tamara is. She furnishes that necessary quality of charm—interest, surprise. Her apartment background, her table, dishes, clothes all contributing to the unusual interest the attractive girl creates.

Writers Assist the Housewife in Meal Plans

Authors Help in Domestic and Exotic Cookery.

BY MARY MEADE.

We're going to have a different sort of fun today. The reason is that this seems to be open season for writers of books about foods and, with one whole corner of my desk piled two feet high with new numbers just out this fall, I can't think of anything I'd rather do than, as Mae Tinée would say, tell you "a bit about 'em." For, in this homemaking business of ours the wise ones who keep up with the latest that's been written about and to us are the people who get the most fun out of family piloting and have the most time left over to get around a bit and see how the rest of the world is making out. So here are a few headliners from the stack:

Do you remember when this book first came out in '28? It's been a guide to a good many of us ever since. It doesn't pretend to take the place of your favorite recipe books. What it does, however, is to stand beside them, explain the kitchen failures we often come upon, the "why" behind the things we do. In addition to complete chapters on the cooking of vegetables, baked goods of all sorts, candy, and frozen desserts, which have all been revised and brought up to date, the authors have included new chapters on the cookery of beef and on meal preparation in general. Besides this, the same authors have just published a 75 cent set of 48 charts entitled "How to Buy Beef," which I'm most pleased to recommend.

Here might be a most amusing and useful New Year's gift for one of your woman friends with a weakness for the oriental. It's cheerfully written and reads decidedly like a novel. Chinese customs and usage, legends, and proverbs hold the stage for the first quaint chapters. Then cookery begins in earnest and the author lines up over a hundred tested Chinese recipes, all adapted to American cooking.

All About Home Baking. General Foods corporation, New York City. Price 25 cents.

Probably in answer to the small girl who once protested, "What's the use of a book without pictures?" this company has included, in this small but well packed cook book, not only the latest of tested recipes for all manner of baking but also startlingly tempting pictures, many in colors.

The old argument about the priority of the hen or the egg simply doesn't come into the discussion, for in these 600 pages both eggs and poultry are discussed with enthusiasm.

With many friends, lots of conviviality, and wee apartments the order of the day, knowing hostesses these days are turning their backs on formality and ceremony and inviting in their cousins and aunts to eat from the buffet. Likely Dutch lunches can boast the first corner on the buffet supper idea, but this year it appears that quite often it is to be the Swedish hors d'œuvres course called "smorgasbord" which will hold the floor. And if you become stumped for recipes in your service of meat balls, molds, cheese, salads, relishes, and breadstuffs, Mrs. Akerström-Söderström suggests here 100 recipes for famous Swedish smorgasbord dishes and makes simple work out of the mysteries of their making.

Expert Stylists Design Slimming Dress for Matrons

WOMAN'S DRESS.

Beautiful lines are embodied in this charming dress for matrons and others whose figures need slimming. The length giving bias seams, the wrapped effect of the skirt, the trick collar that detracts from the bodice width, and the slimming effect of the sleeves are important details. Black satin crêpe, with turquoise blue would be stunning. Black velvet, black and silver metal fabric, or a blackberry woolen shot with metal are suggestions.

The pattern, No. 3216, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure.

Suburbs Scene of Many Parties.

Young people who live in the country are very busy during the holidays for they try to do all the things they are invited to do in the city and other suburbs and also to go to all the parties that are planned for them near their homes. Saturday a group of young Winnetka boys went to Wayne to attend a dinner party that Mrs. George Moseley was giving at her residence for her son, Spencer, who is a student at the North Shore Country Day school.

There will be a number of school girls and boys from the north shore driving west to Geneva Thursday night, too, for a supper dance that a group of Geneva, St. Charles, Batavia, and Wayne mothers are giving at the Geneva Golf club for the preparatory school crowd. Mrs. Charles P. Rockwood whose son Charles Jr. is at home from the Brooks academy, and whose daughter Jane goes to the Geneva Country Day school, is one of the hostesses and another is her sister-in-law, Mrs. Herbert P. Zimmermann, whose daughter Lee goes to Miss Walker's, and whose other daughter Peggy still is at the Geneva Country Day school. Mrs. George Overton is another who has one daughter away at school and one at home. Jean goes to school in Colorado Springs and Katherine is the younger one. George Jr., who is a student at Kent, is at home for the holidays and among others of this particular little crowd who go to Kent and are at home for Christmas are Jimmy Stanton of Wayne and Bobs and John Blair of Geneva.

Blau Children Home for Holidays.

The oldest of the Milton Blairs' three sons, Chuck, who is a freshman at Yale, is also at home, and so is Miss Jane Blair, who this winter is studying dramatic art at New York university instead of returning to Vassar for her junior year.

Mrs. Henry Stanton is giving a party on New Year's eve at her beautiful residence in Wayne for her son Jimmy. The two older Stanton children, Louise, who goes to Vassar, and Henry Jr., who is a Williams student, also are at home.

Among others who are at home from eastern schools are Alice Orr, who goes to Shipley and is a daughter of Mrs. Arthur Orr of St. Charles, Katherine Bangs, who goes to Vassar, and her brother, Bob, who is a Deerfield student, children of Mrs. William D. Bangs of Geneva.

The older preparatory school and college crowd and a few of the young marrieds are invited to the dance Miss Robin Dienst and Miss Helen North of Geneva are giving for the latter's adopted son David North tomorrow at the Geneva Golf club. David is at home from the Northwestern Military academy at Lake Geneva for the holidays.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Dunbar of 10031 Longwood drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice Janet, to Merrill Castle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Castle.

Debutante

For her debut yesterday afternoon at a reception and tea in the home of her parents in Winnetka Miss Nancy Harris, the daughter of the Alan H. Harrises, wore a gown of wine colored crêpe fashioned on classically simple lines with long sleeves and a long train. Her flowers were white roses and lilies of the valley. Her mother wore a handsome gown of plum colored velvet and carried white daisies.

The debutante's two grandmothers, Mrs. Alan H. Harris and Mrs. Horace J. Parker, who received with the debutante and her mother, were gowned in black and wore corsages of white roses.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Paramount gazed upon Noel Coward's play, "Design for Living," and found it good. They bought it. But—when they got it home they found, lo, that it would never fit the screen as it was.

"My goodness! We must do something about this!" they said. So—

They did something about it.

"Design for Living" has emerged from the tailoring rooms of Ben Hecht and Ernest Lubitsch facile, brilliant, "surface;" with dialogue deleted and changed so as to make the piece appropriate for mass consumption.

The three central characters, a girl and two men who love each other so much that they decide they can't get along without each other, are, I understand, the same as were in the play only that they have been Americanized, normalized and had their names changed.

So you have two youths from the States, a playwright and an artist, shabby, bright and unsuccessful, living in a Paris studio. Enters the lovely, impetuous American girl, Gilda, a commercial artist, to offer love and advice. Close on the heels of their introduction to her good fortune waits on Tom and George. . . .

Both men love and want Gilda. She loves and wants both men.

The fact that, eventually, she marries Max, the big advertising agency man whose protégée she is, does not, in the long run, interfere with the united careers of the Bohemians.

Miriam Hopkins, Fredric March, and Gary Cooper play the rôles created on the stage by Lynn Fontanne, Alfred Lunt, and Noel Coward with ease, humor, and appeal. A most ingratiating trio. Edward Everett Horton is excellent as the fussy, shrewd, and devoted Max.

The piece has been delightfully staged and the Lubitsch direction is immense.

Quilters Honor Wiseonsin Rose in Dainty Block

Wisconsin Rose.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The fragile little wild rose which blooms so profusely in Wisconsin, was the inspiration of this dainty quilt design. This graceful spray is lovely on a quilt when pieced in the delicate pink of the wild rose, soft green and yellow. It is most suitable and attractive for a young girl's bed.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, the Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service office, One South Dearborn.

Life in Hotel Holds No Lure for This Wife

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Wouldn't it be marvelous to live in a hotel and never have a worry about meals," says you.

But listen to Perplexed, condemned to hotel life by a husband who prefers that mode of living.

"When we married, he insisted upon living in a hotel. Told me beforehand he had an aversion to houses and apartments and would never occupy either."

They have two bedrooms, bath, sitting room. Meals are served from the hotel kitchen. Luxurious, says you! Simply awful, says the victim.

"O, for a kitchen of my own, an apartment of my own!" she cries. "I hate the food. I hate the rooms. I feel all the time as if I were visiting somewhere and should be getting back home."

She's getting the jim-jams. Her husband says she's crazy. She has everything a woman could want. No work. No worry. Meals served on time. No cleaning. Can be dressed up from morning till night. "Gosh," he whimpers, "you can't please a woman no matter what you do!"

The complaint is a bit novel we'll confess, although it suggests the possibility of other feminine hotel residents suffering nostalgia for the smell of fried bacon. Personally, we'd feel that a grievance of this sort surmounts in cruelty many of the outrages mentioned in divorce proceedings. Although we are suggesting no such thing as divorce. It would not be justifiable on the count that Perplexed knew beforehand what she was walking into. That was the time to settle the question once and for all.

However, husbands being of the malleable material they notoriously are, we do not think the case a closed one for Perplexed. Our observation is that women get about everything they want out of their men providing they go about the getting cleverly. Not by fighting, nagging, and quarreling, but by the subtler method of cajoling and flattering the gentleman into believing himself to be the best hearted, most indulgent sweety on earth. Try it, Perplexed, with an eye on that duplex you want!

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE HUMAN TORCH.

Every blade of grass in the Hanson's back yard glistened with early morning dew. "Looks like a bed of diamond dust or star-sprinkled heavens or twinkling crystals." Prof. Fordney kept the thought to himself. He wouldn't think of sharing his sentimentality with hard-boiled Inspector Kelley who stood beside him on the gravel driveway.

The night before, around 2 o'clock, Hanson had backed his car into the driveway and some one, apparently hiding behind the bushes, had thrown gasoline through the opened automobile window followed by a lighted match, setting fire to his clothing and resulting in his being burnt to death.

Kelley was carefully handling a large, glazed, clay bowl when Fordney arrived, the bottom of which was soot marked, for he had found it a few minutes previous turned upside down on the lawn near the chicken yard. Mrs. Hanson had told him that she had left it there after carrying food to the chickens around 4 o'clock the previous afternoon. It had been a very hot day.

After talking with Kelley, Fordney entered the house and began questioning the wife of the murdered victim. He learned that no one else had been around the premises the day before. Noticing red stains on the house dress which she admitted wearing the night before, he recalled the berry bushes lining the driveway.

Rejoining Kelley, he broke off a berry laden branch and handed it to him. "Go take a look at that woman's dress, old timer," the criminologist exclaimed. "I recommend you hold her on suspicion of murder."

GRID COACHES OPEN ANNUAL MEETING TODAY

Rule Changes to Be Discussed.

Today's Schedule

THE program today for the meeting of the American Football Coaches' association at the Sherman hotel follows:

2 p. m.—Report of committee on football injuries and fatalities, Dr. M. A. Stevens, chairman, Yale university, and Floyd R. Eastwood, school of education, New York university.

2:15 p. m.—Report on proposed changes in 1933 football rules, Harry G. Kipke, University of Michigan.

2:30 p. m.—Discussion of "Azzi-Ratem" system for selection of football teams, William F. Boand.

2:45 p. m.—Report of entertainment committee, J. L. Marks, Kiskiminetas Springs school.

3 p. m.—"Scouting," Benny Oosterbaan, University of Michigan.

3:15-5 p. m.—"Movies and the Part They Play in Football," Le Roy B. Hanley, Northwestern university, and B. W. Bierman, University of Michigan.

7 p. m.—Trustees' meeting.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago is the mecca today for hundreds of members of the American Football Coaches' association which opens its two day annual meeting at the Sherman hotel. Nearly every outstanding college football coach in the country will be in Chicago today and tomorrow and this association opens a week of conventions which for the time will make the city the sports capital of the nation.

GEORGE LITTLE.

On Thursday the Society of Physical Directors for Colleges, of which George Little of Rutgers university is president, will convene at the Stevens hotel. This organization has been in existence for more than 25 years. The directors of physical education consider sports in its larger aspects, while the Football Coaches association is primarily professional.

N. C. A. A. to Meet.

The Student Health association, composed largely of university and college medical men concerned with health problems, will meet Thursday and Friday at the Stevens and the week's activities will be climaxed with the 28th annual convention on Friday and Saturday at the same hotel of the National Collegiate Athletic association, of which Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Western conference, is president. Romeyn Berry of Cornell university and K. L. Wilson of Northwestern university will preside at round table discussions of the association on the first day of the convention.

Probably the most important report today, and certainly the most interesting to the layman, is that of Harry Kipke of the University of Michigan. Coach Kipke will report to the coaches on the proposed changes in the 1933 code of football rules. While the recommendation of the coaches to the national rules committee is not binding, nor does it mean that any changes will be made, the wishes of the coaches generally are followed in many things.

Changes to Be Discussed.

The Western conference, as have other intercollegiate groups, has already gone on record as favoring changes, among them the return of the goal posts to the goal line [they now are on the end line] and permitting a forward pass to be thrown at any point behind the line of scrimmage. These proposed changes will be discussed by Kipke, and other suggestions, such as elimination of the present "dead ball" rule; forward pass into the end zone on first, second, or third down to be an incomplete pass instead of a touch back, and the fumble rule, will be taken up.

Another Michigan coach, Benny Oosterbaan, will talk on "Scouting" at 3 o'clock today. Leroy Hanley, Northwestern, and Bernie Bierman, head coach at the University of Minnesota, will discuss "Movies and the Part They Play in Football."

Will Report On Injuries.

Dr. Mal Stevens, Yale university, and Floyd Eastwood of the school of education, New York university, will make the report of the committee on football injuries and fatalities at the opening session at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Chicago Bears to Play Western All Stars Jan. 21

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The Chicago Bears, national professional football champions, will meet a team of picked Pacific coast gridiron stars in the annual Knights of Columbus charity game here Jan. 21, Joe O'Connor, director of the contest, announced today. The opposing team will be similar in makeup to that Ernie Nevers piloted last year to a victory over the Green Bay Packers. The captain and coach of the coast team will be announced shortly, O'Connor said.

KID CHOCOLATE IS STOPPED IN 7TH BY FRANK KLICK

Californian Takes Junior Lightweight Title.

The flashy Cuban, holding his own at the time, was dethroned as king in the division over the technical knockout route. Referee Johnny [Spud] Murphy ruled the battle ended with only two seconds left of the seventh round after Chocolate was floored with a right hand smash to the chin.

When Klick shot over that right hand punch Chocolate went down, face downward. He staggered up at the six-count, but collapsed against the ropes, apparently on the way down.

Referee Stops Bout.

Referee Murphy rushed in, intent on stopping the bout. At the same moment Moe Fleisher, one of the Cuban's seconds, jumped through the ropes and led Chocolate to his corner. He said later he believed the bell had rung for the end of the session.

Up to the time Klick, who scaled 127¾ pounds to Chocolate's 130, hammered over that crushing right to the chin the battle was a see-saw affair. Klick, from San Francisco, started off with a rush, was slowed in the second session by the Cuban's attack, and then took the advantage in the third and fourth.

Klick's Eye Hurt.

In the fifth, Chocolate led off with a two handed attack to head and body, and carried it into the sixth session. As they parted from a clinch, Klick's left eye started to bleed and swell from a right hand jab.

Only the junior lightweight crown of the game little Cuban was at stake. He did not risk his featherweight title.

The judges were Herman Cherin and Lou Cassidy.

Until Murphy raised Klick's hand Chocolate, who only a month ago was knocked out by Tony Canzoneri in two rounds in New York, refused to believe he had been defeated.

His manager, Louis Guitterez, rushed in to protest to the referee, but the arbiter stood by his decision and amidst the mingled boos and cheers of the 4,000 fans Klick climbed from the ring.

Lou Amber Wins.

Lou Amber, a cool 145-pounder from New York, won a decision over Young Firpo, 140, of Pennygrove, N. J., in the semi-windup. He had the Jersey man bleeding from cuts on the mouth as early as the fourth round.

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICES TODAY FOR McLENNAN

Funeral services for Joseph McLennan, racing official who died Thursday in Florida, will be held this afternoon from a funeral chapel at 6238 Cottage Grove avenue. Interment will be in Oakwood cemetery. Mr. McLennan, who was one of the most prominent officials of the American turf, succumbed to influenza after a brief illness.

The active pallbearers will be H. P. Conkling, P. J. Salb, R. Zimmerman, C. Beck, H. A. Sellen, and W. Schuneman. Among the honorary pallbearers will be John Hertz, Matt J. Winn, Roy Carruthers, J. E. Widener, E. R. Bradley, and many others associated with horse racing.

Bell Wins Metropolitan Indoor Tennis Crown

New York, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Berkeley Bell won the metropolitan indoor tennis championship today, defeating Dr. Eugene McCauliff, 5-7, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4, in the final round.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

VIRGIL MALONE of Elmwood Park, who has only one arm, will be a candidate for guard on the Northwestern football team next fall. . . . He starred on the Onarga Military academy eleven as a prep and went through the season with the Purple freshmen this year. . . . Inability to attend practice regularly prevented him from winning a numeral. . . . Bill Hewitt, brilliant end of the Chicago Bears, has been offered a job in the sporting goods department of Sears, Roebuck. . . . Jack Chevigny of St. Edwards college, Austin, Tex., was the first of the Dixie coaches to arrive for the national convention which opens in Chicago today. . . . Jimmy Crowley of Fordham spent Christmas at his old home in Green Bay, Wis. . . .

JIMMY CROWLEY.

One hundred and fifty gallons of water will be aboard the train that will take the C. Y. O. boxing champions to San Francisco Thursday night. . . . Jockey Jack Westrope's army of backers are calling Martin Nathanson, presiding judge at the Epsom Downs track in Texas, all sorts of bad names. . . . Just when Westrope was ready to ride his 300th winner of the year Nathanson suspended him five days for rough riding. . . . Westrope picked up his pack and moved to Florida, where he will have a chance Friday to reach that figure before the bells ring out the old year. . . . If the Bears are successful in arranging January games in California they will play without Dick Stahlman, tackle. . . . He will return to the Chicago police force. . . . Dr. R. N. Blackwell, for 12 years athletic director at Southern Methodist university, is trying to get the Bears to Dallas for a game against former stars of southern colleges on Jan. 6.

Bob Zuppke of Illinois and Bill Ingram of California will be among the prominent absentees when the national coaches' convention opens. . . . Zuppke is in Florida helping to prepare the University of Miami eleven for a game with Elmer Layden's Duquesne team. . . . Quite a winter thoroughbred horse colony has been established at the old Fairgrounds track in Fairbury, Ill., where the horses of a dozen Chicago owned stables are on vacation. . . . Otto Strohmeier, who was lost to the University of Chicago coaching staff all fall by illness, is up and around, but can do no athletic work for some time. . . . The first amateur boxing tournament of 1934 will be presented at the Illinois Athletic club on Jan. 23 and 24. . . .

Fans at the recent Northwestern-Nebraska basketball game were puzzled when the Cornhuskers came onto the floor attired in Marquette university sweat suits. . . . The reason was that Nebraska's were stolen in Milwaukee the night previous and Marquette loaned the visitors some toggery. . . . Northwestern's boxing team will enter the Golden Gloves tournament. . . . Jim Stover of the United States secret service is leading a holiday quail hunting expedition into Georgia. . . .

Football players are given no special consideration in scholastic work at West Point. . . . In the class that entered on July 1, 1933, was Henderson, quarter back at Vanderbilt for three years. He left before Aug. 1 while undergoing preliminary military training. . . . Butkin, University of Washington's brilliant sophomore quarter back of 1932, was deficient in mathematics and allowed to resign. . . . Henoker, a tackle from Kentucky, had the same experience. . . . Race fans won't lose any more money on the old plater Redcliffe. . . . After finishing second in a race at Charleston, W. Va., the other day he stumbled and broke a leg and was destroyed. . . .

George Corbett, Bears' half back, will reenter Millikin university in February to continue his studies. . . . Jack Manders is going back to Minnesota to get his degree. . . . Pat O'Shocker, a Chicago mat favorite, had an unusual experience in a match at Indianapolis against an Indian named Chewchki. . . . The redskin had secreted sandpaper and tacks in his tights, making it painfully difficult for Pat to apply a hold. . . .

SENATORS SKATE TO VICTORY, 6-3; OVER RED WINGS

Beveridge Makes Twenty Stops in Last Period.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The Ottawa Senators, with Earl Roche leading the parade, beat the Detroit Red Wings 6 to 3 in a National league hockey match here tonight.

Roche, the league leading scorer, bagged two goals and one assist but Beveridge, Senator's goalie, was the brightest star of the evening as he repeatedly made spectacular saves. In the final period he made 20 saves, kicking out what looked like certain Wing goals. During the game he made 37 stops, to 25 for Roach.

The Wings played on even terms with the visitors in the first period, which ended at one goal all. But the Senators gained a lead nine minutes after the second period opened and kept adding to it, at one time having a four goal margin.

RANGERS, 3; MAROONS, 0

New York, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Capitalizing to the fullest extent on the scoring opportunities that came their way, the New York Rangers tonight defeated the Montreal Maroons, 3-0, in a fast and cleanly played National Hockey league contest that lifted the winners to third place in the American group, one point ahead of the Boston Bruins. For the first time this season, the Rangers, world's champions, found themselves out of the cellar.

Bill Cook, Ranger captain, started his team on the road to victory with a well-earned goal in the first period, scoring on a pass from Murray Murdoch.

Rangers Score Again.

Desperate efforts of the Maroons to knot the count in the final frame resulted in disaster for themselves. Leaving their defense wide open they attacked en masse and twice Ranger snipers snared the rubber at centre ice to beat the Maroon pack back and score.

Murdoch made his second goal of the season on New York ice late in the third period after Butch Keeling had raced down with the rubber and passed. Keeling then scored singlehanded with less than three minutes to go when he again grabbed the disc in the neutral zone and beat the enemy to the Maroon cage.

HAWKS VS. AMERICANS

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks will meet the New York Americans in a National Hockey league game at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. A victory for the Chicago club will put it out in front in the American division by three points.

Since early in the season the Blackhawks, already strong defensively, have uncovered a scoring punch that makes them dangerous all the time. The Americans will be much stronger than they have been since Goalie Roy Worters broke his finger some time ago. Worters played his first game against the Red Wings last week, but wasn't at his best. A couple of workouts since then have put him on edge.

The Americans have also strengthened their defense, Red Doran and Johnny Murray, a couple of International leaguers, taking over the jobs formerly held by Chris Speyer and Duke Dutkowski. Dutkowski will be with the Hawks until Art Coulter returns to the lineup.

In the last five games the Blackhawks have scored thirteen goals which have been evenly divided among the front lines.

After the game tomorrow night the Blackhawks will return to Chicago for a home stand of five games which will extend over two weeks. They play the Ottawa Senators on Thursday night and on New Year's day the league leading Toronto Maple Leafs will invade Chicago. Then in a row the Rangers, Boston Bruins and Americans play in Chicago.

WINS CONFERENCE TROPHY

Meet Joe Laws, University of Iowa quarter back, voted the Big Ten football player most valuable to his team. Laws will receive the Silver Football trophy awarded annually by the Chicago Tribune.

In the Wake of the News

FOOTBALL COACHES.

THE Wake welcomes to Chicago members of the National Football Coaches' association, who meet here today and tomorrow in annual session at the Hotel Sherman. It is the first annual meeting held in this city in many years.

This coaches' association was organized following the world war to become the representative body of men devoting their lives to teaching football and physical education, for the discussion of rules, mutual problems, standards of ethics, for the exchange of ideas on all problems affecting their profession.

There are a few persons, perhaps, who still think a football coach is a blustering, driving, often profane fellow who browbeats and drives his charges with the sole object of victory. Even those better informed probably do not realize how carefully a majority of colleges choose these men, fully realizing the influence which they exert for good or evil on the campus through members of the athletic squads.

We always have urged such policy in the selection of athletic directors and coaches. Because of that influence, their selection in many respects is more important than that of heads of strictly educational departments. In the promotion of sportsmanship, in which the right ethics are not different from those of other activities in life, they are all important.

The Wake has been distinctly fortunate in the type of coaches with whom we have become intimately acquainted. Yet we can't think those we have known are materially different or above the class of coaches on the average. Primarily, the fact that a man chooses this work in preference to others indicates he is interested in sports and in boys.

Despite all the clamor, it is not a high paying occupation. The greatest coaches get good salaries, often large. Even including this small number, however, the average probably is not as high as the same men would have earned in other lines with similar experience. It is a hazardous occupation because several seasons of defeats usually brings alumni criticism and the thought a change might prove beneficial.

Other qualities than mere football knowledge also are essential. Coaches must be students of human nature with their boys, tactful where success brings jealousy, good speakers for alumni reunions and other gatherings which stimulate football interest and gate receipts. We never have insisted that writing for newspapers and magazines was a necessary qualification simply because a coach cannot honestly tell all he knows or thinks without breach of the amenities. Hence, he must be "under a pull," as we say at the race track, which is not always fair to his readers.

Name just a few of our athletic leaders. Yost, more than 30 years at Michigan, was a leading public utility man before he gave full time to Michigan athletics. Dan McGugin, his brother-in-law, Vanderbilt coach, is a leading lawyer in the south. Mal Stevens quit his Yale post to give full time to his practice of medicine. Dr. Spears of Wisconsin was on his way to becoming a noted surgeon. Dr. Wilce, retired at Ohio State, immediately had a lucrative practice in Columbus. Jess Hawley quit at Dartmouth and Arnold Horween at Harvard because they could not spare the required time from business. Bob Zuppke might have been a foremost artist had he devoted his entire time to painting. There are scores of others.

The Wake likes football coaches. Most of them talk our kind of language, think our kind of thoughts, and have about the same ideas of what is and what is not the right thing under given conditions.

TOUCHDOWN RUN OR HARD TACKLE, LAWS CAN DO IT

Coach Praises All Around Work of Iowa Star.

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Spectacular running combined with defensive play, which distinguished him as the best all around back in the Western conference, won for Joe Laws of the University of Iowa the coveted TRIBUNE silver football award.

Few, if any, players in the country equaled the stocky quarter back's record during the 1933 season. He was the spark plug of the Hawkeye offense and by far the most dependable player on defense available to Coach Ossie Solem.

The Iowa coach said of Laws at the close of the football season that "he could do more, single handed, than any other player I saw in the Big Ten this year."

Stars at Returning Punts.

Laws' single handed performances included some sensational returns of punts, the most notable being a 55 yard touchdown dash in the Purdue game at Lafayette. He broke away for a similar run of 37 yards after catching a punt in the Wisconsin game.

It was also Laws' 31 yard sprint around end which gave Iowa its victory over Northwestern in the opening conference game, and a 27 yard run which clinched the Iowa triumph over Purdue.

He was the leading Big Ten scorer for the season with five touchdowns, a total of 30 points. His scoring record was one point higher than that of Herman Everhardus, Michigan half back. In 89 attempts from scrimmage during the season Laws traveled 421 yards for an average of 4.7.

Is Smart Player.

Coach Solem explained Laws' success at carrying the ball with the observation that "he ran with his head as much as with his feet. Joe wasn't so speedy, but he had a good change of pace, could turn on a dime, and knew when to circle wide toward the sidelines or break straight down the field."

In relating Laws' resourcefulness, Solem told how the quarter back had asked his permission before the Purdue game to "play everything unorthodox." Solem said that he gave his permission and that Laws baffled the Boilermakers by punting or passing on first down and quick kicking from Iowa's own territory.

Only One Misplay.

Only one misplay marred the otherwise flawless performance of the Hawkeye quarter back last season, a mistake for which he assumed full blame, although he was exonerated by the coach. This occurred in the Michigan game, when Laws was drawn far out of position, allowing a forward pass to be completed over the goal line for the Wolverines' only touchdown.

This came about when Laws attempted to help cover the half back's territory, where Bernie Page was playing. Page had been rendered unconscious a few minutes before, and, although he apparently had recovered, Laws feared that he would be unable to protect his passing zone. In trying to play both defensive positions he allowed the winning pass to go over the goal line.

Laws is one of the few Big Ten players to be selected by his teammates two successive years as the most valuable man on the squad. He was named by an almost unanimous vote in 1932 and in 1933.

On East All-Star Team.

At the present time Laws is at Palo Alto, Cal., as a member of the all-star eastern squad which will play in the East-West charity game at San Francisco New Year's day.

Laws is particularly proud of the fact that he played two years of Big Ten football without having a single time out and that Mayor Harry Breene of Iowa City appointed him honorary fire chief. The fire chief appointment was one of the few honors which Laws actually sought. When the mayor told him after the Purdue game that "you can have any city job you want except mine," Laws asked for the fire chief job and got it.

Laws won three major football and baseball I's. He was an outfielder and the leading Hawkeye hitter last year.

TRIBUNE AWARD GOES TO IOWA QUARTER BACK

Previous Winners

1932—Harry Newman, Michigan.
1931—Clarence Munn, Minnesota.
1930—Wesley Fesler, Ohio State.
1929—Bill Glassgow, Iowa.
1928—Chuck Bennett, Indiana.
1927—Ken Rouse, Chicago.
1926—Benny Friedman, Michigan.
1925—Tim Lowry, Northwestern.
1924—Red Grange, Illinois.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

Joe Laws of the University of Iowa was the Big Ten football player of greatest value to his team during the season of 1933.

That was the majority verdict of 23 members of the board of award who cooperated with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in determining the honor. The Hawkeye quarter back, field general and ball carrier thus becomes recipient and permanent owner of THE TRIBUNE'S tenth annual silver football, actual size, suitably engraved and mounted on an ebony base.

PUG LUND.

Like the contest of 1932, the issue was uncertain between Laws and Pug Lund of Minnesota until the last four votes were cast. In the early balloting, there never was more than two points separating this pair, often only one point, and at several stages they were tied. The last four board of award members, however, swung heavily to Laws and decided the question by a wider margin than at any time during the early voting.

Final Count 23 to 17.

In the final counting of points Laws had 23 and Lund 17. Jay Berwanger of Chicago was third with 8 points, the first time a sophomore ever has ranked that high. Fred Hecker of Purdue and Herman Everhardus of Michigan tied for fourth place with 6 points each. Other votes were cast for Jones of Indiana, Cook of Illinois, Manske of Northwestern, Vuchinich of Ohio State, and Schiller of Wisconsin.

Points for this silver football, the greatest individual honor possible for a Big Ten player to receive, are counted 2 for a first choice and 1 for a second choice. Members of the board of award are the ten conference coaches, ten conference officials, Commissioner Griffith, Wilfrid Smith and Harvey Woodruff.

Laws was first choice of 6 of the 23 judges and second choice of 11 for his total of 23 points. Thus he was named either first or second by all except six of the entire board. Lund was named most valuable by six judges and second most valuable by five. Laws, Lund, Berwanger and Hecker all ranked high with the coaches.

Helps Iowa Come Back.

Letters explaining the votes gave both Laws and Lund great credit as players of exceptional ability, conforming to the standards of leadership, self-sacrifice, and sportsmanship. What swung the decision to the Hawkeye, apparently, was the opinion that Iowa, a hapless aggregation in 1932, would not have risen to the position it did without the services of this senior.

Again the choice proved that it is not necessary to be a member of a championship eleven to win THE TRIBUNE'S Silver Football. In fact, Michigan's all around strength no doubt was a handicap to the chances of Everhardus because several judges believed the Wolverines would have been a great team even without Everhardus.

The primary purpose of the Silver Football is to reward the most valuable player and not the "greatest" player. The boys of each eleven select the one they consider to have been most valuable to their team. From these ten, the board of award names the most valuable in the Big Ten.

Is Second Hawkeye.

Through his selection, Laws places Iowa as the second conference university whose representatives twice have won the Silver Football. Bill Glassgow was adjudged winner in 1929. Michigan furnished two successful candidates in Benny Friedman and Harry Newman, both of whom proved their prowess anew in professional ranks. Wisconsin and Purdue have yet to obtain the honor. Hecker was handicapped in the voting by the fact Purdue had so many good backs, Schiller because it was an off year for the Badgers.

The nine unsuccessful candidates for the premier honor, in addition to Laws, all picked by their teammates as most valuable to their respective elevens, a marked honor in itself, will receive awards from THE TRIBUNE. These prizes are white gold footballs, watch fob size. White gold is chosen to distinguish them from the yellow

ONLY TWO DAYS LEFT TO ENTER SKI TOURNAMENT

Entries for Tribune Meet Close Tomorrow.

Two days remain in which entries will be accepted for the third ski tournament which is scheduled for next Sunday afternoon at Riis park, Fullerton and Meade avenues. The tournament is sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and it will be conducted by officials from The Tribune Athletic association and those chosen by the commissioners of the northwest park district.

No entry will be accepted which is not mailed to the Ski Editor, Sports department, Chicago Tribune, before midnight tomorrow night. If lack of snow forces a postponement, the original list of entries will be eligible for the tournament when it is held. With a light snowfall yesterday and more snow forecast indications are the meet will be held as scheduled.

Twelve Individual Awards.

Twelve medals are the prizes for the individual winners and those who place second and third in each of the four age classes. In addition to these gold, silver and bronze awards, a silver cup will be given to the team which scores the greatest number of points in the divisions. First place counts 5 points; second, 3; and third, 1.

"We're ready at Riis park for the ski tournament," Chester Johnson, a commissioner of the northwest park district, said yesterday.

"Unfortunately the tournament was postponed several times last winter and finally was cancelled because it conflicted with other promotions. This year the contest will be held even if it is changed to a Saturday. We'd like to hold it on a Sunday, and still hope to have it this coming Sunday, for each of the other tournaments has attracted a crowd of 30,000, many of whom could not attend on a week day.

Slide Built for Longer Jumps.

"Repairs have been made to the slide and longer jumps than ever should be made. Workmen can have the hill in shape within a few hours after the first snow falls."

Chick Hafey Best Batter, MacPhail Says

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Let's not argue about this, but Larry MacPhail says one reason why he doesn't want to part with Chick Hafey is that Hafey is a better batsman than Chuck Klein, even if Klein did win the National league batting championship this year.

That's why MacPhail, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has turned down an offer of $50,000 and two players from the Boston Braves and hung a $150,000 price tag on the be-spectacled outfielder.

It may have been a forerunner of the Boston offer, but the story goes that at the recent major league meeting in Chicago MacPhail and Bill McKechnie of Boston disputed over the relative abilities of Klein and Hafey, with the Bostonian all for Klein.

"But what," MacPhail said, "if I were to tell you that in six years, from 1928 to 1933, inclusive, Hafey has outhit Klein at Braves field by 131 points?"

And he went ahead with figures to show that Hafey has outhit Klein in the last six years on four of seven National league parks, counting out the Phillies band box. Here are the batting averages:

Park.	Klein.	Hafey
New York	.334	.333
Brooklyn	.374	.276
Cincinnati	.299	.346
Boston	.252	.383
St. Louis	.332	.348
Chicago	.320	.272
Pittsburgh	.311	.390

Thus, in six years, Hafey has batted at a .320 clip in the seven parks, and Klein in the same time and the same fields has garnered a figure of .303. And, on top of that, MacPhail reminds all comers that Hafey has been ailing for the past two seasons.

In all, Klein has been to bat 1,648 times in the seven parks mentioned, clouting out 499 hits. Hafey has been up 1,613 times, and produced 517 hits.

Hence the $150,000 price tag.

A. A. U. Invited to Send 15 Track Stars to Japan

TOKYO, Dec. 26.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—Hoping to arrange a Japanese-American track meet here in September, the Japanese Track and Field federation today invited the Amateur Athletic union of the United States to send 15 American stars to Japan next summer. The invitation suggested that Dean Cromwell, coach at Southern California, be in charge of the party.

DICK TRACY—In the Bag

Tatanne Wins by 2 Lengths at Jefferson

New Orleans, La., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Tatanne, 2 year old daughter of St. James, owned by Mrs. Johnny Zoeller and trained by the latter's husband, a former jockey, won her fourth straight and most important purse here today when she defeated ten others in the Christmas handicap.

The filly, unbeaten at the Shrewsbury course to date, ran a mile and seventy yards in the splendid time of 1:43 3-5 and defeated the even money choice, Mose Goldblatt's Thanksgiving Handicap winner, Contraband, a 3 year old, by 2 lengths. J. J. Robinson's Eva B. was third, a half length farther back, with Merrily On fourth. Tatanne paid $14.40 for $2.

Contraband and Eva B., as in the Thanksgiving Handicap, were among several that broke poorly in a bad start and had to make up a lot of ground to reach contention. Patsy Petrella got Tatanne off well from an inside position, but he wisely refrained from making the filly run with the fast but faint hearted Merrily On.

The latter opened up a commanding lead in the first quarter, with Tatanne rated second. Ted Clark and Blue Day followed, but both stopped before the real issue began. Merrily On began shortening his stride approaching the stretch turn and Petrella called upon Tatanne. The brown miss easily took the lead and when straightened out drew into 2 lengths of daylight.

FIFTH RACE

PREP FIVES OPEN TITLE QUEST AT U. OF C. TODAY

Crane to Meet Amundsen in First Game.

Today's Games

1 p. m.—Crane vs. Amundsen.
2 p. m.—Harrison vs. Morgan Park.
3 p. m.—Tilden vs. La Grange.
4 p. m.—Proviso vs. Tuley.
5 p. m.—Morton vs. Farragut.
7 p. m.—Bowen vs. Austin.
8 p. m.—Von Steuben vs. Englewood.
9 p. m.—Hirsch vs. Lane Tech.

Officials—Jack Travnicek [Armour]; Roy Knipschild [Chicago]; Ted Curtis [Chicago]; Bill Kraft [Armour].

The annual assault upon the iron hoops in the University of Chicago's fieldhouse, in which the high school teams of the Chicago district use their holidays to settle the early season basketball championship, begins today at 1 p. m. with Crane, a comparatively historic institution, pitted against Amundsen, newcomer to such competition, in the opener. Before the timer's gun ends the tournament next Monday night, announcing a new champion, something like 1,800 points will have piled through the hoops and 300 athletes will have been in action.

Today's eight games, comprising the first half of the first round, will bring into play a representative sample of the local prep school talent, with three teams from the north section of the City league, three from the west section, three from the south section, four from the central section, and four from the suburbs. Four of the city teams, from Amundsen, Farragut, Von Steuben, and Hirsch, now full fledged senior high schools, will be represented in the tournament for the first time.

Play Semi-Finals Saturday.

Tomorrow's eight matches will complete the first round. Thursday all the survivors will go into the second bracket, in eight games, and Friday four games will determine the semi-finalists. Saturday evening the two finalists will emerge, rest over Sunday, and fight it out for the title Monday evening, New Year's night. Advance comment, which is generally unreliable, gives no fewer than thirteen teams a good chance to go through the Saturday play: Proviso, Morton, La Grange, Austin, Hirsch, Lane, Riverside-Brookfield, Parker, McKinley, Roosevelt, Lindblom, Hyde Park, Bowen, and Kelly.

Of these, three will appear this afternoon, two more, Bowen and Austin, will meet at 7 tonight, and still two more, Hirsch and Lane, will stage the finale to today's matches, beginning at 9 tonight. All games will be played in eight minute quarters.

Last Year's Champion Missing.

Admission has been reduced this year to 25 cents per session, with the exception of Friday evening and Monday evening. Friday evening the Maroon varsity meets Marquette during the tournament, and admission is 75 cents for reserved seats and 40 cents for unreserved seats. Monday evening, admission to the final and third place games will be 40 cents.

1 p. m.—Senn vs. Blue Island.
2 p. m.—Riverside-Brookfield vs. Bloom Township.
3 p. m.—Waller vs. Parker.
4 p. m.—Fenger vs. McKinley.
5 p. m.—Roosevelt vs. Maine Township.
7 p. m.—Marshall vs. Lindblom.
8 p. m.—Lake View vs. Calumet.
9 p. m.—Hyde Park vs. Kelly.

ST. LOUIS SEEKS BERTH IN PRO FOOTBALL LEAGUE

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Capt. Robert M. Sampson, manager of the St. Louis Gunners, announced tonight the club would file an application for membership in the National Football league.

Edward Butler, president and Coach Gwinn Henry of the Gunners will go to Columbus this week to file the application with Joseph F. Carr, president of the league, Capt. Sampson said.

The Gunners this year drew 123,000 persons in 16 games, all except two of them at home, and scored 272 points to their opponents 72.

The Gunners closed their season yesterday with a scoreless tie with the Chicago Bears, champions of the National league. Their only defeats this year were at the hands of the Green Bay Packers and the Cincinnati Reds.

FORESTERS OPEN SEASON ON WEST SIDE THURSDAY

The west division of the Catholic Order of Foresters Basketball league will open its season Thursday night at the West Side clubhouse, 4711 Madison street, with four games on the schedule. Many well known players will be seen in action. Schedule:

7 p. m.—St. Patrick's vs. Monarchs.
9 a. m.—Holy Ghost vs. St. Aloysius.
10 p. m.—Holy Family vs. St. Thomas Aquinas.

At 8 o'clock an exhibition game will be staged by the Amphion Girls and the Kilmer Trees, two of the leading girl quintets in the city.

BUTTERFINGERS AND BABY RUTH TO CLASH TODAY

The two leading teams in the Chicago Amateur Hockey association will clash tonight at the Coliseum when the Butterfingers and Baby Ruths meet for the third time. The leading Butterfingers have beaten the Baby Ruth sextet in both of their previous meetings.

In the game preceding the Butterfinger-Baby Ruth clash, the Egan Shamrocks will play the University of Wisconsin six, which is scheduled to meet the famed Queens university outfit of Kingston, Ont., Dec. 28.

MOON MULLINS—EMMY MINDS LORD P.'S BUSINESS

SOUNDS LIKE OLD PLUSHBOTTOM'S PICKIN' A QUARREL IN THERE WITH EMMY.
OH BOY! HE DON'T HAVE TO, SHE PICKS BIGGER AND BETTER ONES
SHHUSH!
OH, DON'T STORY TO ME, LORD PLUSHBOTTOM! EVEN A GIDDY THING LIKE MRS. WHOOPANHOLLER'S SISTER DON'T GO AROUND GREETING STRANGE MEN WITH A KISS ON THE STREET—AND I WAS SILLY ENOUGH NOT TO BELIEVE THOSE STORIES ABOUT YOUR RUNNING AROUND
MY DEAR EMMA, ON MY SACRED WORD OF HONOR I SWEAR THAT, NEVER DID I, EVEN SEE THAT WOMAN BEFORE, LET ALONE RUN AROUND WITH HER

Columbia Grid Squad Works Out at Tucson

The practice session, which marked the turning of preparations for the intersectional Rose Bowl contest into the last week, covered every point in the Lion's offensive and defensive setup.

Little added a bit of scrimmage of the dummy variety for good measure, but the blazing sun forced him to go easy on the squad through the early part of the session.

Players Lose Weight.

Starting with a kicking and passing practice, the team swung into a workout setting up several different types of defense against hypothetical Stanford formations. Then the team ran through its offensive repertoire, stressing a varied passing attack.

Although the temperature was 90 degrees on the field, the Lions with a day of rest behind them launched into the practice with enthusiasm, taking a full turn around the quarter mile University of Arizona cinderpath before settling down to the workout.

Little and Herb Koff, his first assistant, called the squad together this morning for a long skull session in the hotel rooms before luncheon.

Montgomery Weighs 156.

There was no disguising the fact the coaches were puzzled by the sharp dropping off of weight by the players but they were pleased to note that Joe Richavich, tackle, who started the trip overweight at 217 pounds, was down to 210. Cliff Montgomery, star quarterback, had picked up three pounds over Saturday's first local appearance, tipping the scales at 156, but Alfred Barabas, probably starting left halfback, was well under his usual 190 pounds.

The fact the squad showed less of the sluggishness it displayed on arrival Saturday brightened the situation somewhat, but Coach Little said he still planned to stick to his schedule of limiting the yard workouts this week to two or at the most, three..

STANFORD WORKS HARD

Coach Thornhill almost ran his charges ragged up and down the field in an extended session of "wind" exercising and topped this off with signal practice.

Because of the holiday, Coach Thornhill let the team off with one practice round today, but there will be two tomorrow and Wednesday and possibly the same daily right up to Jan. 1.

Still vigilant against overconfidence in his men, Thornhill reiterated he will have none of it.

"I'll send a team onto the field next Monday with proper respect for a real tough foe in Columbia if I have to change every position in the line-up," he said.

With exception of Wes Muller, who is in a hospital with a cold, and Lyle Smith, who has a shoulder injury, the team is in good physical shape, Thornhill admitted. Muller may be back on the field by Wednesday, but probably still will be in a weakened condition.

ILLINI OPEN DRILL TODAY FOR KNOX, AUGUSTANA TRIP

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 25.—[Special.]—University of Illinois basketball players will reassemble tomorrow evening after a brief Christmas layoff and begin preparations for a week-end trip to play Knox at Galesburg Friday and Augustana at Moline Saturday.

FAST AND FANCY

Eddie Le Maire, 8 year old boy who was the first to file his entry for the Tribune's annual Silver Skates Derbies which will be held Jan. 13 and 14 at Garfield park. Eddie has had four years' experience on the ice and is an accomplished figure skater. He is speedy as well as graceful, for he took three second place prizes in New York races last winter.

Laws Most Valuable in Big 10 Poll

gold fobs given members of championship elevens by their own athletic departments. This idea of perpetuating in token form the honors received by all official candidates was continued from last season, the first year of its adoption.

The other nine players so honored are:

Jay Berwanger, Chicago.
Dave Cook, Illinois.
Bob Jones, Indiana.
Herman Everhardus, Michigan.
Pug Lund, Minnesota.
Ed Manske, Northwestern.
Michael Vuchinich, Ohio State.
Fred Hecker, Purdue.
Robert Schiller, Wisconsin.

Selection of Laws for first place will be heralded with great satisfaction by all Iowa partisans, not alone from the fact that a Hawkeye player was deemed worthy of the honor but as significant of Iowa's return to gridiron ranking in the conference after its discouraging complications of a few years ago.

Great Improvement Over 1932.

Iowa is one of three conference elevens which accomplished more during the season just ended than was expected of it before play began. It did not win a Big Ten game in 1932. It scored only against Minnesota on an intercepted pass late in the game, and against Northwestern, which ran up 44 points as an offset.

Iowa veterans of 1932 were augmented by several capable sophomores, including the great Dick Crayne, yet the number of varsity caliber candidates was limited. But team spirit and determination were in high. Coach Ossie Solem developed plays for the material at hand and the boys did the rest under a stimulus on the field of play generally attributed to the personality of Laws.

Presentation to Laws of THE TRIBUNE silver football will be made at a time and place to be named by Iowa athletic officials. In the past it has been between halves of a home basketball game in order that the student body might participate in the celebration. The date will be announced later.

BAILEY CHEERS HIS FAMILY BY SHOWING A GAIN

Boston, Mass., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Irvin [Ace] Bailey, injured member of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey team, cheered his family on Christmas day with a further improvement in his condition.

Bailey, who suffered a fractured skull when thrown to the ice on Dec. 12, during a game with the Boston Bruins, lay close to death for days while two delicate operations were performed and several lumbar punctures made in an effort to save his life. Rallying in a manner that encouraged and surprised his physicians, he has gained steadily for several days.

His condition today was described as "very good."

Tampa University Wins from Haskell Eleven, 7-0

Tampa, Fla., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Pushing over a touchdown in the second period and adding the point, Tampa university's Spartans defeated the Haskell Indians from Lawrence, Kas., 7 to 0.

Destruction of Hedges Robbing Birds of Cover

BY BOB BECKER.

All through Illinois farmers have been uprooting and burning the osage orange trees, most of which have been planted in hedges to form a thick windbreak. The era of "clean farming" has resulted in many miles of osage orange hedges being eliminated on our farms with the result that the landowner has lost a growth which served as a windbreak and a form of vegetation which was invaluable to quail, brown thrashers, catbirds and other birds very valuable to the farmer. Moreover, osage orange hedges can be counted as a definite landscaping asset because they are good to look at.

Aldo Leopold, one of the country's outstanding authorities on wild life and head of the newly created department of game management at the University of Wisconsin, has stated that there is a definite relationship between the scarcity of quail and the elimination of the extensive osage orange hedges which used to be so common in this state.

In other words the farmer by cutting down the osage oranges [as well as many other kinds of hedges] has really been cutting a hole in his purse because hedges mean birds, and birds are insect and weed seed enemies. Clean farms may grow corn in abundance. But clean farms won't "grow" lots of birds which keep insects and weed seed pests in check. For example, two natural enemies of the chinch bug are birds which must have the type of cover such as osage hedges furnish in winter and summer.

One has only to spend a day down state where a few osage orange hedges can be found to learn how important this growth is to the quail. When we were hunting near Mattoon some years ago we used to strike coveys of quail in weed thickets and corn fields. When flushed you could see many of the birds fly directly for osage orange hedges. These thickets are just what the Bob White wants.

Our mock orange, osage orange, or hedge tree, as it is known, has a very interesting history. When the first French settlers landed in Louisiana and pushed out into the unknown they found that the Osage Indians made their bows of a remarkable new wood. It was yellow and very resilient. It was osage orange which the French called bois d'arc or wood of the bow. We haven't heard this name in Illinois because here the tree is more commonly called osage orange.

Hedges of this tree are almost impenetrable due to the long spines on the branches which with the leaves make a regular jungle for birds. When farmers do not plow too closely to the hedge of osage orange, thus permitting a heavy stand of weeds to grow along with grapevines and other vegetation, the birds have an excellent line of cover. In the summer you will find many species nesting in such a hedge. In the winter quail, juncos and other species secure both food and shelter in this hedge.

Portsmouth Spartans Beat Omaha Storz Eleven, 42-7

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 25.—(AP)—With less than 200 shivering football fans looking on, the Portsmouth Spartans gave the Omaha Storz Brewers a 42 to 7 thumping here today. Except for a 60 yard gallop down the middle of the field by Hokuf, former University of Nebraska star, the Omahans would have suffered a shutout.

8 Year Old Is First Silver Skates Entry

Eddie LaMaire, an eight year old youngster who tips the beam at only 53 pounds, even when wearing all his skating medals, is the first entrant in the 17th Silver Skates derbies which will be held Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 13 and 14, at the Garfield park lagoon. Master LaMaire, despite the handicap of his age [he will compete in the boys' midget class for those under 12 years of age] may win a pair of silver skates.

Even if Eddie doesn't get silver skates, there are other pairs of skates for second and third place and medals for those who finish fourth and fifth in each derby.

Four Years Experience.

Young LeMaire is something of a boy wonder, for although only 8 years of age, he's been skating for four years. He's the son of the director of figure skating at the Coliseum Skating school and his father hopes that Eddie will prove that a skater can excel at figure skating and speed skating at the same time. Last week Eddie passed his first United States Figure Skating association test and last winter he won three second places in the New York State Indoor Racing championships at Rye, N. Y. Now he wants a Silver Skates title.

In addition to the 35 individual prizes, the team champion will receive for one year the Walter Eckersall Memorial trophy. Further, each skater who reports for his or her racing number will be given a souvenir silver skates button.

Entries Close Jan. 7.

Entries will be accepted for the 1934 derbies until midnight Jan. 7. The names of all contestants will be printed in THE TRIBUNE and also in the program which will be distributed without charge on the days of the races.

Preliminaries will be held on Saturday, Jan. 13, in the boys' midget, boy's juvenile, and boy's junior classes. This is necessary in order to reduce the field to the size necessary to finish the championships on Sunday afternoon. Complete information of time and place for reporting will be printed later.

While nearly all of Chicago's famous skaters have won Silver Skates derbies at one time or another, the races were instituted in the beginning and continue to be held primarily for novice skaters. No entry fee is required. Clip the blank which appears daily in the sports section of THE TRIBUNE and mail it to Wilfrid Smith, Sports department, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Team entries may be made in a group if the ages of the contestants are verified by the manager or coach.

Weather Is Favorable.

The present cold weather is assurance that all will have opportunity for practice. No amateur is barred from the tournament and there are no geographical limits. All are eligible for the Silver Skates tests.

147 SKATERS TO VIE TOMORROW IN ICE CARNIVAL

One hundred forty-seven entries have been received by the ice racing committee for the seven speed races scheduled for tomorrow night at the Coliseum when the Illinois Western Skating association will open the 1934 skating season. An all star carnival featuring in addition to the speed races special exhibitions in figure and trick skating, and a hockey game between the Ald. Egan's Shamrocks and the Whiting, Ind., Macks, two teams in the junior division of the Chicago Amateur Hockey association.

Leading in number of entries is the Brekke Skating club with 23. The battle for team points will be fought out between the Olympic S. C., Romme S. C., Northwest S. C., and the Brekke club. While most of the stars are entered in the class A events, each of the other 5 classes have their share of skaters who have won national and sectional championships.

McLean to Take Part.

On tomorrow's program will be skaters who have won places in every important race meet in the world, including the Olympic games. Bobby McLean, professional champion, will give several exhibitions of speed and barrel jumping.

Fifteen figure skating artists will give exhibitions in single and double numbers, that have been seen only on European rinks, while clowns have been preparing acts for weeks. Among the figure skaters who will appear is Paul Wilson, instructor to Mussolini and daughter in Milan, Italy, and to former King Alfonso and members of the royal family in Madrid.

Eleanor Berger On Program.

Le Maire and Reynolds of Rye, N. Y., will present two numbers, Dutch pastimes and the wooden soldier. This team has performed in all the leading rinks in both America and Europe.

Few skaters possess more beauty and grace than Eleanor Berger, star of the Chicago Figure Skating club, who was featured last winter in the western open carnival. Miss Berger will present a single number.

Jimmy Wilson Is to Be Manager of Phillies for 1934

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The Inquirer says Jimmy Wilson, catcher of the Phillies, will manage the club in 1934.

"The brilliant backstop, now spending the winter in Florida, made this announcement a week ago to a group of friends on the golf course at Bradenton," the paper states. "He repeated the statement today."

WHEN BLOOD IS OUT FOR A CAB HE GETS A CAB

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 25.—(AP)—John Blood, 29, a professional football player with the Green Bay Packers and more recently with the St. Louis Gunners, took his girl friend for a taxicab ride early today, Blood acting as the chauffeur.

Police, who tackled the backfield star after an 18 block run, took Blood, Miss Dorcas Cochran, 24, a dancer in a night club, and the taxicab to the Laclede station, where Blood said it was just a "prank."

Blood was released on bond, Miss Cochran was not held, and the taxicab was returned to its driver.

"It was all in fun and the cab wasn't harmed," an official of the taxicab company said. "I guess the only charge against him will be the meter charge and I don't know what that was."

"I guess I was celebrating just a little too much," Blood told reporters. "We came out of the Union station and saw a cab without a driver parked at the curb. A cold north wind was blowing and it seemed to be getting colder every minute. I got tired of waiting and we hopped in the cab and drove off. It was just a prank. I was taking Miss Cochran home, but police stopped me before I got halfway there."

Babe Didrikson's Team Beaten by Florals, 28-21

Babe Didrikson, all around girl athlete, made her first appearance in Chicago as a basketball player last night and with her All-American Stars took a 28 to 21 beating from the Duffy Florals at White City. The Babe played three quarters of the game. She scored one basket.

WRECK SADDENS CHRISTMAS FOR FRANCE; MORE DIE

Death Toll Reaches 196; Long Inquiry Looms.

PARIS, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The horror of Saturday night's railroad catastrophe saddened Christmas day for France. Twenty-three bodies of the 196 known victims remained unidentified, some so mutilated that it was doubtful if their identity could ever be established.

(The only American victim in the wreck was identified yesterday as Anton Andrlik, 38 years old, an iceman living at 2721 South Harvey avenue, Berwyn. Andrlik, who left Chicago two weeks ago, was en route to visit his parents in Czechoslovakia.)

An indication of the frightful shock of the crash of the Strasbourg flyer into the fogbound Nancy express 17 miles from here was the fact that 165 passengers in the wooden cars of the express were killed outright.

Thirty-one died in hospitals later with the death list likely to go above 200.

Long Inquiry Looms.

As investigators continued what loomed as a long inquiry into the worst railroad disaster in the history of France, both the engineer and fireman of the flyer remained in prison at Meaux, charged with homicide by imprudence.

Reflecting the grief of the entire nation, President Albert Lebrun, bareheaded and pale with emotion, passed before 160 coffins in the basement of the East Paris station. He also visited hospitals, leaning over each bed to speak words of sympathy and comfort to the injured.

Some smiled or painfully lifted a hand in a gesture of thanks, but many were unable to see or hear their president.

A national funeral service will be held for the victims Wednesday.

Heard No Torpedoes.

A protest against their "illegal and arbitrary" arrest and imprisonment was made by Deputy Louis Rollin. Other deputies insisted that a thorough investigation of railroad safety measures be made, claiming the French system may be out of date.

From Lagny, near the scene of the accident, came word tonight that the last of the bodies had been removed from the wreckage and trains were running again.

Mrs. Mathilda Neubauer to Be Buried Tomorrow

Funeral services for Mrs. Mathilda Neubauer, 73 years old, mother of William A. Neubauer, member of the Chicago board of trade, who died Saturday, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at 3655 Fullerton avenue. Burial will be in Concordia cemetery.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Depression Is Over

1933 AUTO TOLL IS KEEPING PACE WITH LAST YEAR

1,020 Deaths Reported to Dec. 1.

Automobile fatalities during the present year in Cook county will vary little from the death toll for 1932, it was predicted yesterday by Coroner Frank J. Walsh, who released complete figures for the first eleven months of the year.

Up to Dec. 1 there were 1,020 deaths, as compared with 1,022 in the first eleven months of 1932. The total for last year was 1,113. One death last night raised the 1933 total to date to 1,110. The victims:

James Murphy, 61 years old, 1210 South Morgan street. Died this morning in the Physicians and Surgeons' hospital, formerly the Washington Park hospital, of injuries suffered Saturday night when he walked into the side of a car driven by William Russell, 7623 Kingston avenue. The accident happened in Washington park near 58th street.

Four persons were injured yesterday when a taxicab and another automobile collided at 13th street and Crawford avenue and the taxicab crashed through the window and into the rear of a delicatessen shop. The injured were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Zmudcka, 1258 West 31st street, passengers in the cab; Harold Gross, 1612 South Central Park avenue, driver of the other car, and Nathan Miller, 1551 South Kostner avenue, who was with Gross. Martin Macz, 4311 Flournoy street, the cab driver, was not injured.

A man believed to be Robert Jones, 40 years old, of 1552 East 63d street, Chicago, was killed by a hit and run car in the Dunes highway near Tremont, Ind., last night. His body was found by motorists. Papers in his pockets indicated his identity.

D. D. Cure, 30 years old, of rural route 2, Gary, Ind., was killed last night when he drove his automobile into the rear of a car of a Chicagoan in Industrial highway, West Gary. The Chicagoan, Malcolm L. McTavish, 3822 Wilton avenue, and two women companions were not injured, but their car was pushed into a ditch.

George E. Nye's Funeral Rites Tomorrow Afternoon

Funeral services for George E. Nye, former member of the Republican state central committee and former chief city boiler inspector, who died Sunday night, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the undertaking rooms at 3409 West Madison street. Interment will be in Forest Home cemetery. Mr. Nye was 70 years old and resided at 3442 Jackson boulevard. He is survived by the widow and a son.

Mrs. Loomis Dies; Aunt of Ex-Secretary H. L. Stimson

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Julia Stimson Loomis, aunt of former Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and widow of Dr. Henry P. Loomis, New York physician, died this afternoon at the Doctors' hospital, after a brief illness. She was 72 years old. Mrs. Loomis was well known both in Europe and the United States for her war relief work.

Mrs. M. G. Liscum, Widow of U. S. Army Hero, Dead

Elmira, N. Y., Dec. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. May Gibbons Liscum of this city and Washington, D. C., died at her summer home, Willowbrook, here early this morning. She was the widow of Col. Emerson H. Liscum, U. S. A. He was killed in the Boxer rebellion.

Father Dies, Son Recovers in Loop Suicide Tragedy

Edward Frank, 39 years old, 1209 North Clark street, a shoe store owner who leaped seven floors from the building at 175 West Madison street last Wednesday afternoon and escaped death at the time, died of his injuries yesterday in St. Elizabeth's hospital. Frank jumped in despondency over the fact his son Edward Jr. had been taken to the hospital for an appendix operation. The boy, 19 years old, is in the same hospital where his father died. He has recovered from the operation and will leave the hospital today.

FOUND DEAD ON TRACKS.

James Hoare, 34 years old, 935 East 88th street, a laborer, was found dead, with both legs severed, on the Pennsylvania railroad tracks at 95th street and the Calumet river yesterday.

EXPERT ASSERTS PENSION TAXES CAN BE REDUCED

Huge Reserves Called Unnecessary.

Arthur Stedry Hansen, a consulting actuary on public pension funds, said yesterday that temporary pension tax reductions are possible during depressed economic conditions without jeopardizing the solvency of the funds.

A recent survey disclosed that the eight major annuity systems of the public employés in Cook county have assets totaling $50,000,000, and that despite this huge reserve higher pension tax rates have been gained and higher ones are imminent. The pension funds listed in the survey were those of the county, city, sanitary district, school board, policemen, firemen, park employés, and park policemen.

Calls Tax Reduction Possible.

"Because of the present abnormal tax and financial conditions of the municipality, it may be advisable in some instances to reduce the current tax levies which keep up such funds," Mr. Hansen said. "This may be done without jeopardizing the funds if it is properly arranged.

"It is not necessary to impose taxes during times of general financial distress to amortize debts which were contracted in times of prosperity and which will not become due for generations to come. These costs can be segregated and the current requirements computed in such a manner that some tax relief may be obtained temporarily without causing any fear of insolvency.

"It does not seem advisable under any circumstances, however, that the current levies should be less than the actual current costs."

Official Warns of Abuses.

It was the viewpoint of one city hall financial official yesterday that there is no need to build up huge pension reserves. He advocated levies merely for the annual current needs and suggested meeting extra reserve requirements as they arise. This, he said, would greatly lighten the tax burden of the property owners. Having large funds on hand and accruing from taxes annually, he pointed out, invites abuses, particularly in the allowances made for duty and ordinary disability benefits.

Some public employés, it was pointed out, receive as benefits up to 75 per cent of the amount of their salaries while unable to work from injury or causes sustained while on duty, and where the employé has children the total of the benefit may equal his salary.

THOMAS FINIGAN, AMERICAN BRAKE OFFICIAL, DIES

Thomas Finigan, executive vice president of the American Brake Shoe and Foundry company, died yesterday of heart disease in his home at 305 Fullerton parkway. He was 51 years old.

THOMAS FINIGAN.

Mr. Finigan was born in Paterson, N. J., and was reared in San Francisco. He was in charge of all the western operations of the foundry company and was an officer or director of a dozen allied companies.

Mr. Finigan was a member of the Chicago, Racquet, Chicago Golf, and Saddle and Cycle clubs, and a founder member of A Century of Progress Exposition.

His widow, Mrs. Anne Judge Finigan, and two daughters, Patricia and Anne Elizabeth, survive. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow in the Fourth Presbyterian church. Burial in Rosehill cemetery will be private.

Frank J. Higgins, Former Hotel Operator, Is Dead

Friends here were notified of the death yesterday of Frank J. Higgins, 57 years old, former Chicago hotel operator, who was taken ill a week ago when he visited the grave of his wife, Terese, at the Oakwoods cemetery in Dixon, Ill. Mr. Higgins, who built and for ten years operated the Wil-Rae hotel at Racine and Wilson avenues, made his home at Dixon since his wife's death eighteen months ago.

Funeral Rites Tomorrow for Stephen M. Hughes

Funeral services for Stephen M. Hughes, south side real estate dealer, who died Sunday, will be held tomorrow from his home at 811 Buena avenue. A mass will be celebrated in St. Mary of the Lake church and burial will be in St. Joseph cemetery. Mr. Hughes, who was born in Sligo, Ireland, 64 years ago, had been in business in Chicago for 40 years. His widow, Mrs. Anastasia Hughes, and two children, Charles and Rose Mary Hughes, survive.

Malachy Murphy, 68, Sewer Contractor 30 Years, Dies

RITES FOR WIDOW OF CRIMEAN WAR VETERAN TODAY

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 o'clock today in Our Lady of the Lake Roman Catholic church for Mrs. Mary T. Johnson, widow of John H. Johnson, a veteran of the Crimean war. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery. Mrs. Johnson, who was 78 years old, died Sunday in her home at 911 Airdrie place. Her husband, who died shortly after the opening of the present century, was an officer of the prince of Wales rifle brigade and was decorated by Queen Victoria and the sultan of Turkey for gallantry in the war of 1854.

SILVER HISTORY IN U. S. IS LONG AND TURBULENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—The proclamation of President Roosevelt last week authorizing the free coinage of all silver newly mined in the United States introduced a new phase in the long and turbulent career of silver money in this country. It does not, however, involve a remonetization of silver in the sense of making silver a part of the monetary basis of the country nor does it involve bimetallism, according to the view of banking experts.

The saving feature in the action in the opinion of commentators is that, while it provides for free coinage, it does not authorize unlimited coinage, but restricts the minting to one-half of the domestic production. Moreover, there is involved no fixed ratio between gold and silver, except the ratio that is implied by the price which producers will receive, 64½ cents an ounce, measured against the current RFC gold price of $34,06 an ounce. This indicates a monetary ratio of about 53 to 1, but since the price of gold is subject to daily chance, no fixed ratio is involved.

First Coinage Law.

The first coinage law of the United States, passed April 2, 1792, established a bimetalic standard, with silver value at one-fifteenth the value of gold. It called for free coinage of both metals in this ratio.

The difficulty of maintaining a fixed ratio became apparent almost at once. The large output of the Mexican silver mines soon drove the price of silver down from the official ratio of 15 to 1 to a market ratio of 15½ to 1. Gold, being undervalued, was quickly driven out of circulation. Only silver was offered to the mint for coinage, and the country became, for all practical purposes, on a silver standard.

This situation was reversed by the coinage act of June 28, 1834, which changed the legal ratio of silver to gold from 15 to 1 to 16 to 1. By the result of this change gold became overvalued. Just as silver had previously been. Silver disappeared from circulation, and the country found itself on a gold standard.

Increase in Gold.

The increase in the production of gold from 1848 on, following the discoveries in California, accelerated this movement. Silver advanced to a market ratio of 15 to 1 against the legal ratio of 16 to 1. Having a greater value in the market than at the mint, it was not offered for coinage. It became generally accepted in the country that the maintenance of a mint ratio for the two metals was impossible.

The act of Feb. 21, 1853, legalized this situation by abandoning the double standard and relegating silver to use in subsidiary coinage. The next important legislation concerning silver came in 1873, although its significance was not at the time recognized. In an act passed on Feb. 12 of that year, congress undertook to codify the coinage laws. Due to the fact that for the preceding 25 years no silver had been offered for coinage into silver dollars, the codifiers inadvertently dropped from their list the silver dollar. This was the celebrated "demonetization" of silver which was later taken up by the free silverites as an outstanding "crime" against the people.

Problem Rises in 1876.

The problem did not present itself until 1876 when the price of silver fell sharply to levels which would have made it attractive to offer silver for coinage. A clamor arose for cheap silver money to enable debtors to discharge their obligations.

This agitation resulted in the passage over the veto of President Hayes of the law of Feb. 28, 1878, which provided for the obligatory coinage by the treasury of not less than $2,000,000 nor more than $4,000,000 worth of silver a month and which made silver dollars legal tender for all debts, public and private. At that time the silver dollar was worth 89.1 cents gold. By 1894 it had fallen to 49.1 cents.

By 1884 the operations of this act had created serious difficulties for the treasury, but these trouble were augmented by the Sherman act of July 14, 1890, which raised the monthly amount of silver purchases required to be made by the treasury to 4,500,000 ounces, to be paid for in treasury notes.

Panic of 1893.

The panic of 1893 was widely attributed to the consequences of the act of 1890 because it had loaded the treasury with a burden of overvalued silver and jeopardized the safety of the gold standard. The act was repealed on Aug. 21, 1893, but there remained grave doubt for several years of the ability of the country to stay on gold.

This doubt was not resolved until the celebrated presidential campaign of 1896 when McKinley defeated Bryan and the cause of free silver by an electoral vote of 271 to 176. Principally as an outgrowth of this popular rejection of silver and in order to clarify all doubts concerning the nature of the country's monetary standard, there was enacted on March 14, 1900, the gold standard act which definitely placed the country on a single gold standard.

In Force Since 1879.

Actually the gold standard had been in full force since Jan. 1, 1879, when specie payments were resumed, following the greenback inflation of the civil war period, and it remained in force until April 19 last, when President Roosevelt suspended it.

The most recent important silver legislation was the so-called Pittman act of April 23, 1918, which was drawn up by the treasury and the federal reserve board as a war measure to assist Great Britain in meeting an emergency situation in India. The bill authorized the sale to Great Britain at $1 an ounce of the silver obtained from melting down at least 350,000,000 standard silver dollars. The silver certificates withdrawn from circulation in connection with the operation were replaced by federal reserve bank notes.

Provision was made in the bill for the repurchase of an amount of silver equal to that sold. These repurchases were to be made only from domestic producers and at the price of $1 an ounce.

Gotham Bank Raps Deposit Guaranty Law

New York, Dec. 25.—(AP)—The federal deposit insurance law guaranteeing bank deposits up to $2,500 for the first six months of 1934 and larger amounts after that time, is described in the monthly review of the Guaranty Trust company as "charged with grave possibilities to the entire American banking system."

The temporary plan, which will be effective from Jan. 1 to July 1, is held by the bank to be "harmless" compared to the permanent plan, with its higher bracket of deposit guarantees. Under the permanent plan, the bank says, "whenever more money is needed to replenish the guaranty fund, assessments must be levied on all participating banks; and no limitation is placed on the total amount of such assessments or the frequency with which they shall be made Thus, every participating bank will assume an unpredictable liability."

Called a Misnomer.

The review calls the term "insurance" of deposits a misnomer in that the cost of it is to be borne by the banks which rank equally in the plan irrespective of strength, whereas in the ordinary sense the term "insurance" is based on fixed and limited premium payments, "which are related to the specific risks and the cost is borne by the insured."

The review says unification of the banking system under federal laws would not necessarily provide for a solution of the banking problems as they exist today, but would merely "be a means to an end."

Urges Better Management.

"What is desired," the review contends, "is better bank management and no amount of legislative regulation can provide a substitute for sound judgment of individual bankers."

"The one fact that stands out above all others in connection with our recent banking difficulties," the review adds, "is that it has been made far too easy to get into the banking business."

Discusses Branch Banks.

Regarding the subject of branch banking the review says:

"The traditional attitude in this country has been opposed to branch banking, and recent experience has shown that branch banking is no panacea for financial ills. However, it is possible that a system may be devised to provide sound banking facilities for small communities without sacrificing the efficient unit banks and without giving rise to the evils feared by opponents of branch banking.

"It might be provided, for example, that banks should be permitted to acquire branches only for the purpose of taking over existing banks or to provide banking facilities in localities where adequate facilities did not already exist. The geographical limits within which branches could be operated should be carefully considered. Some definite limitation should be placed on the rate of branch bank expansion. Whatever the form of branch banking provided, it should permit natural development along the lines best suited to the needs of this country."

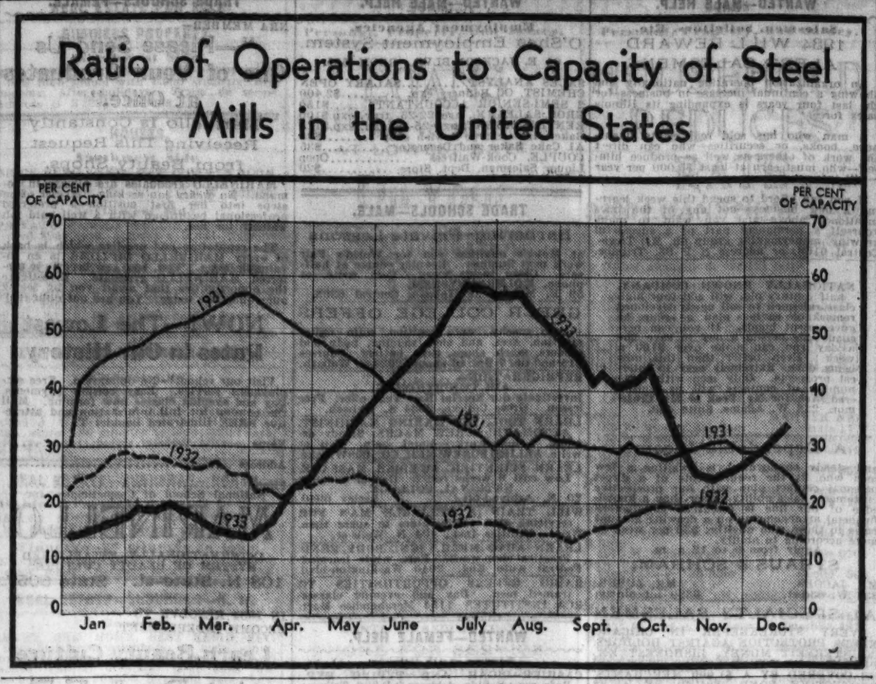
TEXTILE CENTERS REPORT LARGER RETAIL TRADE

Boston, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Massachusetts textile centers, during November, showed gains in retail sales for the third successive month, while many other cities likewise moved into the gain column last month, the Massachusetts state recovery board announced today.

The report of William H. Smith, director of the board's research and statistics department, pointed out that the gains were registered despite the fact that last November there were five shopping days after Thanksgiving while this year there were none. A number of Massachusetts cities that had been behind last year's sales' records in September or October, showed a gain over last year in their November sales.

Pixley & Ehlers Sends Baskets to Ex-Workers

Sixty homes of former employés and relatives of employés of the Pixley and Ehlers restaurants were made happier last week by the receipt of large Christmas baskets of food for the holiday feast as gifts from the company. Each basket contained a turkey and generous portions of all the other supplies that contribute to the completeness of the big gala meal that is a traditional event of the Yule season, from appetizer to toothsome dessert.



EXPERTS EXPECT MORE STABLE WORLD MONEY

Japanese View on Yen Important.

New York, Dec. 25.—(AP)—Real progress in bringing order out of the chaos of world currencies is freely predicted for 1934 by Wall street monetary experts. Among recent developments seeming to point toward restored stability are mentioned:

1. The recently published statement of Finance Minister Takahashi of Japan favoring stabilization.

2. Indications that British authorities might now acquiesce in a dollar-pound stabilization somewhere around five dollars to the pound.

3. The cutting loose of the Argentine peso from its recent pegged rate, to permit it to find its natural level.

4. Developments in the French fiscal crisis indicating that the test of whether the gold standard countries can maintain the present parities of their currencies is coming to a head.

Much significance is attached to the Japanese desire for stabilization. Japan has expanded her export trade more than any other country in the last few years through depreciation of the yen, which has fallen more than 60 per cent from its former gold parity.

This expansion of Japanese exports has been to a considerable extent at the expense of British trade in the far east, and made the British reluctant to consider stabilization of the pound at a rate which would be acceptable to the United States.

Interest in Japanese View.

It is suggested that a stable yen would make the British more willing to stabilize the pound and the drop in the dollar, and the recent quickening of exports of American manufactured goods appear to have changed considerably the British attitude as to what level the pound could be permitted to go in terms of dollars.

At the beginning of the world economic conference it was intimated that the British would not permit a pound-dollar stabilization at a rate higher than $3.80 for the pound.

Believe Agreement Possible.

This was later lifted to $4.20. Since then, however, the pound has gone as high as $5.52, and some foreign exchange experts here now suggest that achievement of a stabilization agreement around $5.25 would probably be easy.

For a time after the world conference the British position appeared to have been solidified through the drawing together of the sterling bloc of currencies—that is, the currencies of the British dominions, Scandinavian countries, and Argentina, all of which were more or less pegged to the pound.

Argentina now appears to have broken away, however, and the Canadian dollar, which was long kept at a sort of halfway point between sterling and the dollar, now appears to be following the dollar more closely than sterling.

By keeping the pound relatively stable with the French franc, the British equalization fund has managed to provide a fair degree of stability between the sterling bloc currencies and the gold standard currencies.

CHICAGO HOLIDAY BUYING IS REPORTED BACK TO 1930 LEVEL

Santa Claus paid a real visit to Chicago business last week, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. Holiday buying throughout the city went back to 1930 levels, some of the larger department stores reporting an improvement as high as 40 per cent over 1932.

The most significant improvement came from the jewelry houses. One of the best known luxury shops in the city stated that sales were 35 per cent ahead of the preceding Christmas season. While sales of the very costly variety were still scarce, there was a marked pickup in medium and lower priced "pretties."

One factor, which is said to have contributed to the impetus enjoyed by this concern, as well as several of its contemporaries, is the good will occasioned by A Century of Progress. Several of its best orders came from out of town buyers who had visited its stores during the World's Fair and who placed mail orders during the last week for merchandise that had attracted their attention at that time.

Wholesalers also seem well satisfied at their last minute demands. Retailers throughout the middle west found themselves sold out early in the week and flooded Chicago with last minute orders for Christmas Eve buying.

Completion of the work assignments for the CWA also aided the general pickup. The newly made earning power of thousands of previous relief roll families was reflected in better buying in most of the neighborhood store centers.

GERMAN TRADE GROUPS REPORT BUSINESS GAINS

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Dec. 25.—Self-congratulation on the business achievements of the first Hitler year and predictions of even greater achievements next year characterized the year-end reports of the German Chamber of Commerce and other similar institutions, including the Institute for Business Research.

The achievements of this year were summarized by the research institute as follows:

"Net production increased between 2,000,000,000 and 2,500,000,000 marks compared with 1932. "Unemployment decreased by 2,300,000 workers.

"The labor income during the third quarter of this year was above that for the same period last year, the first increase since the beginning of the depression.

"The improvement continued, contrary to the usual seasonal trend. Employment rose from 40.7 per cent of theoretical capacity in October to 51.1 per cent in November; the working hour capacity rose from 45.5 per cent to 46.4 per cent; the average working day lengthened from 7.26 hours to 7.30 hours. The healthy character of this improvement is seen in the fact that investment goods industries profited most."

REPORT SOON TO COURT ON BIDS FOR NAT'L LIFE CO.

Patrick J. Lucey, receiver for the National Life Insurance company, is expected to make his recommendation for disposal of the company some time this week to Superior Judge William J. Lindsay.

Several bids have been submitted to the receiver. Some of the bidders are revising the terms of the offer to conform with recommendations of Ernest Palmer, director of the state insurance department.

A public hearing will be held by Judge Lindsay on the bids before any decision is made, it is understood. The company had $197,000,000 of insurance in force at the end of 1932 with policyholders numbering around 100,000 persons.

RFC Buys Stocks of 1,561 Nonreserve Member Banks

Washington, D. C., Dec. 25.—(AP)—The Reconstruction corporation has purchased preferred stock or capital notes in 2,443 banks, of which 1,561 are not members of the federal reserve system. This was disclosed by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the corporation, who said applications have been received from 3,610 banks which want to sell preferred stock or capital notes to the RFC.

29,963,000 Tons of Corn Cut for Silos During 1933

A total of 29,963,000 tons of corn was cut for silos in 1933, compared with 31,184,000 tons in 1932 and 33,034,000 tons in 1931.

29 NATIONS BUY MORE U. S. GOODS THAN LAST YEAR

Gains Reported by 14 Western Countries.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, Dec. 25.—Larger purchases of American merchandise by 29 countries in the first nine months of 1933, compared with the corresponding period of last year, were shown in a survey made public today by the United States chamber of commerce. An encouraging feature of this country's trade improvement on that period, the chamber asserted, was the fact that 14 countries in the western hemisphere increased their purchases.

Five markets took more than half of our exports. These were the United Kingdom, Canada, Germany, Japan, and France. Sales to the United Kingdom for the first nine months of 1933 amounted to $194,854,000 or 6.8 per cent less than a year ago. Exports to Canada totaled $147,797,000, a decline of 21.8 per cent. Sales to Germany amounted to $91,965,000, but were 3 per cent below those for the first three-quarters of 1932. Japan's purchases, amounting to $91,295,000, were 4 per cent below the 1932 figure, while exports to France amounted to $78,347,000, or only 2 per cent less than a year ago.

Nations Buying More.

The 29 countries, in widely scattered parts of the world which bought more American merchandise in the nine-months period, with percentages of increase, were: Italy, 20.1 gain; Belgium, 0.3; Spain, 3.4; Poland and Danzig, 113.9; Portugal, 18.8; Finland, 7; Rumania, 14.4; Mexico, 14.3; Argentina, 9.5; Brazil, 3.5; Panama, 0.3; Colombia, 43; Venezuela, 15.4; Dutch West Indies, 47.4; Dominican Republic, 13; Honduras, 8.9; Chile, 31.1; Guatemala, 14.7; Salvador, 8.5; Nicaragua, 5.9; Bolivia, 47.2; Trinidad and Tobago, 14.5; Palestine, 51.6; Kwangtung, 97.3; Iraq, 1.9; South Africa, 21.2; Egypt, 23.6; Mozambique, 11.8, and Canary islands, 18.6.

Customers whose purchases from the United States showed a decrease with percentages of decrease, included: the Netherlands, 8.6; Sweden, 8; Denmark, 18.7; Russia, 24.7; Switzerland, 11.3; Norway, 10.3; Irish Free State, 37.8; Greece, 71.8; Czechoslovakia, 29.7; Cuba, 15.2; Peru, 2.2; Uruguay, 14.9; China, 25.3; Philippine islands, 5.9; India, 34.9; Hongkong, 17.1; Dutch East Indies, 29.5; British Malaya, 17.9; Australia, 15; New Zealand, 17.6; British West Africa, 17.3.

Imports from 39 Nations Up.

Imports from 39 of the 64 chief sources of supply were larger by value than in the same period of 1932, the survey showed.

"Although dollar depreciation would be expected to curtail our import trade," the chamber commented, "the necessity for replacing our depleted stocks of materials, together with our increased industrial activity were major features in affecting the heavy increases in our purchases abroad. Nearly two-thirds of our principal sources of supply shared in these gains.

Increases Reported.

FISHER ASSERTS ONLY ABOUT 18 KNOW FINANCE

Mystery to Most of World, He Says.

New York, Dec. 25.—[Special.]—Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale university lists only 18 men in the world "who understand the real meaning of money," in response to a request by the Consumers' Guild of America. The list was made public today. Prof. Fisher does not include himself, the guild points out, nor does he include Prof. O. M. V. Sprague, who recently resigned as adviser to the treasury, nor. Col. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company, a "most widely quoted authority."

Prof. Fisher's letter replied to a request to name ten men who knew money.

Fisher Gives His Answer.

While saying he could not give a complete list, Prof. Fisher wrote:

"In the United States in listing those who understand the real meaning of money I would include among professional academic monetary economists at least the following:

Prof. Harry G. Brown, University of Missouri.

Prof. G. F. Warren and Prof. F. A. Pearson, of Cornell university [monetary adviser to President Roosevelt].

Prof. J. Harvey Rogers of Yale.

Prof. Williford I. King of New York university.

Prof. John R. Commons, University of Wisconsin.

Dr. Warren M. Persons, New York City.

Prof. Edwin W. Kemmerer of Princeton.

Prof. Cyril James, University of Pennsylvania.

Prof. John H. Williams of Harvard.

Prof. Jacob Viner, University of Chicago.

Names Two Bankers.

"There are doubtless several others, whose names do not happen to occur to me just now, as well as still others, especially among younger economists, whom I do not even know; among the bankers are:

"Frank A. Vanderlip and George Le Blanc. There are also some business leaders.

"Among the foreign academic monetary economists there are Keynes of England, Cassel of Sweden, Frisch of Norway, Schulze of Norway, and Gaverhitz of Germany and among bankers Reginald McKenna of England.

Who Bankers Are.

Mr. Vanderlip is a former president of the National City Bank of New York. George Le Blanc is a former vice president in charge of foreign exchange of the Equitable Trust company. He frequently has advised Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma. He was one of those who brought Father Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit to New York to speak at the Hippodrome.

The only foreign banker named by Prof. Fisher is Mr. McKenna, M. P., chairman of the Midland Bank Ltd. of London. The other Londoner on the list is J. M. Keynes.

Ragnor Frisch is associate professor of economy and statistics at the University of Oslo. He has been a visiting lecturer at Yale.

Prof. Gerhardt von Schulze Gavernitz is head of the scientific department of the institute for intellectual coöperation of the league of nations. He has lectured at Yale.

PENN-MARYLAND CORP. DECLARES WHISKY DIVIDEND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 25.—Penn-Maryland corporation has declared a "whisky dividend" for several hundred shareholders living in all parts of the country.

Four thousand cases of bonded whisky made and bottled before prohibition and held in Louisville, Ky., warehouses have been concentrated here for shipment to the company's stockholders. One thousand cases have already been sent out.

The revenue tax paid on the "dividends" was a part of more than $200,000 the company turned into the United States internal revenue office last week. The major portion of that amount was made up of tax on whisky, being produced at the Clarke street plant at the rate of about 35,000 gallons a day, and blended whisky turned out from the rectifying plant an average of 5,500 cases a day.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—Speyer & Co., one of the oldest international banking houses in the United States, will admit George N. Lindsay, Henry Herrman, and Charles G. Stachelberg as members of the firm on Jan. 1, and Ralph Wolf and Leon H. Kronthal will retire on that date. Other partners are James Speyer, head of the firm; De Witt Millhauser, Louis J. Grumbach, and Terbert Belt von Speyer.

Mr. Lindsay is widely known in the financial world. He retired as vice president and a director of the Bancamerica-Blair corporation in March, 1932, and subsequently became special adviser to the Reconstruction Finance corporation and later fiscal agent of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, from which position he has now resigned to join Speyer & Co.

R. W. SNOW, Secretary

CAPITALIST ESSENTIAL IN PRESENT SYSTEM IS WARNING OF L. F. LOREE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—Continuing its crusade for a return to the gold standard, the chamber of commerce of the state of New York today made public a letter written by Lenor F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson company to James Brown, president of the chamber, which predicts that industrial civilization will perish if the capitalist is destroyed. Debasement of the currency, Mr. Loree said, was one of the most sinister ways to attack the capitalist.

Mr. Brown also made public excerpts of letters urging a return to the gold standard written by industrialists, lawyers and leaders of various types of business. He also gave out an opposing view, contained in a letter written by Rudolph Spreckels, president of the Spreckels Sugar corporation, who declared that the gold standard was a fetish established by unwarranted beliefs.

"To my way of thinking," Mr. Spreckels said, "the gold standard has been a fetish built up by representations which are not warranted by the facts. I do not favor the issuance of government currency which has no fixed maturity, and I cannot subscribe to the theory that national bank notes secured by a debt of our government in the form of bonds are as sound as would be currency issued by the government to retire these bonds, if they were made redeemable ovr a fixed period of time through the application of the interest the bonds carry."

Mr. Loree said the capitalist was being subjected to attack by demagogues as well as to discriminatory legislation.

"The capitalist," he said, "the man who saves money and puts it to the use of others, does so at the sacrifice of immediate gratification and under the constant attack and belittling of the demagogue. If he is destroyed the industrial civilization, which has done more for humanity than any other organization that we have tried, will also perish. Not only is the capitalist subjected to high taxation, but to discriminative taxation, as in the inheritance and graduated income taxes.

"One of the most sinister methods of attack is to repudiate the engagements entered into with him, as in the debasement of the currency and the repudiation of the obligations entered into with him. As a matter of mere self-interest not to mention the high moral obligation, we should reinstate the gold standard."

SEE CHANCE GOLD DEMAND OF INDIA MAY AID PRICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 25. — A series of meetings between Indian financiers and British bankers interested in India under the leadership of Sir Cecil Kisch, secretary of the financial department of the India office, may do more to increase the price of gold and raise world prices higher than all the NRA is trying to do.

For some time the tide of gold which had been sent from India to England for a year has been flowing back to India and Indian financiers are pressing for revaluation of the rupee, which is now one shilling four pence to one shilling six pence.

If this is done the flow of gold to India will be stimulated to such an extent, it is believed, as would absorb the whole annual production of new gold in South Africa. British economists estimated India's stock of gold, which is mostly hoarded or held as ornaments, a little over a year ago as worth about five billion dollars.

During a year when Britain was offering high prices for gold, India shipped about one billion dollars worth of gold and now the hoarders are beginning, with the improvement of trade in India and growing confidence, to want to buy it back. For the last few weeks large amounts of gold have been going to India, and if the rupee could be revalued at one shilling six pence the flow would be stimulated and the world price of gold advanced.

Uruguay to Pay Foreign Interest at 3½ Per Cent

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—Jose Richling, chargé d'affaires of the Uruguayan government at Washington, announced here today that he had received cabled advices from the minister of finance of Uruguay that the government has decided that its foreign debt shall receive payment of interest for the year of 1934 at a rate not lower than 3½ per cent. This ruling follows the decree of July 3, 1933, in which the Uruguayan government ruled that it would no longer pay interest on its foreign debt in terms of gold, but would set aside Uruguayan pesos in Montevideo at par of exchange.

SOCIETY DECAY SEEN BY BUTLER IN PROFIT MOTIF

Should Be Subordinated to "Service."

In his report as president of Columbia university, he declared that "if profit, and profit alone, be the end sought by human effort, then society must reconcile itself to steady disintegration, constantly increasing the conflict between individual groups and nations, and eventual destruction."

Moralists have been pointing out almost from the beginning of time, Dr. Butler said, that "it is only when men rise above domination by the profit motive and learn to subordinate profit to service that the social, economic, and political orders begin to come in sight of a firm foundation and a continuing existence, with peace and happiness assured to the great mass of mankind, at least."

Lesson of Last Generation.

"It has remained for the happenings of the generation last past," the educator added, "to force these fundamental truths upon the attention of men everywhere and to turn the thought of mankind not by any means toward the elimination of profit, but toward its subordination to service."

"If helpful service to one's fellow men be the dominant motive," Dr. Butler said, "then the greater the legitimate profit one makes, the more will he be applauded. Criticism and resistance come when the service motive disappears from sight and the profit motive dominates all."

Goal of Education.

Turning to education, he said:

"It is one of the crowning satisfactions of a scholar's life that the profit motive, when it exists at all, is wholly subordinated to the service motive manifested through scholarship and its many sided applications to human needs.

"A very large part of the revolutionary spirit now in many lands would be quickly quelled could the mass of population be made to feel quite certain that in transacting the greater businesses of the world, the service motive comes first and the profit motive is subordinate to it."

Dr. Butler thought many members of the bar and not a few of the judiciary "appear to suffer from something which may perhaps be described as a sort of superiority complex. It is frequently assumed to be quite superior to morals."

CREDIT, NOT GOLD, BASIS OF TRADE, ECONOMIST SAYS

Gold movements of themselves do not insure a smooth flow of trade and easy adjustment to new conditions, Prof. William E. Dunkman of the University of Rochester says in a study of "Qualitative Credit Control," issued by the Columbia University Press. They are, as a matter of fact, likely to cause serious disturbances to the economic structure, he points out.

"This, however, is the result of previous credit policies, which have permitted the development of maladjustments which may be brought to light by gold movements only after they have existed for some time," Prof. Dunkman explains. "The corrective measures are then likely to cause such serious maladjustments as to encourage efforts to avoid them. Gold is usually made the scapegoat and blamed for the ills that have befallen the community.

"The aim of credit control should be the avoidance of the development of maladjustments. The potentialities of the credit and banking system should not be abused, but should be employed in such a way as to accomplish the primary purpose of offsetting obligations; those which cannot be offset should not be incurred, thus avoiding the necessity of liquidating them in gold.

"The functions of the gold standard cannot be discussed without specific attention to the proposals to abandon it. There are two main lines of approach. One emphasizes the shortage and maldistribution of gold. The other asserts that the abandonment of the gold standard clears the way for alternative means of securing an adjustment in the industrial and financial relations of one country with others and between various groups within a country.

"The first view oversimplifies the situation and places the emphasis on the wrong elements. The decline in prices is attributed to the maldistribution of gold. It should be obvious that the maldistribution is due to the course of trade and that this itself is maldistributed."

Pet Milk.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Pet Milk.—J. M. E.

Answer: Pet Milk company, one of the largest producers of evaporated milk, was established in 1885. Expansion since then has been mainly through reinvestment of earnings.

The company has to meet competition from two sources—other producers of evaporated milk and distributors of milk in its natural state. An aggressive advertising policy has pushed the company to the forefront among its competitors in its own line. The same factor has also built up a strong consumer demand based on price and convenience for evaporated milk.

The second quarter of 1933 was the only one to show an increase in sales over the corresponding 1932 quarter during the first 9 months of this year, but profits in both the second and third quarters of 1933 were well over their corresponding 1932 periods.

Sales for the first 9 months of 1933 amounted to $13,118,000 and net income was $591,000, or $1.18 per common share. For the first 9 months of 1932 sales were $12,106,000 and profit was $603.

	Net sales.	Net inc.	com. sh.	Net per
1932	$15,332,000	$100,000		c
1931	20,997,000	432,000		$0.74
1930	24,420,000	801,000		1.56
1929	26,897,000	661,000		1.21

On Sept. 30, 1933, cash of $1,557,000 compared with total current liabilities of $1,111,000. Total current assets were $5,179,000.

There are outstanding 13,650 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred and 441,354 shares of no par common. After a lapse since Jan. 1, 1932, dividends on the common were resumed with the payment of 25 cents a share on Sept. 25, 1933.

Paper Mark Obligations.

Investors' Guide: Will you please let me know if the following bond has any value? It was purchased in good faith in 1921. The name is Hamburgische Staatsanleihe von 1919, series B, Schulverschreibung über Zehntausend Mark, 4½ per cent bond.—R. W. F.

Answer: This issue was payable in the old German paper mark. On Nov. 5, 1923, one trillion paper marks were quoted at one gold mark [24 cents at par of exchange]. The paper mark ceased to be legal tender after June, 1925.

The revaluation of German bonds and mortgages payable in paper marks was provided for in the "redemption law" of 1925. The time limit for the deposit of such obligations expired on Aug. 31, 1928. These bonds are worthless.

ROADS LOOKING TO CONGRESS FOR FINANCING PLAN

Final Solution of Problem Is Held Desirable.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—Some permanent plan of financing for the railroads with new securities is accepted as a possibility of the rext congress. The life of the RFC is due to be renewed at its expiration in February, so that the needs of the railroads in 1934 would seem to be met, but this is held not to mitigate the desirability of a final settlement of the problem.

A step toward such a measure was taken when the Security Owners association designated Pierre S. Du Pont, a director of the Pennsylvania railroad, to appoint a committee to watch after the interests of holders of railroad bonds, stocks and equipment trust certificates. It is held likely that some proposal for a government agency to assume the burden may result from this effort.

Such a move would coincide with the proposal made by the rail way labor executives' association last week that a national railroad credit corporation be formed to meet an estimated $2,000,000,000 of railroad maturities in 1934. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, is furthering a plan for uniting the workers and the managements on a legislative program, which may include a financial feature.

The New York Central and the Illinois Central are among the railroads which will depend upon the government for meeting large maturities next year. The success of the Baltimore & Ohio in refunding a bond issue one-half with cash and one-half with new securities is accepted as a good omen for the coming undertakings.

Changer Suggested by British House.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 25.—Despite the diminished volume of business of the Bank for International Settlements, now in the fourth year of its existence, and the apparent defeat of many of the hopes entertained for it by force of "harsh circumstances," an estimate of the future of the institution must take into account the fact that it is the only existing machinery for the eventual establishment of international monetary stability, according to the Midland bank of London in its current monthly review.

"It is clear that, if an international monetary basis of universal application is ever to be restored, and to a modified extent even if that condition is not fulfilled, the Bank for International Settlements is likely to fill a rôle of steadily increasing importance in the world's monetary affairs," the review observes.

Two Reforms Needed.

"If, however, it is to play its part fully and efficiently it seems that two modifications, one of structure and one of method, are essential and urgent. First, it is necessary that early steps should be taken to modify the exclusively central banking character of the bank. To produce a well balanced, thoroughly efficient policy in monetary affairs it is essential that full account should be taken, not only of central banking opinion, but of the needs and views of industry and trade in all its branches."

The review points out that although the statutes of the bank provide for the appointment to the board of persons, representative of finance, industry or commerce, it has generally meant that finance has been chiefly represented to the practical exclusion of the other two. The review continues:

Restricted Influence.

"Secondly, there can be little doubt that the influence of the bank will remain seriously restricted unless and until provision is made for dealing in currencies other than those based upon gold. The clause in its statutes which prohibits it from operating except in gold currencies is one that can be amended by a two-thirds majority of the board and the general meeting, both of which are composed almost exclusively of central bankers, and it is reported that the question has already been a subject of preliminary discussion. The risk of dealing in paper currencies need not hinder this development, for the bank can balance its assets and liabilities in any currencies so as to obviate the chances of serious loss."

Cognizance is taken of the fact that the reparations function of the Bank for International Settlements are playing a part of diminishing importance, with the consequent drop in the bank's resources. However, it is pointed out that the bank has been able to concentrate its activities on the promotion of coöperation between the central banks, especially with respect to international financial operations.
